

Twister Losses Counted

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

"I looked at it and wanted to cry," said Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford after he walked through the pile of tornado-left rubble that had been Brandenburg.

Gov. George C. Wallace, brushing away tears, rolled his wheelchair through a temporary shelter for Alabama homeless. "It's one of the most tragic times in our history," he said.

The fury of a hundred tornadoes had rammed wide paths of destruction through towns and rural areas, wiping out the work of generations. Some towns were almost leveled.

In 11 southern and midwestern states and Canada, the Wednesday night series of twisters — the worst in 49 years — left at least 310 persons dead.

The injured totaled 4,000 and at least that many lost their homes. The devastation was awesome — damage seemed certain to climb past $500 million.

The force of the tornadoes was so intense that officials were certain they had not yet found all the dead. Five states — Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Alabama — were declared federal disaster areas by President Nixon and others were expected to join them. The designation enables individuals and municipalities to get low-cost federal loans to rebuild.

Thousands of victims lost virtually all they owned. And for most who lived in the storm's path, life would not be the same again.

The reality of having to start from scratch had yet to sink in for many of those affected.

In Xenia, Ohio, where half the town of 25,000 was reduced to scrap, women sat on the streets and wept Thursday. Their men wandered through the rubble of what once were their homes. They picked up little pieces of nothing, blank stares on their faces.

"The destruction, the devastation is unbelievable," said Vice President Gerald R. Ford after flying over the area. "You can see where the houses were reduced to matches."

Twenty-eight persons were dead in Xenia. In Brandenburg, Ky., the death toll stood at 29, and was expected to go higher.

Brandenburg, an Ohio River town of 1,600, shared the bombed-out appearance of other towns hit by the vicious winds. Craters littered with fragmented wood where houses once stood, cars twisted like the refuse of a monstrous demolition derby, a colonnaded town building reduced to a caricature of a ruined Greek temple.

Early today, National Guardsmen patrolled the quiet town to prevent the looting of what little was left. Guardsmen also were on duty in other sections of the state and in areas of West Virginia, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Alabama.

Kentucky reported 71 dead from the storms, Alabama 72, Indiana 52, Tennessee 44, Ohio 35, Georgia 16, Ontario, Canada 8, North Carolina 5, Michigan 3, Illinois 2, Virginia 1, West Virginia 1.

In the aftermath of the disaster, the story was people — and their shattered lives.

In Hillsdale, Mich., 11-year-old Brenda Holbrook was found crying. Her brother James, 2, was found sitting in a puddle of water. Brenda said her parents, Ballard and Carolyn, heard the storms and laid on top of their children in a hallway. Ballard and Carolyn Holbrook were dead.

In Monticello, Ind., a town of 4,800 where eight died and 100 businesses were wiped out, Gov. Otis R. Bowen stood in the remains of a house and told the woman who lived there, "There will be some help as far as easy loans for your recuperation." The woman, sobbing loudly, said, "But my home is gone." So were more than 150 others in the town where damage was estimated at $100 million.

In Xenia, temporary shelters were set up for the hundreds of homeless and a spirit of cooperation existed as people worked to pick up the rubble. At one of the shelters, Jerry Egan, 19, said "the really sickening thing will be when these people leave these shelters to go back and see what's happened."

Whole communities in several states remained without power. The Xenia hospital treated 300 persons without power; the most seriously injured were taken to nearby Dayton.

The Tennessee Valley Authority said it had suffered the worst damage in its 40-year history, losing the use of half its 10,500,000-volt lines, the backbone of the utility's system. Repairmen continued working today to fix the main lines, but officials said even when that task is complete some communities would still be without power.

Gas lines were turned off in other communities to avert the possibility of explosions. Classes at Central State University and Wilberforce, both in Wilberforce, Ohio, were canceled indefinitely after the schools suffered major damage. Students at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond were asked to go home until Monday.

More than 30 buildings at the Army's Redstone arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., where 90 per cent of the city was without power for 24 hours, were destroyed or damaged. A Baptist minister in Jasper, Ala., died when a tornado struck his church as he was conducting weekly prayer services.

Officials estimated there were 900 persons injured in Alabama, 1,000 each in Georgia and Ohio and 1,600 in Illinois. Thirteen Kentucky counties reported deaths from the storms.

High winds and flooding continued Thursday in the storm's aftermath, killing one person in Virginia, but in most areas the beginning of a clean-up had started. Relief agencies handed out food and provided shelter while forklifts and bulldozers shoved the wreckage into burning piles of rubble.

In some of the worst hit areas, such as Brandenburg and Xenia, officials continued to look for the missing, fearing that in some cases where whole families were involved that additional deaths would surely be reported. Officials also wrestled with problems in keeping an accurate count of the dead, and continually revised their reports.

The tornadoes were the worst since March 18, 1925, when storms hit Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, killing 689. A Midwest tornado on April 11, 1965 — Palm Sunday — killed 271.

Shattered Xenia Cleans Up

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — The people of Xenia attacked the rubble of their homes today in the wake of a tornado that devastated their city.

The twister which hit this blue collar community Wednesday was termed the worst disaster since floods struck nearby Dayton in 1913.

Twenty-eight Xenians—one in every 1,000—were killed, 578 injured and 22 persons plus three family groups were listed as missing.

In addition, five persons were killed and nearly 250 injured at Cincinnati, one died in Adams County and a postal worker was killed at Wilberforce University near Xenia.

Authorities estimated property damage statewide at more than $100 million, $75 million of it here.

In Xenia, only heavily demolished buildings remained to be explored. Authorities were not certain whether more bodies would be found.

City Manager Robert Stewart did not know if any of the missing were among unidentified dead or were among hospitalized victims.

Stewart looked to the future as men and equipment were rushed in to start the clean-up and rebuilding of the city.

"We have a series of planners working on all types of plans," he said, "housing and the business community."

Damage estimates from the storms, approached $25 million in Cincinnati, another $3 to $3.5 million at London and Columbus.

President Nixon declared Ohio and four other states disaster areas. Federal officials moved in Thursday to begin arranging emergency loans for rebuilding houses and businesses.

U.S. Sens. Robert Taft and Howard Metzenbaum, of Ohio, scheduled visits to Xenia today. U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown Jr., also announced he would visit the city.

Gov. John J. Gilligan made two trips to the stricken area, the second by helicopter.

"This is unbelievable," he said several times while looking down on the path of the storm. "It's as if the tornado had a road map and followed Ohio 42 from Saylor Park (a Cincinnati residential area) through Mason and Lebanon and Xenia and London."

At nearby Central State University, many buildings lay in ruins and the campus was closed. Arrangements were made to send some students home. Others were offered free quarters until they could decide their future.

"I just came to say 'cool it,'" Gilligan told a group on campus. "Central State will live and serve Ohio for a long time to come."

An unidentified student told Gilligan of the storm ordeal and concluded "I'm all bruised up."

"The important thing," Gilligan replied, "was that you weren't demolished."

Work now is aimed at debris left by the storm. Equipment and supplies continued flowing into the city.

Some 1,500 Ohio National Guard troops were on duty here to patrol streets, provide emergency power and medical aid and operate heavy equipment being used to remove felled trees, knock down wrecked buildings and clear paths through littered streets.

Authorities continued to press for an accurate assessment of damage.

"We called in two Montgomery County property appraisers who worked all day from helicopters," said Dixon Burrows, chief of the Miami Valley Disaster Service. "Wright Patterson Air Force Base personnel are taking aerial photos."

Stewart said Xenia never had a

Urge Site Changes For Future Oil Drilling Offshore

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Council on Environmental Quality has recommended steering offshore oil development away from the southeastern coast and the Gulf of Alaska, in favor of areas off New England and Maryland-Delaware-New Jersey.

In a year-long study, still unpublished but obtained by The Associated Press, the council warned that "high environmental risk" would be posed by opening areas off the southeastern Atlantic Coast, the Gulf of Alaska and Long Island, northern New Jersey to petroleum development.

The council's study was the first major federal effort to grapple with the complex and emotion-loaded question of drilling for oil off the popular, sandy beaches that line the Atlantic from Cape Cod to Florida.

The council said oil spills ranging from tiny to large probably would occur during offshore operations and could damage beaches and wetlands.

It concluded that spills off northern New Jersey and Long Island probably would reach land more frequently and more quickly, because of ocean currents near shore, than spills farther south off Delaware and Maryland, or farther north off New England.

Fear Patricia Hearst Dead, Latest Tape Merely Trick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fears that Patricia Hearst is dead and that her latest communique may be a trick have been expressed by an attorney as the FBI vowed to keep pressure on its two-month hunt for the terrorists' kidnaper hideout.

"I do have serious concern that the girl is dead and that Wednesday's tape communication may have been a cover-up," said attorney Vincent Hallinan in an interview Thursday.

Hallinan is one of three trustees of a $4 million fund set up by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation to provide more free food for poor people if Miss Hearst is released unharmed. Food worth $2 million already has been given away.

The latest communique from Miss Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army, in which she said she has become an SLA member, did not contain any time reference to indicate Spills in the Gulf of Alaska would also be likely to reach shore.

Furthermore, the council said, offshore development could have strong impacts on land by bringing with it new refineries, petrochemical plants, population growth and related development.

"Serious consideration must be given to postponing leasing in an OCS (outer continental shelf) region where oil cannot be safely produced and safely transported to markets because of significant threats of earthquakes, tsunamis (tidal waves) and severe storms," the council also said.

Those descriptions clearly applied to the Gulf of Alaska, where the council noted the frequency of earthquakes, tsunamis and storms, and the probability that spilled oil would reach shore.

They also applied to the southeastern Atlantic coast which, the council noted, "experiences storm conditions which are more severe than those prevalent in either the Gulf of Alaska or the North Sea."

The council said that "less risk would face development" off New England and the mid-Atlantic.

The council concluded that new offshore oil development would be acceptable, provided great care is taken to protect the environment.

when it was made, said Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the case.

"I believe this was the first one without a date on it," he said Thursday.

Hallinan voiced concern about the last message, saying, "The tape of her voice could have been made at any time."

FBI Director Clarence Kelley said in a brief statement from his Washington office Thursday that the investigation of Miss Hearst's kidnapping Feb. 4 from her Berkeley apartment is continuing.

In the tape-recorded communique delivered to San Francisco radio station KSAN Wednesday, Miss Hearst said her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, was a "corporate liar," and announced she had decided to join the SLA.

The SLA is described as a small

MOTEL DEBRIS—Raymond Reichelderfer, Route 4, was buried under rubble in front of the car in the photo. He was staying in a motel in Xenia Wednesday when the tornado struck. Reichelderfer said one person was carried out of the motel on a stretcher and several were cut and bruised badly but no one was killed. He sustained only a couple of minor scratches.

"It's unbelievable," Raymond Reichelderfer, Route 4, who was in Xenia when the tornado struck Wednesday reports.

A claims adjuster for State Auto Insurance Co., Reichelderfer normally stays in Xenia when he is working in the southwest area of the state.

"I just got in the motel room, kicked off my shoes, removed my tie and started doing a little paper work. Something told me to go look out the window and I saw this giant whirlwind. It was not funnel shaped when I first saw it, but more like the whirlwinds that we see in dry summer weather."

"I put my shoes back on and came back to the window. Then I saw the funnel. It would come down to the ground and the end would disappear, and then it would come down again."

"I thought, 'My God, it's a tornado and it's coming right at me.' I watched it out the window until I saw a big building about half a block away go up."

"I tried to crawl under the bed and I couldn't, so I grabbed a chair and pulled it over my head."

"Then I heard this great big roar and debris started falling. I thought it would never quit falling, but it finally did."

"After it was all over, I was pinned from the waist down under the rubble, but I could move and knew I was all right."

"I pulled myself free and walked around for half an hour to 45 minutes. I wanted to call my wife (Ruth) and let her know I was all right."

"I finally found a couple who lived on the edge of Xenia out of the path of the tornado who offered to drive me to the nearest telephone. The traffic was terrific."

"Rain soaked and dirty, they left me off across a field from a telephone. I walked over, and finally got in touch with the Circleville Police Department. They notified Sheriff Dwight Radcliff who told Ruth I was all right."

"I was three or four miles out in the country. I waited for the couple to come back, but somehow I had missed them. So I hitchhiked to Dayton where I knew an associate with a company car. I got his car and came home. I got here about midnight."

Reichelderfer said he at first did not realize it was a tornado, but when he began to see things flying through the air that he recognized as parts of houses there was no doubt in his mind what it was.

Bullet Wound Fatal In Cincinnati Holdup

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police today continued the search for a man who held up a bar near the Hamilton County Courthouse Wednesday night, killing one of the patrons.

Paul H. Even, 53, of Cincinnati, died Thursday afternoon of a bullet wound. He and four others were robbed by the gunman, police said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices fell back sharply in the stock market today, battered by a new round of increases in banks' prime lending rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 10.41 at 848.48, and losers dominated gainers by about 8 to 3 on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading remained very light.

Analysts said buying interest was severely dampened by the continuing rise of the prime rate. New York's First National City Bank raised its prime this morning from 9½ to 9¾ per cent, and numerous other banks quickly posted similar increases.

Digital Equipment was the Big Board's most-active stock, dropping 3¼ to 103 in trading that included a 59,900-share block at 102½.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .44 at 96.09.

Watercraft Division Sponsors Safety Contest

Entries are being accepted in the boating safety slogan contest sponsored by the Division of Watercraft of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Ten winners will be chosen from each of the state's six boating districts. Winners will be ranked first through 10th place by district.

Slogans will center around the division's nautical cartoon character, Commodore Buckeye. The format is as follows: "Commodore Buckeye says . . . (slogan)." The slogan must be 10 words or less, not including the lead-in phrase, "Commodore Buckeye Says."

The winning slogan is to be used on safety posters and in other division safety promotional activities, and is open to Ohioans of any age, except employees of the Department of Natural Resources.

The slogan must be postmarked no later than May 31 and mailed to the Division of Watercraft, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus, 43224. Entries must have the name, address (including county) and telephone number of the person entering the contest.

The winner will be announced in June and honored at an awards banquet.

For further information contact, District Watercraft Officer John Campbell, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, 43215, or phone 466-3215.

Jobless Rate Dips Slightly For March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dipped slightly from 5.2 per cent to 5.1 per cent of the work force in March, the government said today. It was the first decline in five months and raised hopes that the rise in joblessness that began with the Arab oil embargo may have topped out.

The Labor Department considered the drop of one-tenth of one per cent statistically insignificant but government analysts said the figures did suggest stability in the job picture.

The nation's unemployment rate jumped from a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent in October to 5.2 per cent in January as the impact of the fuel shortage spread through the economy. It held steady in February at 5.2 per cent.

The Nixon administration had forecast a sharp rise in unemployment in the first half of the year but with joblessness averaging about 5.5 per cent over the full year. Some private economists had predicted the rate would top six per cent.

According to today's report from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, total employment remained essentially unchanged for the second consecutive month at 85.9 million in March while the number of people not at work edged down from 4.7 million in February to a seasonally adjusted 4.6 million.

Since October about 530,000 persons had been reported thrown out of work mostly as a result of the direct or indirect effects of the energy crisis.

The government said that although white-collar employment has continued to expand at a strong pace, rising by more than 800,000 over the October-March period, the gross was largely offset by a decline in blue-collar jobs, mainly due to layoffs in the auto industry.

Unemployment rates for most groupings in the labor force were mostly unchanged last month. The jobless rate for married men was 2.4 per cent; adult women 5 per cent; teenagers 15 per cent; white workers 4.6 per cent, and blacks 9.4 per cent.

State Purchases Land For Great Seal State Park

State Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker, (D-Bourneville) announced the release of $19,300 by the State Controlling Board for land purchases for the Great Seal State Park.

The park is designed to encompass the hills which inspired the Great Seal of Ohio plaque. Over 500 acres has been purchased toward the proposed 1400-acre park.

Money released by the Controlling Board will purchase 27-acres from Robert and Lenneth Lyons in Springfield Township, Ross County. This is the ninth option to purchase in the Great Seal area.

The state will be reimbursed for one-half of the cost of purchase with federal funds under the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation program.

"The Department of Natural Resources is making steady progress in acquiring land for this scenic recreation area," Rep. Shoemaker said. "Preserving this historical landmark for the enjoyment of future generations is a wise investment," Rep. Shoemaker stated.

Investigation Conducted By State Patrol

A non-injury accident was investigated 3 p.m. Thursday by Highway Patrolman Lowell Hardesty. According to the report made by the patrolman, Harry J. Smith, 75, Route 2, Ashville, and Benjamin J. Ryan, 30, Waterloo, Ind., were both traveling north on Route 23 near Little Walnut.

The report stated that due to Ryan's inattention to his driving, his vehicle struck the Smith vehicle in the rear. The impact caused Smith to lose control of his truck and go off the road. The truck finally came to rest in a water-filled field adjacent to the road.

Capt. Plaul, command officer in charge of vehicle services in Columbus, was in the area at the time and dispatched to the scene. He assisted Smith from his truck. Smith complained of slight chest pains but no treatment was given at the accident scene.

Ptl. Hardesty cited Ryan for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

Settlement Made In Civil Case

At the end of the first day of trial, an out of court settlement was made in a civil case being heard by a jury in common pleas court. Settlement was accepted by plaintiff Thelma Huffer who was suing the Penn Central Transportation Company for $50,000.

The jury of eight dismissed upon settlement of the case. Mrs. Huffer had instituted the suit for damages as a result of a train hitting her car at S. Washington St. on July 6, 1972.

Danny Haynes, Route 2, also appeared in common pleas court Thursday on a charge of violation of probation. Haynes had been placed on probation after a conviction of forgery and was found guilty by the court of the violation of probation charge. Judge William Ammer continued Haynes on probation for another year.

EPA Hearing Slated For Container

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) announced today that it has scheduled a public meeting on the air pollution application for Container Corporation of America, 401 W. Mill St.

The meeting will be held at 10 a.m., May 2, in the Pickaway County Courthouse.

The purpose of the meeting is to consider evidence, written or oral, from any person, on compliance schedules of the company.

As required by state regulations, this company's request for an air pollution variance has been accompanied by a schedule of compliance, indicating in detail what steps will be taken to achieve compliance with regulations.

Individuals unable to attend the meeting may submit written testimony to the Hearing Clerk, Ohio EPA, 361 E. Broad Street, Box 1049, Columbus, Ohio 43216 until the date of the meeting.

Compliance schedules for Container Corporation of America, Circleville, are available for public inspection at the Mayor's Office, City Hall.

Drug Bill Clause Draws Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One of the more controversial features of a House-passed bill that cracks down on drug pushers allows an addict under certain circumstances to volunteer for rehabilitation instead of prison.

Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor, tried to take out that provision. In a heated three-hour debate, Tulley maintained it would "open the jail doors" for anyone who had a shrewd attorney and "a soft-hearted judge."

Tulley lost. The House voted down his amendment, 88-3.

Rep. Michael Oxley, R-82 Findlay, reduced objections to the option given addicts with an amendment that beefed up language requiring proof that the defendant actually was dependent on drugs or in danger of becoming dependent, and gave the judge the power to decide if a first offender is capable of being rehabilitated.

Otherwise, the bill makes broad changes in existing laws and provides, among other things, for no-probation sentences ranging from 8 to 20 years for drug trafficking, stealing drugs or influencing others to take them.

The bill also puts harmful drugs into categories and lists penalties for abuse of each.

Penalties for possession of marijuana are reduced from a possible year in jail to six months' probation for a first offender. Trafficking in marijuana, however, is punishable for a mandatory six-month jail sentence the first time around.

The State Teachers Retirement System is a public agency, but its executive director has refused to let newsmen know the way the board voted during the meeting at which STRS invested $11.2 million in Equity Funding Corp. of Los Angeles.

"You'll have to ask the attorney general," said Executive Director James L. Sublett. "Since that investment is in litigation we turn over all calls to him."

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, who is pressing to get back STRS funds invested in the financially shaky firm, filed lawsuits on behalf of STRS. Brown also sits on the STRS board.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, a possible Brown opponent in November, said Brown voted for the investment. He contended lawsuits are aimed at covering his own financial blunder.

A spokesman for Brown said, "That's a ridiculous charge." He did not say if Brown approved the investment, but pointed out that it was "a highly praised issue" at the time of the investment.

Rep. Jerome Stano, D-7 Parma, has been catching static from letters written to newspapers in his area complaining about the law that makes it mandatory to remove studs from snow tires March 15. Stano authored the bill.

The trouble was a big snowfall hit the Cleveland area 10 days after the deadline.

Stano said originally he wanted to ban studs permanently because evidence showed studs ruined highways, but he now is one of six legislators who have introduced bills to extend the deadline until April 15.

"He'll be all right unless it snows hard in Parma next April 14," quipped a colleague.

Central State Lays Plans For Classes

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Officials of tornado-battered Central State University say they hope students can resume their classes soon, possibly using other campuses in the area.

Central State University President Lionel Newman said Thursday that arrangements are being made for students to attend classes through the Dayton-Miami Valley Consortium of Colleges and Universities.

Without water or electricity, one of the first priorities was getting students off campus.

Buses were called in to take students to Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo and Cincinnati, Gus T. Ridgel, vice president for academic affairs, reported.

Out-of-state students stranded without a way home and foreign students were offered rooms in the Dayton Sheraton Hotel, he said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan told students when he toured the storm-ravaged area Thursday, "I want you to hold graduation ceremonies as scheduled, June 9."

Ridgel said the damage will total millions of dollars.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) I earned only about $1,500 from a summer job between school semesters. Does this mean I won't have to file a tax return?

(A.) In general, if you are single, you don't have to file a Federal income tax return unless you made more than $2,050. However, if income tax was withheld from your pay, you should file a return to have the tax refunded to you.

(Q.) Will the IRS compute your tax regardless of whether you use the short form or the long one?

(A.) It depends. If you use Form 1040, the IRS will compute your tax if your adjusted gross income was $20,000 or less and consisted only of wages or salaries, tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, you take the standard deduction and file by the deadline. The IRS will also compute the tax for Form 1040A-users, regardless of how much income they had. See your tax form instructions for details.

(Q.) My tax return was audited last year and I had to pay additional tax plus penalty and interest. Are the interest and penalty payments deductible?

(Q.) Which payments for medicines and drugs are tax deductible?

(A.) Deductible payments include: legally obtained and generally recognized medicines and drugs, even if they do not require a prescription (but not expenditures for toothpaste, toiletries, cosmetics, etc.); birth control pills prescribed by a doctor; and vitamins, iron supplements and certain special food or beverages prescribed by a doctor. See your tax form instructions for further information.

Remember, payments for medicines and drugs are deductible only to the extent they exceed one per cent of your adjusted gross income. This excess is included in your other medical expenses, which can be deducted only to the extent they exceed three per cent of your adjusted gross income.

(Q.) I have a number of stocks and bonds. What kinds of investment expenses are deductible?

(A.) Fees you pay a broker or similar agent to collect your bond interest or dividends on shares of stock are deductible. A fee paid to a broker to acquire stocks or bonds is not deductible, but is added to the cost of the property.

Other deductible investment expenses include: interest on margin accounts, state transfer tax on securities, the cost of subscriptions to financial publications purchased to keep an eye on investments, clerical help and office rent in caring for investments, safe deposit box rental (if the box is used to keep investment-related papers and documents) and custodial fees in connection with property held for production of income. Transportation and other expenses you pay to attend stockholders' meetings are generally not deductible.

(Q.) Where can I get a copy of your "Tax Guide for Small Business"?

(A.) "Tax Guide for Small Business," IRS Publication 334, is available over-the-counter at your Internal Revenue office for $1.00. It can also be obtained by mail for $1.25, post-paid, from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, and the Public Documents Distribution Center, Pueblo Industrial Park, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Krause Aids Guardsmen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Arthur Krause, father of one of four students slain at Kent State University in 1970, said Thursday night he is contributing to the defense fund of eight National Guardsmen indicted in the slayings.

"I feel they are going to have a struggle and I want to make sure they get a fair trial," Krause said.

He declined to say how much he is contributing, but he did say that "it's already been taken care of."

"It boils down to this," said the father of 18-year-old Allison Krause. "I feel other people created the atmosphere which led to the shootings."

"I know how difficult it is to raise funds and I want to help. I want them to have a fair trial."

Seven National Guardsmen and one former guardsman were indicted by a Cleveland grand jury for violating the civil rights of the slain students.

Social Security Growth

No one deliberately planned for Social Security taxes to become the largest single bite withheld from the paychecks of many workers, but that is what has happened. One estimate, by Tax Foundation, Inc., is that the recently stretched Social Security tax bite may result in more than half the 80 million taxpayers paying a higher S. S. rate than they do in federal income taxes.

With the schedule of deductions which began on Jan.

3, taxpayers earning at least $13,200 this year will pay $772 in Social Security taxes. Their employers will chip in another federal income tax paid on incomes up to $15,000, which included 85 per cent of the 1971 returns, is less than that.

Between January of 1970 and July 1, 1974, Social Security benefits either have risen or are scheduled to rise 68.5 percent, more than twice the expected increase in the consumer price index for the period.

The Social Security rate of 5.85 per cent has not changed this year, only the earnings ceiling against which it is imposed. But for individuals earning more than $10,800, the old ceiling, the deductions will continue until earnings of $13,200 have been reached.

Social Security payouts have expanded far beyond the original concept of a partial pension upon retirement. As the benefits expand, so do the taxes.

'Great Gatsby' Days

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — People ... Places

The major contribution "The Great Gatsby" will make to our troubled times is to inform the young that the "good old days" their parents and grandparents recall with moist eyes were actually pretty lousy.

Permissive, reefer-smoking kids of 1974 will be shocked and dismayed by the idiotic antic of that lost generation of the early 1920s portrayed in this buttocks-breaking long film milked from Scott Fitzgerald's short novel. Yes, Virginia, your mother (grandmother) actually did dance the Charleston, did wear those crazy clothes, did moon over nincompoops, and dear old Pops (grandpops) drank 10-cent bathtub gin from a $100 silver flask and fell in the pool.

To such kids, the revel footage in "The Great Gatsby" will be as detached from reality as their parents (grandparents) found the bacchanals in D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance." My generation didn't buy the handwriting on the wall (see the book of Daniel) that foretold Belshazzar's impending pratfall. Today's kids will laugh out loud at Gatsby's (Robert Redford's) infatuation with Daisy (Mia Farrow.) Redford seems uncomfortable in his 1920 clothes, and he irritates all other males in the cast, and the audience, by addressing them as "old sport" — his effort to establish himself as an Oxford man. As for Daisy, the rich girl, she always looks and sometimes sounds like a coy guppy.

P.S. — The film will make millions.

TV network cameramen covering spot news events — such as sports, dawn Easter services, the comings and goings of indicted public officials, etc.—have been alerted to be on the lookout for streakers. One of the nutty exhibitionists ran across Johnny Carson's "Tonight" stage recently while he was doing his monologue. Inasmuch as the show is taped in advance, it was easy to erase the incident electronically before it went on the air. But "live" TV is something else again. Security has been stepped up around the networks, to guard against the horrid sight of fleeting nudity — now a requisite sales commodity for movies and the theater and a financial boon for a score of national magazines.

Every streaker worth his/her salt must dream of such triumphant TV appearances as racing across Walter Cronkite's desk during the evening news, rounding the bases with Hank Aaron as the great slugger breaks Babe Ruth's record, and breaking up the televised impeachment vote in the House of Representatives. Considering their numbers, they are bound to break through one of these days or nights. Hence the alert. But stay tuned. Like England, there'll always be a crack-

I haven't crossed the Atlantic on what we used to call a "sleek greyhound" since I zigged and zagged over on the Queen Mary (along with 14,000 others) when she was a troopship. But it's always sad to read that another great liner has gone to other worlds—such as the world of anchored hotels — or been sold to a heartless junk dealer.

Now it's the France. The biggest and stateliest of the remaining species. She'll lose $25,000,000 this year, and to a French shipping official, 25,000,000 must be wrong. The Pompidou government has been trying to sell her to the Arabs for shuttle services to Mecca but, so far, no dice. The Arabs probably don't have enough oil to run her. She may be kicked around like the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth were, or mothballed, as was our brilliant last big one, the United States.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Those rising interest rates are scaring the daylight out of many corporate treasurers and securities officials, some of whom fear the approach of another money crunch within the next two months.

Capital is to the corporate body as air is to the human body. Without it, a company cannot meet its bills and, over the longer term, cannot expand or modernize to remain competitive.

Speaking of the longer term, James Needham, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, told a meeting of financial executives this week that corporations face a "staggering economic challenge" to raise capital.

Needham cited a figure of $3.3 trillion as the sum needed by 1985, and said large amounts of this must come from equity or stock market financing because of the already heavy level of corporate debt.

Disturbing to exchange officials and corporate financiers alike is the possibility that the stock markets might be unable to raise their share. One reason for fear, of course, is that high interest rates draw money from equities.

The Federal Reserve policy of restricting the money supply in an effort to combat inflation is coming in for mounting criticism. Some critics in fact maintain that the Fed is making matters worse.

Representative of this viewpoint is John Wright, who heads a large money management and investment advisory service. Unless an easier money policy is adopted, Wright states, a devastating money crunch will occur

Whatever, her days of grace are as numbered as those of the galleon and the zeppelin. As one who drove a nail into her coffin by choosing to fly airplanes across the great sea, I apologize and mourn.

There were times during the Senate Watergate committee hearings last year that prompted many persons to believe that Washington was the crime capital of the country. Actually, crime in the nation's capital was off three per cent from 1972.

Biggest decrease in crime during 1973 was in Fall River, Mass., 25 per cent. Pasadena cleaned itself up by 21 per cent, Lansing, Mich., by 15 per cent, Cleveland by 14. New York, during the last years of Rocky and John Lindsay, made a superhuman effort and reduced its crime rate by an inspirational one per cent.

Those were the days, old sport.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, April 5, the 95th day of 1974. There are 270 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1792, President George Washington exercised the first presidential veto, refusing to sign a bill dealing with representation.

On this date:

In 1621, the Mayflower sailed from Plymouth, Mass., on its first return trip to England.

In 1837, the English surgeon who founded modern antiseptic surgery, Sir Joseph Lister, was born in London.

In 1869, the last surviving soldier of the Revolutionary War, Daniel Bakeman, died in Freedom, N.Y. He was believed to have been 109 years old.

In 1939, all German children between ages of 10 and 13 were ordered to serve in the Hitler youth organization.

In 1951, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death as atomic spies for the Soviet Union.

In 1955, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill submitted his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II. He was 81.

Ten years ago: General of the Army Douglas MacArthur died at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C., at the age of 84.

Five years ago: A four-man British expedition reached the North Pole after a 14-month, 1,300-mile trek by dog sledge.

One year ago: An advance party of American officials arrived in Peking to establish the first American diplomatic establishment there in more than 20 years.

Today's birthdays: Actress Bette Davis is 66 years old. Actor Gregory Peck is 58.

Thought for today: A man with a new idea is a crank until the idea succeeds. — Mark Twain, American humorist, 1835-1910.

"Another thing, dear... introduce me as a psychiatrist — not as 'The head man at the hospital'!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Why is so little understood about arthritis? It plagues so many of us. I wonder why no cure has been found.

Mrs. H. S. B., Mo.

Dear Mrs. B.:

You certainly are one of many who patiently wait for new forms of treatment to control the pain, the bone changes, and the incapacitation that some types of arthritis can produce.

A vast amount of scientific knowledge is constantly being accumulated about the cause and control of the many forms of arthritis that exists. Undoubtedly, prevention and cure will be the inevitable result of such concentrated study.

To give you some idea of how extensive are the problems of arthritis, I will list part of the classification of the American Rheumatism Association.

There is polyarthritis of unknown etiology (cause). This group includes rheumatoid arthritis, juvenile arthritis, psoriatic arthritis, and others.

The second group are known as "connective tissue disorders." This group includes scleroderma, and muscle and skin problems.

Osteoarthritis and rheumatic fever are two other classifications.

In toto, there are probably 100 or more complex aspects of arthritis whose mysteries still resist the most intensive scientific research.

But we are getting there, and will get there faster if research programs are not curtailed by the lack of funds. With governmental and private support, the horizons of hope are limitless.

From the time our 5-year-old daughter began school a year ago she has had numerous bladder infections.

Do you think there can be any relationship between her illness and school?

Mrs. E. W., Ga.

Dear Mrs. W.:

Cystitis is a bacterial infection of the bladder. It is relatively common in girls and frequently attributed to poor bathroom hygiene.

Inadequate, hurried cleansing at school, without your supervision, may predispose her to infection. It has been said that "holding back" the need to urinate may also be occasionally responsible.

However, your daughter should have her urinary tract completely studied.

Say That Again

By JIM BISHOP

Dear Governor George Wallace: Thank you, sir. I appreciate your kind note and the enclosed photo inscribed: "My heartfelt thanks for your wonderful support." Support? You couldn't get my vote if you were my blood brother.

You must mean "personal" support. When you were shot, our family prayed that you would survive. In fighting to remain alive, you displayed more personal courage than a regiment of Green Berets. In my estimation, Governor, you are all man.

A few days ago, I had dinner with retired Speaker of the House John McCormack at Jimmy's Harborside Restaurant in Boston. He was a veteran politician when John F. Kennedy was in a bassinet.

We talked of better days. I had broiled bluefish; he ate scrod, which sounds like the past tense of a bad word. Uncle John has a long memory and he told me of his dealings with you on Democratic convention committees.

He respects your ambitions, but feels that you are immoderate in popping off. For example, you have been telling us for years that you need help (money) "to send the liberals and socialist politicians a message." Don't you think it is about time to spell it out — tell us what the message is?

I told Uncle John that I think of you as a first-class spoiler. He turned his lean and pale face to the ceiling, his spectacles gleaming. "Yes," he said after a moment. "Yes. I know what you mean."

A spoiler, as you know, is one who cannot achieve a goal, but has enough political clout to keep others from getting there. At this moment, I think you have sufficient power to swing a Presidential election.

If this is your role, I would suggest that you begin by burning those "Dear Fellow American" letters which have been going through the Montgomery, Alabama post office by the sackful. In them you say that "many people have written to me to tell me that they wish they could have the opportunity to cast their Presidential ballot again." In the next paragraph, you ask, if they had it to do over again, would they vote for: George McGovern, Richard Nixon, George Wallace.

Aw, come on, Guv. You know that if you can't win 10-to-one, the people haven't been listening. Why not try a sample 1976 ballot:

George Wallace, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan, Ted Kennedy, Nelson Rockefeller, Edmund Muskie, Charles Percy, Walter Mondale, Howard Baker, Henry Jackson.

If it will help you make up your mind, I will ask my readers to circle one name and mail it to me at King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th St. New York City 10017. They can do it on a postcard. The round-robin letter you sent to voters is, I suspect, a fake.

"Almost every day," you write, "a newsman or distinguished visitor asks me if I am going to run for President in 1976. And quite frankly, I don't know." Guv, you're putting me on. You're running right now.

You state your national priorities as: (1) American being militarily weaker than the Communists. (2) "Most politicians" want to take my money and give it to people who "are healthy and refuse to work." (3) You don't want the Democratic party to repeat the mistakes of 1972. (4) Inflation. (5) The politicians haven't stopped busing even enough "the people's message" is opposed to busing.

Politically, you can win a segment of support on any of those. However, like most "pols," you do not spell out what you propose to do about them. Remember Nixon in October of 1968: "Can you stand four more years of this?" Crowd roar: "No-o-o-o!"

We elected him, and he gave us four more years of it — war, inflation, able-bodied people living on relief roles, busing, etc. Personally, I think the American people need something they haven't had in a long, long time — a President who will level with them.

The last time you ran for national office, of about 72 million votes cast, you got close to 10 million. A spoiler's reward. That was in 1968, when Humphrey lost to Nixon by 500,000. Ergo — you made Nixon.

At this moment, Governor, you cannot be elected President even if you double your 1968 vote. This leaves you the option of playing coy for a Vice Presidential bid. At the end of the note, you write: "... even if you would still vote for President Nixon again you could send me a contribution in good conscience."

Say that again, Guv. Slowly...

Glenn's Candidacy Backed By DiSalle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The candidacy of John Glenn for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator has been endorsed by former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

In a statement released by Glenn's office, DiSalle said Ohioans have "the chance to do what is both right, correct and honest — to send John Glenn to the United States Senate to work for all of us."

DiSalle now lives in Washington.

Rotary Sends Students To WA Institute

Robert W. Wood, President of the Circleville Rotary Club, has announced the selection of Seniors Bonnie Bolender, Logan Elm; Dean Gulick, Circleville; Bruce Neff, Teays Valley; and Steven Wynn, Westfall from the Pickaway County Schools, to attend the 28 Annual World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati, today and Saturday.

One thousand selected students from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia will participate in the two-day meeting, as guests of their local Rotary Clubs. The topic for the 1974 Institute is: "The Soviet Union: 1974 and Beyond."

Ranking European and American authorities will speak, take part in discussions, and engage in informal questions on periods with the students. The Institute provides a unique opportunity for outstanding students to understand an area important to our country, and the relating policy questions facing our nation.

Participants and their adult leaders, in addition to a comprehensive program of vital information about an important area of international concern, will be afforded an opportunity to tour educational and cultural institutions in Cincinnati. The social highlight of the meeting will be a dance in the Ballroom of the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel.

The World Affairs Institute is organized and sponsored by the Rotary Club of Cincinnati, Cincinnati Council on World Affairs, with the cooperation of Avco Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Spangler will accompany the students during the two-day stay in Cincinnati.

Ensign Resigns As OYC Director

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State Youth Commission Director William J. Ensign has resigned for reasons he said are too "complicated" to explain at this time.

Ensign submitted his resignation Thursday to Gov. John J. Gilligan. As one of Gilligan's original cabinet appointees he has headed the commission since January, 1971.

The former Toledo mayor said he has no definite plans and expects his resignation to be effective by the end of May.

Ensign said he would disclose his reasons for leaving later.

Rural America Shrugs Off Energy Crunch

EDITORS NOTE — Has the energy crisis left an imprint on American life? To find out, Associated Press reporters talked with government leaders, businessmen and the man on the street to get a preliminary reading. In the final installment of a three-part series, the effects on rural areas are examined.

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

The gasoline lines, the renewed emphasis on mass transit, the skyrocketing utility bills are all things people in rural America have read about. But in most cases they've seen little of them.

The energy crisis, like other sudden changes in the country's lifestyle, has had some impact on rural America. But it is less noticeable and more likely to be ignored than in the cities and suburbs.

The problems of the cities generally reach the rural areas, but in a diluted form. And the millions of people who live there for the most part go about their daily lives much the way they always have.

Associated Press reporters who visited rural communities in five states in recent weeks reported there have been some changes because of the energy crisis. But the problems endured by many cities and suburbs translate into aggravations rather than crises for rural areas.

It is almost impossible to gauge what impact the energy situation will have on the future of small towns. But many who live there find it hard to believe any lasting changes will be forced upon them with the exception of high prices for gasoline.

Most rural areas visited by AP reporters have endured some changes:

—Gasoline prices are higher, and a few service stations have gone out of business. Small motels have experienced a drop in business.

—Citizens generally keep their thermostats lower.

—Some local stores report increased business because local residents are less likely to drive 50 miles or so to urban shopping centers. Other stores, such as clothing concerns, report a drop in business, and attribute it to local residents spending less because of higher prices for food and gasoline.

—Local residents who drive considerable distances to shop or to watch the local high school athletic teams are more likely to form car pools, and they aren't taking as many trips.

"There's been really no gasoline shortage here," said Mayor Shelby Combs of Nicholasville, Ky. "If it (the energy crisis) were to get worse I don't know what would happen here. I suppose we could be hurt, but we haven't been yet."

John Sutherland, an automobile dealer in Nicholasville, said "people around here were looking for small cars for a while, but that's beginning to change already."

All of which is not to say the latest American crisis hasn't been felt in Nicholasville. One local motel reported its business down 40 per cent and some residents said they were making fewer shopping trips to Lexington.

And for some in rural America, like Jay Davis, there has been an energy crisis.

Davis, 28, moved to Colfax, Wash., last year and began managing a service station with a staff of six, a large repair business and gasoline sales of 1,000 gallons a day.

"Then this energy crisis thing started, with allotments of gas always going lower and lower," he said. "We were down to 350 gallons a day when I left" to be a fire department captain. By that time, Davis said his monthly income had plunged from $1,300 to $600.

In Colfax, a wheat farming area where last year's record prices have brought a degree of prosperity, the local Sears store said orders were up 10 per cent; the manager attributed it to persons who make fewer shopping trips to Spokane. The local library said it could not keep how-to books on the shelves any more. "People are staying home more and need things to do," explained the librarian.

In Harvard, Mass., an affluent town of 3,300 people located 32 miles west of Boston, the housing industry has suffered. In recent years towns like Harvard have grown as people moved farther out of the center city. But that has stopped, at least temporarily.

Henry O'Neill Jr. Given YMCA Award

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Henry M. O'Neill Jr. of Columbus received the 23rd YMCA Ohio Model Legislature's Distinguished Service Award Thursday night during a banquet opening the three-day 1974 program.

O'Neill 39, who heads a soft drink firm, was honored for his activities in civic and governmental programs and his support of the Model Legislature, and exercise in government for high school boys and girls.

The award was presented by state School Supt. Martin W. Essex, who said O'Neill has shown a concern for youth opportunities and civic advancements that is needed in urban society.

Inquiries about homes have been cut in half, realtors say, and in the first 10 weeks of this year seven houses were sold in Harvard. Last year, in the same period, 16 were sold. Of 18 houses built last fall in a Harvard subdivision, only three have been sold.

The only service station in Harvard is open about half the days of the month because of the gasoline shortage, but the state's odd-even rationing system has ended the long lines that used to prevail.

In Plant City, Fla., a town of 20,000 about 25 miles east of Tampa, a gasoline station went out of business and there were long lines until a voluntary odd-even rationing plan took effect. But the winter strawberry crop—the main industry—got to market except when there was a truckers' strike. The local gift shop's business went up when local residents didn't want to drive to Tampa. Service stations closed early. Some residents formed car pools for shopping. Now it's getting back to normal, officials say.

Plant City was generally typical of the small towns the reporters visited. They found people coping with their problems, and some of them cynical about what had caused the trouble.

Speaking of the oil companies, Joan Stockwell of Colfax said:

"I just think they wanted more money. It's like the wheat shortage. There was one, we were told ... We were told there would be no flour. But at the store, there was flour. Of course, it cost more ... This is the kind of thing you just learn to live with. There's no sense making a big deal out of it. As soon as that damn Watergate is over with, it will all go off — there will be no shortage."

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN LEE HARDBARGER

Miss Donna Sue Keeton Weds Steven Hardbarger

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Donna Sue Keeton and Mr. Steven Lee Hardbarger, 2 p.m. March 17, at First Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St., Circleville.

The Rev. David Cyrus officiated the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Keeton, Kingston, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hardbarger, Route 3, Circleville.

Miss Sherry Whaley, organist, played a program of wedding music preceding the ceremony. The church altar was decorated with arrangements of white gardenias and blue bows marked the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected for her wedding a floor length gown of white satin covered with chiffon. Covered buttons and lace enhanced the bodice and the full sleeves were cuffed with lace. The bride's shoulder length veil was caught to a flower and pearl headdress and she carried a bouquet of carnations with pink and white ribbons atop a white Bible.

Miss Cindy Thompson and Miss Alberta Jarrell were maids of honor. Their formal length gowns of aqua blue satin and white chiffon featured bodices with ruffles on each side accented with tiny pink roses. They wore aqua blue hats with streamers down the back and each carried a single pink rose.

Bridesmaids, Miss Cindy Thompson and Miss Alberta Jarrell, were gowned as the honor attendants and wore blue satin bows in their hair.

Flower girls were nieces of the bride, Miss Cindy Keeton and Miss Connie Keeton. Master Brian Cain was ring bearer.

Mr. Clinton Holbrook performed the duties of best man and Mr. Paul Karshner and Mr. Allen Holbrook were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue street length dress and a corsage of rainbow colored carnations matching her scarf. The bridegroom's mother wore a long peach colored dress with full chiffon sleeves and a corsage of rainbow carnations.

A reception at the Grange and 4-H building immediately followed the ceremony. A white and blue color theme was used on the bride's table and a large red heart was placed in back of the table. Red and white wedding bells were suspended from the ceiling.

Hostesses were the Misses Rhonda and Debbie Hardbarger, Delena Brittain, Carolyn Keeton, Norma Keeton and Roberta Dykes.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore burgundy and blue checked slacks with a blue top and burgundy battle jacket.

The bride is a senior at Zane Trace High School. She is a member of FHA Club, Varsity 2 Club, Ross County Fair Board, former Miss Geranium Festival and county president of Ross County FHA.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, is a security policeman in the United States Air Force, stationed at Lockbourne.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brittain, Middletown; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Dykes, Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hardbarger, and Mrs. Joan Karshner and son of Columbus.

Baby Shower Fetes Mrs. Rick Sims

A baby shower was held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Gary Sims, 348 Eva Drive, in honor of Mrs. Rick Sims, 250 Walnut St. Co-hostess for the affair was Mrs. Tom Murtaugh of Cincinnati.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white carnations surrounding a yellow teddy bear resting in a child's doll basket. Green, white and yellow were used throughout the decorations.

Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Betty Sims, Mrs. Alice Neff, Mrs. Freda White and Mrs. Toni Glanton.

Refreshments of homemade cream puffs, mints, nuts and beverages were served by the hostess.

Guests were: Mrs. Bobby Mayo, Mrs. Alice Neff, Mrs. Ted Sims, Mrs. Betty Sims, Mrs. Nolan Sims Sr., Mrs. Betty Oster, Mrs. Freda White, Mrs. Toni Glanton, Mrs. Judy Callahan, Debbie, Becky and Nancy Murtaugh.

Unable to attend but sending gifts were: Mrs. Opal Sims, Mrs. Linda Fausnaugh, Mrs. Helen Fausnaugh, Mrs. Stella Fausnaugh, Mrs. Ruth Flanders and Minnie Kadel.

Sunday Baptism Service Planned

Five Points United Methodist Church will conduct baptismal services Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Receiving the sacrament will be: Brian Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Reid; Stacey Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton; Tracey Redman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Redman; LaLena Marie Lightle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lightle and T. J. Seeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Seeley.

Personals

Mrs. Margaret Large and Mrs. Harold Wright and children, Jeff, Julie,, John and Joel of Kingston visited with Mrs. Wright's grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Southward of the Otterbein Home in Lebanon on Sunday. Mrs. Southward is a former Circleville resident.

Florida Vacation

Miss Mary Davy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Davy, Groveport spent spring vacation from Ohio University with her brother and sister-in-law, Sgt. and Mrs. James Davy in Tampa, Fla. Sgt. Davy is stationed at McDill Air Force Base in Tampa with the Electronic Communications Squadron.

Miss Davy visited Busch Gardens, Sunken Gardens and Disneyworld before flying back to return to sophomore classes where she is majoring in home economics and had her name placed on the Dean's list for the winter quarter. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Norris of Ashville.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Spring is new clothes, new growth and—new books! Bright new additions to the library include one of the children's favorite authors, Jack Kent. His "Fables of Aesop" is a special version of the well known moralistic tales retold with humor. And he scores again with "Dooley and the Snort-snoot." It's the ever popular theme of tiny people who gain extraordinary power when confronted with a threatening child-eating horror—this time called a Snortsnoot. Three cheers for bravery and for this delightful book.

Another friend of children is John Lord whose full color comic figures attract and hold their attention. His super silly story "The Giant Jam Sandwich" imaginatively tells of a town's fight against an influx of four million wasps. Who wouldn't enjoy watching five helicopters and a flying tractor drop a giant slice of bread on the winged beasts?

Remember when on a dare you walked up to the door of the most dilapidated house in town just to prove how brave you were? "Ralph and the Queen's Bathtub" by Kay Choro features a boy who will be admired by other brave young readers as he outsmarts a grotesque lady who holds him captive. The setting is modern, the boy is very real and the old woman is, well, she may be real or imaginary.

Sertoma Pancake Day Is Saturday

The Circleville Sertoma Club will hold its eighth annual pancake day on Saturday at the 4-H and Grange building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. Serving will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Proceeds from this event go to the local civic club's sponsorship fund, used locally to assist needy individuals and organizations.

The menu includes a beverage, sausage, and all the pancakes you can eat. Tickets will be available at the door.

The highest price paid at an auction for a painting was the "Portrait of Juan de Pareja," sometimes known as "The Slave of Velazquez," sold for $5,544,000 in 1970 to the Wildenstein Gallery of New York.

The "Bumper Sticker Book" by Jean Merrill is not a story but a witty collection of slogans that might be found on any car or truck these days. Some you've heard and some will be new. And the kids will appreciate the authenticity of the vehicles which include campers as well as trucks and snowmobiles. The author's claim that it is just one jump from reading bumper stickers to reading easy books is the inspiration for the book.

The Berenstains have done it again! They have placed information on the seasons with so many delightfully zany bear activities that the kids won't know they're learning. Yes, "The Bear's Almanac" has everything—humor, cartoon creatures and seasonal lore.

"Mickey Mouse's Joke Book" operates on the same theory; bright color and beloved figures will entice non-readers to read. It's been said that we are becoming a nation of illiterates. But a quantity of fun reading for youngsters could reverse this trend.

Irresistible is the word for "My Big Book of Farm Animals" by Jane Carruth. Very special, warm, gentle, wriggling creatures will stimulate an interest in animals which is so needed in this electronic age. And for the Easter season what better way of expressing love than to share with children the miracle of baby animals?

Urge Federal Cut On Beef Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex., says if the Nixon administration really wants to help the depressed cattle market it will consider a rollback or possibly a temporary ban on beef imports.

"The situation is that severe for cattle producers," Price said Wednesday. "It must require severe action."

Price said in an interview that he began seeking support this week among fellow House members for cutbacks or even a flat embargo on imports. He said response "has been favorable" so far and that if enough support develops, a formal request will be made to President Nixon.

"Such curbs or embargo should last until such time it is determined that there is some stability and demand for beef back in the market place," Price said.

A cattle producer himself, Price said the $45 million plan to buy high-quality hamburger for school lunches over the next few months would not have any long-lasting effect on cattle prices. But a suspension from imports for even one month could have a significant impact, he said.

Imports of beef used for manufacturing purposes, including hamburger, have been subject to federal quotas since 1964. But Nixon suspended those curbs in June 1972 so that more beef could be imported to help American consumers.

Price said the situation has changed and that it is the cattle industry now that needs emergency action. But he admitted consumer pressure — and fears of it — among many farm belt members of Congress are big hurdles in convincing Nixon to take action. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz reportedly goes along with a view that any move now by Nixon to shut down meat imports would stir wrath among consumer groups and urban legislators in Congress. Price said, however, he thinks there is an undercurrent of support for a crackdown on meat imports. He said a big problem is to convince fellow congressmen that consumers would benefit in the long run if action were taken now to help cattlemen.

Cincy Twister Cleanup Starts

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police discouraged sightseers, while professionals at aiding disaster victims—bankers, insurance men and aid groups— moved into tornado-torn areas around Cincinnati.

Two banks set up desks at their branches to give advice and offer loans to replace homes.

The Cincinnati Bar Association sent in teams of lawyers and law students to help home owners plan repairs and stay out of the hands of quick buck artists.

Two Red Cross shelters remained open for the homeless. The Salvation Army said it would provide food from its mobile kitchens as long as needed.

"I just hope people who don't come in to help stay away," said one Cincinnati woman. "If they don't want to help, I don't want them gawking."

Hamilton County Sheriff Paul Fricker continued curfews a second night. He also blocked eight roads in Green Township in western Hamilton County to all who do not live there or have business in the area. Passes were issued to those who did.

Cincinnati offered a trailer load of tar paper and plywood free to Saylor Park residents. The area was the hardest hit in the city. Residents lost 69 homes, and 200 more were severely damaged.

No one was killed, although physicians reported 150 injured in the area.

George Keller, executive secretary of the insurance institute, advised home owners to make immediate repairs to broken windows and leaking roofs to prevent further damage.

He also suggested repair estimates be obtained quickly to turn over to insurance claim adjusters.

U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, said federal agents would be in the area today. President Nixon Thursday declared Ohio a disaster area.

He said the 1970 Disaster Relief Act provides individual assistance including "rent-free temporary housing for a period up to one year, temporary mortgage assistance, unemployment benefits and job assistance," food and legal services.

Tornadoes touched down at least five places in the greater Cincinnati area, according to the National Weather Service. Damage was concentrated in those areas including Saylor Park, Roselawn, Elmwood Place, Pisgah in Butler County and Boone County in Kentucky.

Damage was expected to run into the millions in Kentucky at the Morehead Boat Harbor on the Ohio River, according to Boone County Magistrate Bruce Ferguson.

Some 186 medium to large pleasure boats were stacked up like cordwood, he said. The marina, docks and restaurant were picked up and dropped into the river by a twister that ravaged Cincinnati on the other side.

"These are just things," said Mrs. John Morehead, observing the damage of her business at Taylorsport, Ky. Her house was also blown away while she visited next door with her son.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Advice On Generosity Stands

DEAR ABBY: Your outdated advice to the woman whose husband wanted to share her with other men really irked me. I'd have advised her to ask her husband why he wanted to share her. If it was because he didn't love her and wanted to get rid of her, then I fully agree, she shouldn't put up with it. But, did you ever stop to think that maybe the husband enjoyed her so much in bed that he wanted to show others what a great wife he has? Or it's possible that his sexual enjoyment may really be heightened if she has sex with other men?

Please don't call this perverted, or say this man needs a psychiatrist. He doesn't need one. Read the sex manuals. This is an accepted sex practice and is widely accepted nowadays.

SEE THE LIGHT

DEAR SEE: I'm sorry I cannot agree with you. No man in our culture who truly loves his wife wants her to have sex with other men. If his own sexual enjoyment is heightened by such a need, it suggests either that he may have unconscious homosexual feelings or that he consciously or unconsciously has a need to degrade his wife.

DEAR ABBY: What happens to a man when he becomes 59 years of age and wants to be young again? My husband dislikes being called "Grandpa," and is now sporting a mustache and sideburns (which he dyes), has asked for a bicycle for Christmas, and is shamelessly carrying on a flirtation with a 38-year-old woman.

Our daughter, who is a nurse, refers to his behavior as "the male menopause syndrome," and I call it "the fountain of youth disease."

What do you call it?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: I call it "geriatricophobia"—fear of growing old. (Don't try to look it up in the dictionary—I just made it up.) It's harmless, unless the flirtation has gone beyond the conversation stage.

Storm Blows Debris Far

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The tornado that whipped through Xenia Wednesday dropped off some of the town's debris many miles away in northeast Ohio.

Several northeast Ohio residents found canceled checks scattered in various places Thursday and all had been drawn on Xenia banks.

The checks were apparently sucked up by the winds of the tornado which left the southwestern Ohio community a disaster area.

The checks were found in Bedford, Brunswick, Chagrin Falls, Mansfield, Rittsburg and Cuyahoga Falls. Chagrin Falls is the farthest community from Xenia, about 200 miles. Mansfield is the closest, about 115 miles.

The checks were drawn from the Xenia National Bank and Citizens 1st National Bank.

Chickens' Fifth Edition by Titus and Fritz; and Diseases of Swine' Third Edition by H.W. Dunne.

To end on a delicious note, there's the new "The Chocolate Cookbook" by Juliette Elkton.

DEAR ABBY: I am not well-known, but I am a professional artist. Abby, you would not believe how many friends and relatives expect me to GIVE them a painting! They don't consider the hours I invest, not to mention the costs, such as canvases, paints, brushes, frames, etc.

This is how I make a living, but in spite of all the requests I've had, none of these people have ever bought me as much as a meal.

People obviously have the mistaken idea that an artist is supposed to be rewarded just knowing that someone wants to hang his paintings. Many other artists have this problem. Help us all and print this letter, please. Also some advice, if you have any.

TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: Consider it done. Now if your friends and relatives get angry with you for refusing to give them a painting—give 'em the brush.

One-Man Picket Gets Results

DUBLIN (AP) — When Patrick Kearns reported for work at a fertilizer factory in Dublin he was told he was not on the staff, and furthermore, he was not known.

So Patrick went outside and formed a one-man picket line which 350 other workers refused to cross.

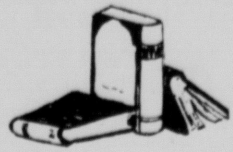

It developed that Patrick went outside and formed a one-man picket line which 350 other workers refused to cross.

It developed that Patrick had been on sick leave for 11 years and when he returned to work the time-clock had no knowledge of his existence.

A spokesman for the company said Kearns left in 1962 with a heart condition and they had not heard from him since then. Now a doctor has certified him fit for work and his case is to be reconsidered.

On Books And Activities At The Library

"You're absolutely free..." "You can save up to..." "Just a few easy lessons..." When you hear remarks like these, "Beware!" says Joseph Rosenbloom in "Consumer Complaint Guide 1974." This guide lists thousands of manufacturers and names of persons to contact if you have a complaint or a word of praise for a product. Also included is a complete listing of federal, state and local agencies whose business it is to protect consumer rights.

Mr. Rosenbloom discusses the consumer and the law, the various gimmicks sellers use such as the bait and switch approach, referral schemes, the "congratulations, you have just won..." angle, etc. The dishonest seller is usually successful because so many buyers want something for nothing. The author lists guidelines for the consumer: shop and compare; don't buy for price alone; read everything—labels, ads; deal with reputable firms.

The birth of the psychiatric movement in America is the setting for "Ultimate Triumph" by Ruth Freeman Solomon. It is a story of the making of a psychiatrist—a man who risks everything to fulfill his personal and professional destiny. For those who like soap opera—or soap boxes.

"Little Girl Who Lives Down the Lane" by Laird Koenig will appeal to the "Exorcist" crowd. Set in Long Island, this chilling novel probes the many faces of innocence and evil. Macabre and gruesome.

"Passerman's Hollow" by Jane Stuart has its setting in the Southern Bible Belt. This gothic tale, written by Jesse Stuart's daughter, features terror, storms, a bit of insanity, and a strange disappearance.

London is the setting for two new gothics, "Nor Evil Dreams" by Rosemary Harris and "Dragonmede" by Rona Randall. "Nor Evil Dreams" is a suspense novel of a young teacher in London who becomes involved in murder and suicide. "Dragonmede" is set in the late 1800's. Eustacia Rochdale marries Julian Kershaw, heir to Dragonmede. At Dragonmede, she is met with hostility, suspicion—and strange accidents.

The newest setting for gothics, however, is Hawaii. Ihi-Ahi, a volcanic out-island is where "The House at Sandalwood" is located. Panic, dread, and hot tempers confront Judith in this exotic island setting.

A British Colonel and his faithful sergeant attempt to blow up a Nazi mine in German occupied Norway. "The Long Midnight" by Alan White has enough action to interest WWII fans who have gone through this before.

Faith Baldwin's "Time and the Hour" has a familiar setting—the town of Little Oxford. The story concerns a recently divorced artist and the architect to whom she is attracted.

A World War II concentration camp in Czechoslovakia is the setting for Micael Jacot's "The Last Butterfly". A has-been clown is forced to entertain the imprisoned children before an International Red Cross inspection. His defiance seals his fate.

"Pierre S. du Pont and the Making of the Modern Corporation" by Alfred D. Chandler, Jr. and Stephen Salisbury, is a very long, well-researched biography of the head of the DuPont Company and later General Motors. The authors had access to records, business and personal, rarely available to other historians in such profuseness. How Pierre joined the company when it was a loosely controlled family organization and developed it into a giant leader in American industry is detailed.

"The Coral Seas: Wonders and Mysteries of Underwater Life" by Hans W. Fricke will Appeal to Cousteau fans. It has magnificent color photographs of underwater life.

Just new is "Questions and Answers about Nerves, Tension, and Fatigue" by Peter Steincrohn, M.D. These are many of the questions which Dr. Steincrohn has been asked to answer in his nationally syndicated column. "Journey Out of Nowhere" by Nancy Covert Smith is the story of Nancy's mental breakdown and recovery. Other books to promote well-being include "Modern Body-Building" by Oscar Heidenstam and "We Can Have Better Marriages If We Really Want Them" by David and Vera Mace.

Plans Made By Scioto Society For Funds For 1974 'Tecumseh'

The Scioto Society, Inc., has been concerning itself in recent weeks with the problem of raising money to affect the needed repairs to the theater and to hire the cast and crew for the 1974 production season. The Scioto Society is the tri-county organization which sponsors the outdoor drama "Tecumseh" at Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheater.

Last summer, despite rainy weather, over 40,000 people attended "Tecumseh," which is the largest outdoor drama in the northeastern quadrant of the United States. Financially, the Society ended the first production year in the black. However, the small reserve has not covered year long expenses, upkeep and repairs on the amphitheater and parking lot and the cost of auditioning and rehearsal for the new cast.

The Society, which is made up of trustees from Pickaway, Ross and Pike counties, has no wish to conduct another fund drive, but is in dire need of operating capital to start another season.

Dr. Roscoe Swartz of Chillicothe, fund drive chairman, borrowing liberally from a scheme used by COSI in Columbus, presented the idea of a gourmet dinner and auction at the March trustees meeting.

The First Annual Tecumseh Ceremonial Feast is the outcome of enthusiastic board support for the idea. The gourmet dinner and auction will be held on May 17 at 7:30 at the Elks Hall in Chillicothe. There will be background music during the cocktail hour supplied by strolling players, followed by entertainment during dinner.

Sound and light for the event will be directed by Alan Levey, general manager of the drama. The dinner, itself will be catered and will be an elegant affair. Tickets will be $50 a couple or $25 a person and, besides covering the cost of food, beverages and entertainment, will be the only means of attending the auction following the dinner.

Four area auctioneers will make available to those assembled a highly diversified group of items, which will be donated by friends of the Society. Antiques, paintings, jewelry, oriental rugs, vintage wine and modern objects d'art will be some of the categories represented.

Allan W. Eckert, well known author

NORTHWEST INLAND WEST LAKE SHORE
Partial clearing and colder tonight with frost or freezing temperatures. Lows in the 20s. Partly cloudy Saturday. Highs near 40.

WEST CENTRAL CENTRAL EAST CENTRAL SOUTHWEST SOUTHEAST
Clearing late tonight and colder with frost or freezing temperatures. Lows from the mid 20s to low 30s. Partly sunny Saturday. Highs in low 40s.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohioans are in for a chance in the weather. Following this week's warm and occasionally violent conditions, cooler air is moving into the state.

Readings before dawn were in the upper 30s and low 40s and were not likely to rise much today, with scattered light showers or flurries forecast in the north.

That's a considerable change from Thursday, when readings ranged into the 70s and Youngstown's 75 was a record for the date.

High pressure over the Central Plains was moving toward the lower Ohio Valley and was to bring fair weather to the state late tonight and Saturday.

Partially clearing skies with diminishing winds should let temperatures drop into the 20s and low 30s tonight and a frost or freeze warning is up for parts of Ohio. Temperatures should climb to the upper 30s and 40s Saturday, beginning a warming trend that will last through Monday.

of "Tecumseh," will contribute a full set of his books to be sold to the highest bidder.

Mrs. Clark Will is chairman of the Pickaway County invitation list and Mrs. David Yates is publicity chairman. Other county trustees include Mrs. Roger May, Mrs. William Robertson, Alvin Perdion, H. Newell Stevenson, Jr., William D. Radcliff and Nelson Embury.

The trustees are hopeful that the idea of contributing to the Society by attending the dinner-auction and donating an item to be sold will appeal to old friends, who have supported the drama in the past and new friends, who would like to become involved.

Businesses will not be solicited for donations. Friends and acquaintances of board members can expect to be contacted. A catalogue of items to be sold will be prepared, which will include the donors names. All donations are deductible, since the Society is a non-profit organization. Ticket information may be obtained from any trustee as well as cheerful pick-up for any item to be donated for the auction.

On the evening of May 17, the Scioto Society offers a delightful social event, the means of obtaining a real collector's item, and last, but not least, the opportunity to help in a community undertaking which is valuable to us all.

Volunteers Flock To Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — People came here from all over to do whatever was needed — from places such as Detroit, Cleveland, and Richmond, Ind. — to clean up debris rained out of a tornado Wednesday.

Ron Hampton, discharged two weeks ago from the Army, thought his first aid knowledge would be handy. Plenty of first aid help was available Thursday, so he helped search out the missing.

Elderly William L. Reed of Xenia put his CB radio to use. Husky Bill Hite of Franklin, who is unemployed, joined the street cleaning crews.

Mike Ferrell, acting Red Cross safety director, said there were more volunteers than the Red Cross ever expected.

"We kept telling them to get some sleep, to take it easy for a while, but they never stopped," Ferrell said.

George Barnhill of Xenia said he went down to the Red Cross to ask if his pickup could be put to use. Any kind of truck actually was in demand more than volunteers.

When the Community Blood Center announced Wednesday the need for blood donors, they reported 230 people registered and 300 more gave a name and phone number to be called if needed.

The unsung heroes included 26-year-old Linda Cable of Middletown, who wants to study nursing. She was working at the hometown Red Cross when the first warnings were issued for Xenia.

"When you know you're needed somewhere, you just go," she said, "and that's why I'm here."

Barry Hampton, a driver for the Fairborn rescue unit, said he took 17 people on one trip to Greene Memorial Hospital where more than 350 were treated in the aftermath of the killer storm.

Barbara Duell administered first aid, watched children and comforted the victims' families. Her husband John drove three station wagon loads full of clothing from Bellbrook while a 16-year-old daughter mopped floors in the YMCA disaster area.

The rubble was hard to believe for Jerry Egan, 19.

But the Stebbins High School student knew as well as all the volunteers that "the really sickening thing will be when these people leave these shelters to go back and see what's happened."

W. L. Mundell Is Rotary Club Guest

W. L. "Rusty" Mundell was the guest speaker at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. Mundell is president of the Scioto Society which produces "Tecumseh" at Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre.

The Society anticipates a rise in attendance over last year's 40,000. Mundell said an increase to 60,000 was predicted for this year's production season.

More action is also being planned for the play. A few changes will be made in the casting. Mundell showed Rotarians slides of the site before the construction of the amphitheatre and then of the present state of the Sugarloaf Mountain.

Following the slide presentation, the Society president answered questions from Rotarians concerning the production and the amphitheatre.

A letter of appreciation was received from the Red Cross commending the Rotary Club for its help in the Bloodmobile program. An urgent plea was also sent out for aid to all the victims of the recent tornado disaster. All food, money or other articles to be donated may be sent to the local Red Cross office for immediate distribution to the victims.

Dr. Robert Smith, chairman of the Rotary Foundation, reported to fellow Rotarians that two from our area have been selected as candidates. Chosen were Kathy Tomlinson and Tom Hamilton. This is the first time in the club's history two candidates were selected from the Circleville area.

Aaron Ties Ruth Record

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Thus far, after just one day in the spotlight, the 1974 baseball season bears a striking resemblance to 1973. Hank Aaron hit a home run — No. 714, tying Babe Ruth's career record — the Atlanta Braves' bullpen failed miserably, Pete Rose won a game for the Cincinnati Reds with some sharp hitting and baserunning, Reggie Jackson did some strong hitting for the Oakland A's and the Texas Rangers, despite Manager Billy Martin's pennant talk, lost.

Despite the slim opening day schedule — one game in each league — there was quite a bit of action as the Reds rallied to edge the Braves 7-6 in 11 innings in the National League while the two-time world champion A's trounced the Rangers 7-2 in the American.

Fourteen more teams are scheduled to get going today. In the AL, it's Detroit at Baltimore, California at the Chicago White Sox and Boston at Milwaukee in the afternoon and Minnesota at Kansas City under the lights.

The lone NL daylight game finds Houston at San Francisco. At night, Pittsburgh visits St. Louis and San Diego plays at Los Angeles.

The rest of the clubs swing into action Saturday.

The big news Thursday was Aaron.

The 40-year-old slugger equaled Ruth's mark, which was once thought unreachable. He smashed a three-run homer off Cincinnati's Jack Billingham in the very first inning of the season on his very first trip to the plate.

"It was," said teammate Norm Miller, "the most appropriate thing to do at the time. It was like building Disneyland and opening the gate. The production had been made and the stage was set."

Like the super star he is, Aaron stole the show. He lined a 3-1 pitch over the left field fence at the 375-foot mark. Among the cheers and accolades for Aaron were a resolution of congratulations in the U.S. Senate and a standing ovation in the House of Representatives when No. 714 was announced.

The Atlanta-Cincinnati game was interrupted for six minutes while Aaron was congratulated by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Bill Bartholomay, board chairman of the Braves.

"Thank you very much," Aaron said "I'm just glad it's almost over with."

Before the game, he had said: "I always thought time was on my side and I still think it is. I feel I can hit maybe 35-40 home runs again."

By scoring a run in the fifth inning, Aaron also tied Willie Mays for third place on the alltime list in that category.

After Atlanta built a 6-1 lead, the Reds pulled within range on Dave Concepcion's solo homer off starter Carl Morton in the fifth inning and Tony Perez' three-run shot off Phil Niekro in the eighth. With two out in the ninth, George Foster delivered a pinch single and Rose doubled him home to tie the score.

Rose doubled again off Buzz Capra with two out in the 11th. Capra then uncorked a wild pitch, which got away from catcher Johnny Oates and rolled to the corner of the dugout behind third base and the hustling Rose raced home. Jackson slashed a single, two doubles and a towering home run and stole a base in Oakland's rout of Texas. The A's jumped on Jim Bibby, who no-hit them last July, for four runs in the second inning and chased him with two more in the fifth.

Jackson doubled to ignite a four-run second inning. Gene Tenace walked, Joe Rudi doubled Jackson across, Tenace scored on Ray Fosse's single and Dick Green's two-run single accounted for the third and fourth runs. Meanwhile, Catfish Hunter, a 21-game winner in 1973, held the Rangers to three singles through seven innings.

The game marked the start of Alvin Dark's second term as manager of the A's. He succeeded Dick Williams, who managed the team to three straight division titles and world championships the last two years but resigned following the 1973 World Series in a dispute with owner Charles O. Finley.

Aaron's next pitching target is Don Gullett, a flame-throwing left-hander who already has given up seven homers to Hammerin' Hank.

Aaron's feat impressed Vice President Gerald R. Ford, part of Cincinnati's biggest opening day throng of 52,154; Ruth's widow, and even Billingham.

"No scenario writer could have written a more perfect script," said Ford, who threw out the first pitch. "It was a historic sporting achievement."

Reds Win 7-6 Despite Aaron

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The biggest guess of Hank Aaron's two baseball decades has hauled the ageless Atlanta Braves superstar onto the same home run plateau as Babe Ruth.

"I guessed fast ball and he got it up a little," Aaron said of his record-tying 714th career homer, a 380-foot line shot off Jack Billingham on his first swing of the 1974 season Thursday.

Now the 40-year-old Aaron is itching to pass the fabled Bambino's record, once considered the game's most unattainable record.

"I'm going to play Saturday," Aaron promised after the 7-6, 11-inning loss to the Cincinnati Reds, "and I'm going to play the game the way it was supposed to be played."

Tiger Tracksters Rip Miami Trace

Circleville's track team turned in another high-point performance Thursday as the Tigers rolled to a 91-27 win over Miami Trace on the Panthers' oval.

The Red and Black cindersmen grabbed 11 of 14 first places, nine seconds and picked up nine third place spots.

Gaining wins for the Tigers were: Tom England, discus; Herbie Sturgell, 120 high hurdles; Warren Yamarick, 100; John Stevens, mile run; John Ankrom, 440; Frank Plescia, 180 low hurdles; Doug Palm, 880; Rick Sampill, 220; Matt McGowan, 2-mile; 880 relay team, Warren Yamarick, Tim Strawser, Scott Simpson, Jeff Danford; mile relay team, Robin Martin, John McCoy, Mike McCoy, John Ankrom.

Circleville will compete in the Chillicothe Relays 1 p.m. Saturday.

Here are the results of the meet:

Shot — Warnock (MT), Glendall (MT), Bowman (C). 47 feet 11½ inches.

Discus — England (C), Bowman (C), Moore (C). 123 feet 2½ inches.

Long Jump — King (MT), Underwood (C), Plescia (C). 17 feet 11 inches.

High Jump — Steinhauser (MT), Plescia (C), Moore (C). 5 feet 8 inches.

120 HH — Sturgell (C), Danford (C), Plescia (C). 17.4.

100-Yard Dash — Yamarick (C), Sampill (C), Strawser and Simpson (C) tie. 10.6.

880 Relay — Circleville (Yamarick, Strawser, Simpson, Danford). 1:41.8.

440 Dash — Ankrom (C), King (MT), Martin (C). 56.2.

180 LH — Plescia (C), Sturgell (C), Erum and Neff (MT) tie. 24.0.

220-Yard Dash — Sampill (C), Yamarick (C), Strawser (C). 21.5.

Mile Relay — Circleville (Martin, J. McCoy, M. McCoy, Ankrom). 3:52.0.

The pole vault was not held due to poor condition of the pit.

Billingham more than the pitch that earned him an unwanted spot in the game's record books.

"Seven hundred and 14 doesn't mean that much to me," said the 31-year-old righthander, who had yielded five previous Aaron homers. "I was thinking about the two men on base and being behind 3-0."

Billingham was talking to writers when Pete Rose scored from the second on Buzz Capra's wild pitch in the bottom of the 11th, taking him off the hook as the loser.

"We win? Beautiful," said Billingham, breaking into a grin.

Aaron's blast brought admiration from the Reds as well as his own teammates.

Garr, the first to greet him at home plate, said, "I just said, 'Way to go, Hammer.' Hammer just smiled."

Atlanta bullpen Coach Ken Silvestri said, "It brought a few tears to my eyes. I was crying a little bit. I felt like going up to Hank and saying now we both can retire."

Atlanta Manager Eddie Mathews, who made the decision to play Aaron six hours before gametime, said, "It came so sudden it was a surprise and a shock."

Cincinnati pilot George "Sparky" Anderson, an admitted admirer of Aaron, said, "It was no thrill at the time he hit it. We were behind 3-0."

Anderson predicted Aaron would snap Ruth's record shortly and took the chance to again praise Aaron's courage.

"If you noticed, his leg is bothering him," the Reds' manager said. "That's why the public doesn't understand this guy. He wouldn't do anything to hurt the game."

Aaron went to bat three times after the opening inning. He grounded out to third base in the third, walked in the fifth and lined out to center field in the seventh before leaving the game.

"I was the same hitter. I was able to concentrate and relax a little more," the son of a retired Mobile, Ala., shipyard worker said.

Aaron overshadowed a Cincinnati comeback that wiped out 3-0 and 6-2 Atlanta leads.

Tony Perez had four runs batted in, including a three-run wallop that brought the Reds to within 6-5 in the eighth.

Cincinnati tied it in the ninth on a two-out single by George Foster and a double by Rose, who followed with another double in the 11th before Capra's tell-tale wild pitch.

4-Way Tie In GGO Golf Clash

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — There was a four-way tie for the top spot — Leonard Thompson, Mason Rudolph, Bob Charles and Babe Hiskey — in the rain-shortened first round of the $220,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

But Lee Trevino had a warning for them.

"I think I'm kinda just still rolling along from last week. I hope I can just keep it that way," Trevino said Thursday after rain forced one delay of more than an hour and finally curtailed play in this weatherplagued event.

Hiskey, Thompson, Rudolph and Charles, a left-hander from New Zealand, all got their six-under-par 65s on the board before the heavy rains and gathering darkness forced a suspension of play with 30 players still out on the soggy, sodden, 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

The players who were stranded marked their position on the course and were to complete play early Friday morning before the start of secondround activity.

Trevino, who set a couple of season records in his stunning triumph at New Orleans last week, was tied with Jim Jamieson, Canadian George Knudson and Ray Floyd at 66 — just one stroke off the pace.

Trevino, along with Rudolph and Charles, got around before the rains hit. And Lee now has gone 90 holes, five consecutive rounds, without making a bogey.

Australian Bruce Crampton, South African Gary Player and defending champion Chi Chi Rodriguez were in a group at 69 as some four dozen players broke par 71 despite the miserable playing conditions that plagued the afternoon starters who played their rounds in a steady downpour.

A funny thing happened to Hank Aaron on his way to Atlanta—He stopped off in Cincinnati and slammed number 714 to tie the Babe's record.

The slender slammer stepped to the plate in the first inning and picked on a 3 and 1 pitch. He drilled it high and far over the left-centerfield fence and the rest was history.

The crowd liked it and gave him a standing ovation as he turned the base paths. The game was stopped and presentations and congratulations were showered onto the shoulders of the hero.

It was something to see—But in our book, and we think in Aaron's and the Braves, it's too bad it didn't happen in Atlanta.

However, Bowie Kuhn had ordered Aaron to play. And being a true competitor and a credit to the game, Aaron played. It was anti climatic after the bomb as the fans turned their attention towards a Reds' victory.

In Aaron's second trip to the plate he received some polite applause and on his third time at bat he got about as much acclaim as Adolph Hitler would have received at a B'nai B'rith convention.

If it had happened in Atlanta it would have been the 4th of July . . . Bastille Day . . . Redeye gravy and biscuits all around . . . the fragrance of Magnolias in the breeze . . . Southern Comfort on the rocks . . . dancing in the streets . . . Chief Wiga Waga Wooga would have stormed from his wigwam like the Indians at the Little Big Horn . . . the reversal of the burning of Atlanta and Sherman's march to the sea . . . it might even rivaled the final day of Casey O'Garrrity's wake.

It's nice that the Cincinnati fans had a chance to see it—But the Atlanta fans would have made it a national holiday.—They deserved it!

Our "fearless" forecast—We are "keeno" for Trevino in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Braves' Bats Batter Berne Union, 13-12

After blowing a 9-0 lead, Logan Elm tallied a single marker in the bottom of the seventh inning to edge visiting Berne Union, 13-12, in the Brave's first outing in the Mid-State League Thursday.

The Braves exploded for nine runs in the bottom of the second to open the scoring. The big blow was a three-run homer off the bat of Jeff Reichelderfer, deep over the leftfield fence.

Berne Union scored three runs in the top of the third, Logan Elm tallied a single marker in the bottom of the third to grab a 10-3 lead.

The Rockets pushed four runs across the plate in the fifth to cut the gap to 10-7 but the Braves plated a pair in the bottom of the sixth to go on top 12-7. Berne Union scored five times in the top of the seventh, aided by eight walks, to knot the count at 12-12.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Rob Black doubled, Tim Justus singled and Randy Pontius walked to load the bases. Greg Justus followed with a single and Black raced home with the winning marker.

Derek Morris opened on the hill for the Braves and went four and one-third innings. He gave up four hits, seven walks and fanned six. Tim Justus took over and finished the game. He allowed two hits, walked eight and struck out five.

Thom Smith, Joe Moody and Dusty Moran shared mound duties for Berne Union. They allowed a total of 17 hits, six walks and whiffed five Braves.

Once again it was the big bats of the Braves that brought home the victory.

Greg Justus had a double and single, Scott Pontius a single, Jeff Reichelderfer had a home run and double, Mark Justus a double and single, Steve Rawlins a double, Rob Black a double and single, Derek Morris a double and single, Tim Justus a single, Ron Stevens a double and Randy Pontius slammed two doubles and a single.

Reichelderfer and Randy Pontius were the big RBI men for the Braves with three apiece.

Joe Moody led Berne Union with a home run and single for four RBIs, while Rod Saunders and Clark Dupler each added a double and single.

Logan Elm is now 2-1 on the season, 1-0 in league play, and will be at Millersport 4:15 p.m. Monday in a Mid-State contest.

What an unsettling week this one has been and for no particular reason. A possible touch of spring fever, I guess. Amy is back in school after being absent two days with complaints of sore throat, headache, leg ache and general aches and pains. Others around town afflicted with the same symptoms have been Maria Cristina Ramos, T-Bird (Teresa) Graffis and Paula Lemaster.

'Twas a busy weekend at this household what with everyone attending the Schleich-Wright wedding Saturday evening and then later on it was our pleasure to have Carl and Nancy Reichelderfer and their Carla Ann, Julie and John and their exchange daughter from Brazil, Leticia, Cipriano Marco from Logan Elm district, Marabel Drummond with Joy Lynn, Sandee and exchange daughter Martha from Colombia, Dolly Thompson and exchange son Alejandro also from Colombia, Maria Cristina Ramos from Brazil join us and our exchange daughter Maria Martha Arguello from Nicaragua for a very lively evening of much fun.

Sunday we enjoyed the company of my mother, Mrs. Earl Hardman of Chillicothe and my sister Norma and her better half John Gillfillan and their Jo Lynne of near Piqua. With the three G's was a friend of Jo's by the name of Heidi (last name was lost in the shuffle).

Hey, by the way, something new has been added to the "social life" of our village. Starting this past Friday night euchre will be played every other Friday night at the Legion Hall. John Hooks and company will be in charge of arrangements. The crowd was fairly good this last week and it is hoped that April 12 there will be an even larger group gathered to test their wits and skill. Time: 8 p.m. And David

Three Calls Answered By Firemen

Three fire calls were answered by the Circleville Fire Department since Thursday afternoon.

A flame in the incinerator room at Heck's department store on Route 23 was extinguished by firemen at 4:47 p.m. yesterday. The fire was caused by a blow back of burning trash from the incinerator. No damage was reported.

William Uhl, 505 Stella Ave., reported an auto fire later Thursday at 7:25 p.m. Uhl's vehicle caught fire on Half Avenue when the gasoline line around the carburetor ruptured. Firemen estimated the damage to the car at $10.

An early morning fire at the Container Corporation of America plant was reported by Raymond Williams at 5:05 a.m. today. The fire was caused by a mixture of paper and hydraulic fluid around the dryer rolls. Loss of the equipment at the plant is still undetermined. The fire took no toll on the building.

Metzenbaum Votes For Debate Cloture

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and 59 other senators voted in favor of cloture to shut off debate on the campaign reform bill, but the move failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority.

Among the 36 senators voting against cloture was Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Schleich, I will not tell everybody that you did not play too well—after all, maybe it wasn't you but your partners—right?

Cancer Crusade

This coming Sunday, crusaders will be out in force knocking on all doors for contributions to the 1974 Cancer Drive. We urge villagers to support this worthy cause as generously this year as they have in other years. As chairman of the drive for our town I was quite interested in literature received that shows a breakdown of how monies are allocated.

Research receives 30.3 per cent; public education 18. per cent; professional education 10.9 per cent; patient services 13. per cent; community services 6.6 per cent; fund raising 11.2 per cent; and management and general 10. per cent.

Cancer's 7 warning signals are ingeniously spelled out into the word CAUTION—Change in bowel or bladder habits; A sore that does not heal; Unusual bleeding or discharge; Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere; Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing; Obvious change in wart or mole; Nagging cough or hoarseness. Should you experience any of these symptoms you should seek medical attention promptly.

Pain is the color of Paul Drummond's world for the time being. Paul had the misfortune to be on a ladder when it went kaput and he fell suffering a crushed vertebrae and is a patient at Berger Hospital. We trust he will mind the p's and q's set forth by his doctor and will soon be all better. And may the ladder that broke go where all bad ladders should go when they have misbehaved.

Holy Week Services

Following the theme "New Life" the Williamsport United Methodist Church and the Church of Christ in Christian Union will hold Union Holy Week Services beginning Sunday through Friday. Song leaders will be the well known Jack and Doris Born with special music provided each evening.

The schedule is as follows: United Methodist Church—Sunday, Easter Cantata; Monday, Sunday School Night; Tuesday, Senior Citizen Night. Church of Christ—Wednesday Young Adult Night; Thursday, Youth Night and Holy Communion; Friday, Family Night.

The ministers of the respective churches, the Rev. Richard Crosby and the Rev. Norval Shepard invite each and everyone to come and worship each evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. Nursery care will be provided for the youngsters.

Be with you again next week be the Lord willing. Take care.

French Elections Scheduled May 5

PARIS (AP) — France will vote for a successor to President Georges Pompidou May 5, the government announced today as politicians jostled for position in the race.

If no candidate wins a majority in the first round, a second round will be held May 19 matching the two biggest votegetters in the May 5th balloting.

The decision, reported to newsmen by Agriculture Minister Raymond Marcellin, came at a cabinet meeting held while leaders from all parts of the world were converging on Paris for a memorial service for Pompidou.

President Nixon was due late in the day to attend the requiem mass in Notre Dame Cathedral Saturday morning. The White House said Nixon would return home Saturday evening and had no plans for "substantive meetings" with other leaders attending the memorial.

The mourners will include Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, East German Premier Willi Stoph, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his predecessor Edward Heath, Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan.

Pompidou died Tuesday at the age of 62, two years before the end of his seven-year term. He was buried Thursday in a simple private ceremony in the cemetery near his country home in the village of Orville, 35 miles from Paris.

Two Gaullist candidates for the succession — former Premiers Jacques Chaban-Delmas and Edgar Faure — announced Thursday, and Socialist party chief Francois Mitterrand was also certain. Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing was also a prospective challenger to Chaban-Delmas and Faure for the anti-Left vote.

Criminal Cases Show Decrease During March

A record low of 253 criminal cases were filed during the month of March, announced by Naomi Houghton, clerk of Circleville Municipal Court.

Total for fines, costs and bond forfeitures was $9,615.86. Of this amount the city of Circleville will receive $4,190.45, and Pickaway County, $2,722.82. Total due to the treasurer of the state is $1,826.39. Sheriff of Pickaway County will receive $155.60, with other disbursements totaling $720.60.

Criminal cases finished numbered 277. The number of cases in which all or part of the fines and costs were suspended was 11 while the amount of fines and costs suspended totalled $769.

Nineteen civil cases were filed with 11 cases concluded. The total due to the city for civil cases was $173.11.

The number of small claims filed was 90. Sixty-eight cases were finished leaving the amount due to the city at $282.15.

election must be held April 28 or May 5, with a runoff two weeks later if no candidate gets a majority. The betting so far is that Chaban-Delmas and Mitterrand will meet in the runoff.

Chaban-Delmas, the 59-year-old mayor of Bordeaux, was Pompidou's first premier and has wide support among Gaullist party officials. Pompidou fired him in 1972 because of scandals in government circles.

Faure, 65, is president of the National Assembly with possibly more support than Chaban-Delmas outside

Criminal Costs Total $3,689

The amount of $3,689.63 in criminal costs subsidies, will be distributed to Pickaway County, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The state pays, on a monthly basis, for the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons convicted of felony crimes under the criminal costs subsidy program.

The money is appropriated by the legislature to the Auditor's office for this purpose.

Actor Joe Flynn Beaten, Robbed

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — "I really thought they were going to kill me," reports television actor Joe Flynn of two men he says beat him up in a mugging at his motel.

Flynn appeared at a Cancer Society dinner Thursday night despite a mouth cut and a black eye suffered when he was mugged Wednesday night.

Flynn, who played the role of Capt. Binghamton in the series "McHale's Navy," told the audience he was walking from the motel office back to his room, where he and his wife were staying, when two men grabbed him and took him to another room for some two hours.

Flynn said the men, who didn't appear to be from South Carolina, beat him up, took the $13 in cash he had and a $400 watch.

Rock Davis Chosen Baseball Captain

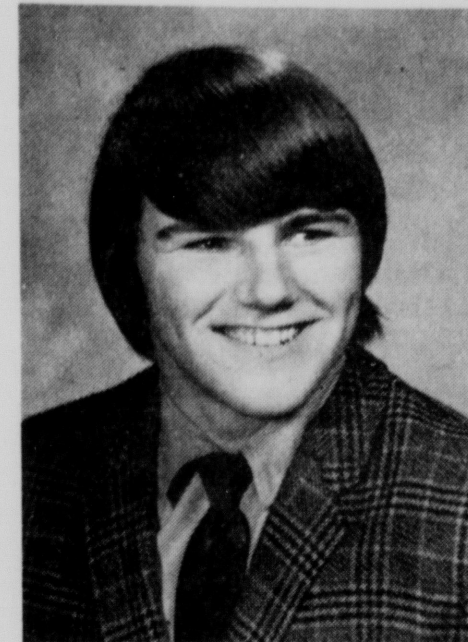

By CINDY SIMS

The 1974 varsity baseball team has chosen Rock Davis as their captain. All team members voted upon the selection.

Rock, a senior, is a returning let termian from both his sophomore and junior year. Rock has also made the all-SCOL team for the past two years. As a sophomore and junior, Rock played third base. This year he has been moved to left field. Rock's batting average last year was .341.

"I feel if our hitting comes along that we'll do a good job this year. We have a double-header tomorrow with Teays Valley and we're ready to take both

DECA Student Employed At Caddy Miller's

BILL SALYERS

By RONI KEISER

"It has helped me to speak more freely around strangers and to learn more about marketing and sales, and it has also showed me how to help customers select merchandise," said DECA student, Bill Salyers, senior.

Bill resides with his mother, Mrs. Janice Salyers, and his two sisters, Brenda and Bonnie, at 682 E. Ohio St. Bill is employed at Caddy Miller's, where he works as a sales clerk. He works 30 hours a week. Bill commented, "At first it was hard to talk to a customer, but now its just like talking to a person that I know. I have also gained more confidence with increased merchandise knowledge."

Among Bill's likes are sports, macaroni and cheese, Wednesdays and Sundays. He dislikes cold weather and snow storms.

After graduation Bill plans to keep on working at Caddy Miller's and learn more about store management and customers' desires.

ROCK DAVIS

Rock is also active in Stooze Club and football. He said he enjoys senior get togethers and participating in sports.

Rock resides at 359 Walnut Creek Pike with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Davis.

Coach John Lawhorn said, "We feel that we have a good ball club. Our pitching staff looks very strong in practice. We have a great group of seniors and good leadership with Rock Davis."

The Tigers next league game will be today at home against Wilmington. The Tigers will be in action tomorrow on the Red and Black field with a double-header against county rival, Teays Valley. The first game will get underway at 12:30 p.m.

Girls' Softball Team Sparks High Interest

By BECKY MOOREHEAD

"I'm glad that there is a high interest in softball with 65 girls going out," stated softball coach Miss Dee Grandstaff.

The softball team will be in an SCOL league, but the only teams participating in the league are Washington Court House, Miami Trace, and Circleville.

The games will be a combination of slow and fast pitching. The team will consist of approximately 18 to 25 girls.

The schedule for the girls' softball team is as follows:

April 23 — Miami Trace
April 25 — At South Eastern
April 30 — At Miami Trace
May 6 — South Eastern
May 9 — Washington Court House
May 16 — At Washington Court House

Gulick To Attend Institute

A special honor has been accorded senior Dean Gulick, who received an invitation to attend the Twenty-Eighth Annual World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati today and tomorrow. The announcement of the selection was made by the president of the Circleville Rotary Club. As a public service, the Rotary Club will defray expenses for the local participant.

One thousand selected students from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia will participate in the two-day meeting, as guests of their local Rotary Clubs. The topic for the 1974 Institute is: "The Society Union: 1974 and Beyond".

Ranking European and American authorities will speak, take part in discussions, and engage in informal question periods with the students. The Institute provides a unique opportunity for outstanding students to understand an area important to our country, and the relating policy questions facing our nation.

Participants and their adult leaders, in addition to a comprehensive program of vital information about an important area of international concern, will be afforded an opportunity to tour educational and cultural institutions in Cincinnati. The social highlight of the meeting will be a dance in the Ballroom of the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel.

The World Affairs Institute is organized and sponsored by the Rotary Club of Cincinnati, and the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs, with the cooperation of the Avco Broadcasting Corporation.

CHS Club Celebrates Latin Week

By RICK BUMGARNER

Homemade cinnamon bread, baked ham in Roman sauce, fruits, and vegetables were just a few of the delicacies enjoyed by the CHS Latin Club Monday evening when they held their annual Roman banquet in the home economics room. The banquet was held to celebrate National Latin week.

All members of the Latin Club came to the banquet in Roman dress to put the finishing touches on an atmosphere of ancient Rome. Entertainment was performed by members of Mrs. Breegle's freshman Latin classes, who attended the banquet as slaves. The entertainment included readings of Roman literature, a dance, and a special wine ceremony to Juppiter, King of the Gods, asking him to bless the wine and the banquet.

While attending the banquet, junior and senior members of the Latin Club came as gods and goddesses. Sophomores came as plebeians or patricians, the middle and upper class of Roman society, respectively.

John Dowler, president of Latin Club, stated, "I would like to thank all Olympian Council members for their help in making our fifth annual Roman banquet a huge success."

New Student Comes From Westfall

DINAH GAIL UNDERWOOD

By MARGARET MERRILL

"I really like Circleville. Everyone is nice and friendly. Circleville students seem to have more freedom to say what they want than the students at Westfall," commented the new student, Dinah Gail Underwood.

Gail resides at 200 Meadow Drive with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Brown. She has two brothers, Alan, also a junior at CHS, and Gary, who lives in Tennessee.

As a junior, Gail is enrolled in the college prep courses at CHS, and she plans to go on to college. She is active in GAA and the girls' basketball team. Her favorite things are jeans and motorcycles. She enjoys going to parties, movies, and concerts. Gail says that study halls and being grounded are the worst things in life.

To all the "Mustangs" at Westfall, Gail would like to say "Hi!"

Track Team Starts Off Season Well

By SUSAN ESTES

The CHS track team started the 1974 season off well with two wins over Washington Court House and Westland. Both wins were decisive with scores, respectively, 103-24 and 90-37. Members of the track team agreed that the new all-weather track was a big asset and really helped cut down the times.

The track team aims to set a league record by obtaining their fifth straight SCOL Championship this year. "If they keep working they can do it, but it's all up to the guys," said Jim Lint, head track coach.

Returning this year are several league placers: Reggie Radcliff, second in pole vault; Matt McGowan, third in the mile; Doug Radabaugh, fifth in 880-run and third in pole vault; Steve Watters, second in two-mile; Jeff Danford, second in high hurdles and third in low hurdles; Rick Samp-sill, third in 220 and 100-yard dash.

"I'm pleased with the depth the boys have shown so far and with the way they have been working and competing among themselves," commented Coach Lint.

Important meets coming up are the Chillicothe relays, tomorrow; the Circleville relays, next Saturday; and the SCOL meet, April 30.

Ty Ankrom Is New Reading Teacher

By MARGARET MERRILL

Circleville has a new developmental reading teacher, Ty Ankrom. He resides at 415 N. Pickaway St. Ankrom is a life-long resident of Circleville.

He attended Ohio University for one year and graduated from Capital University with a bachelor of art degree in elementary education. While there, he was active in Capital Student Education Association, baseball, and intramurals.

This is Ankrom's first year of teaching except for his student teaching at Mifflin. He said he chose to teach at Circleville because of the small town atmosphere and because he has lived here all his life.

According to Ankrom, today's youth are much more aware of the events taking place in the world and are much more eager to learn. He also feels that teaching rewards him with different experiences throughout the day.

"My teaching philosophy is that everyone needs some successful experience and should be fulfilled in the

Band's Work-In Was Successful

By JOHN DOWLER

"The Work-In was a success," stated Gary Dean, director of the Tiger band. The band spent last Saturday completing their projects.

Dean said, "Although some of the projects had to be cancelled, due to bad weather conditions this past weekend, many of the projects are rescheduled for tomorrow."

The band has been doing all this work to help finance their upcoming trip in May to the Indianapolis 500 Festival.

"The band will begin working on their marching routines for the Indianapolis 500 Parade on April 16," stated Dean.

Bandsmen are also preparing for their May 10 concert, the Memorial Day Parade, and the commencement exercises.

Wholesale Prices Increase Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose sharply again last month despite the first big decline in prices for farm products and processed foods in four months, the government said today.

A 2.1 per cent drop reported in prices for farm products, processed foods and feeds failed to offset the big rise in prices for a broad range of industrial goods as the over-all price index for March increased by a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent.

classroom. As a teacher, I feel it is my responsibility to lead the student in directions in which he can meet some success. I would also like to instill a sense of responsibility and a respect for the rights of others.

Circleville is a nice place to live, according to the new teacher, because it doesn't have the big-city problems, but it is close enough to the big cities to take advantage of their positive points.

He lists sports, traveling, and reading as some of his likes. He is presently working on his master's degree at Ohio State University with the idea of someday becoming an administrator.

Ankrom graduated in 1970 from CHS. There he was active in basketball and baseball. He was also Stooze Club secretary, Student Council president, and Boy's State representative.

U. S. Air Force Technical Sergeant Fred G. Zoltz, son of Mrs. Tinnie Zoltz, Route 1, Williamsport, has arrived for duty at March AFB, Calif.

Sergeant Zoltz, an air traffic controller, is assigned to a unit of the Air Force Communications Service. He previously served in Thailand.

The sergeant is a 1960 graduate of Williamsport High School. His wife, Katherine, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wallace, Brunswick, Maine.

Stephen R. Sturgell, 21, whose wife, Connie, lives at 225 Scioto St., Ashville, was promoted to Army Specialist Four while serving with the 37th Transportation Group in Pirmasens, Germany.

Spec. Sturgell is a truck driver in the 76th Transportation Company of the group's 530 Transportation Battalion.

Air Force Second Lieutenant Robert Tottle, Route 2, has graduated from the Strategic Air Command (SAC) KC-135 Stratotanker combat crew training course at Castle AFB, Calif.

Lieutenant Tottle, a pilot, is being reassigned to the 380th Aerial Refueling Squadron at Plattsburgh AFB, N. Y.

The lieutenant, a 1968 graduate of Circleville High School, received his B. A. degree in zoology in 1972 from Ohio Wesleyan University and was commissioned there through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

The lieutenant's wife, Constance, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bowers, 921 Circle Drive.

Army Specialist Four Lloyd F. McManus Jr., 19, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd F. McManus, live on Route 2, Ashville, is serving with the Third Infantry (The Old Guard) at Ft. Myer, Va.

Spec. McManus is a rifleman in Company A of the infantry's 1st Battalion.

Staff Sergeant Randy Sutton, the local Air Force representative, was recently named the top Air Force recruiter in southeastern Ohio for the month of February.

RANDY SUTTON

This is the third consecutive month that Sergeant Sutton has received this honor. During February he met or surpassed every goal he was given.

David Harris of 539 E. Mound has been accepted into the U. S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), according to SFC Harmon, local Army representative.

DAVID HARRIS

Scheduled to graduate from Circleville High School in June 74, David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris.

The DEP Program enables a high school senior to make plans while in school for his future after graduation. A qualified young man can be guaranteed a choice of training, schooling and, in most cases, location.

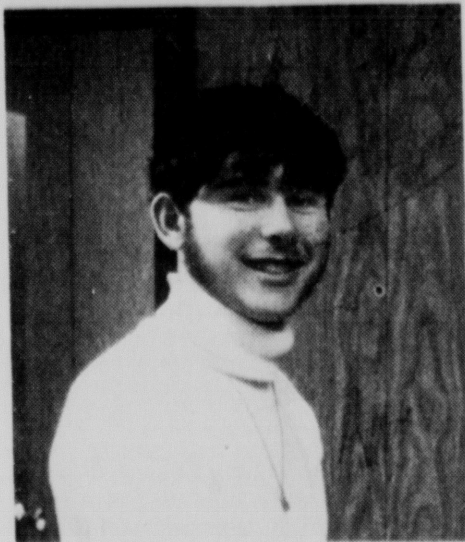

David selected the Army's 12A combat engineering school at Ft. Carson. Combat engineering training will equip him for assignment as Heavy equipment operator. This training also can be utilized in comparable civilian occupations.

The address for Ian Griffey is: 293543531, VAQ 134 U. S. N., Oak Harbour, Washington 98278.

Carl Fuller, Route 1, Mt. Sterling has been accepted into the U.S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), according to SFC Harmon, local Army representative.

Scheduled to graduate from Westfall High School in May 1974, Carl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Fuller, Mt. Sterling. He has been active in track during his four years at Westfall High School.

CARL FULLER

The DEP Program enables a high school senior to make plans while in school for his future after graduation. A qualified young man can be guaranteed a choice of training, schooling and, in most cases, location.

Carl selected the Army's 45B small arms school at Ft. Carson. Small arms training will equip him for assignment as armorer. This training also can be utilized in comparable civilian occupations.

Many World War II veterans may remember the Women's Army Corps as a glorified steno pool. That's not the case in today's Army.

Members of the recently instituted American WAC Company are training to be draftsmen, auto repairmen, translators, offset pressmen, traffic analysts and other skilled specialists.

The American WAC Company is one of nine companies in the 17th WAC Battalion being trained at the WAC Basic Training Center at Fort Jackson, S. C. Its membership was drawn from each of the 50 states including a 25-member Northern New England platoon and representatives from the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico.

It is the first company in the Women's Army Corps to be trained at Fort Jackson. Previously, all WAC's received their basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala. The expansion of the Corps from 38,000 members to 50,000 members necessitated establishing a new battalion at the Fort Jackson Training Center.

Although there is a definite need for clerk typists in the Army, the American WAC Company exemplifies the wide range of job opportunities available to young women in today's Army.

For further information on the Women's Army Corps contact your local Army representative, SFC Carl L. Harmon 474-8525.

Michael Adkins, now serving with the United States Army as a recon specialist, has returned home recently after serving some 16 months in Colorado. Mike, now residing at Route 4, with his wife and baby daughter, is also still with the Army. He has returned to work as a Unit of Choice-Hometown Recruiter. Mike is working with the Army Recruiters here.

MICHAEL ADKINS

Since going into the Army in 1972, Mike has had the fortunate opportunity to do some traveling and attending Army schools, plus the chance to further his college education. After graduating as the honor graduate from both his basic training and his advanced individual training classes, Mike traveled with his unit, to Army Recondo School at Fort Carson, Col.

This school gives advanced intensive training in areas such as survival, patrolling, and leadership, as each person ends up leading several different patrols, regardless of his rank. After three weeks of this school Mike had high enough marks to graduate in a distinguished graduate position.

In 1973, Mike traveled again with his unit, scored a first in many years and attended the Marine Amphibious Recon School in Coronado, Calif.

Mike learned to conduct hydrographic surveys and make such things as cartographic charts. The unit's night operation at the end of this two week school was judged in words of the school Commandant to be the best operation ever conducted in his two year history of the school.

Since that time Mike has been back at Fort Carson in Colorado Springs, Col. getting in a quarter of college at Nazarene Bible College until his coming back home for the Army.

Anyone wishing to talk to Mike about the Army or Fort Carson, call him at 474-8525.

Farm Tax Bill Sent To Gilligan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A farm tax bill sent to Gov. John J. Gilligan from the General Assembly may help a planned campaign to aid Ohio's rural residents.

The Ohio Farmers Union announced the campaign Thursday. One of their objects is a farm real estate tax system based on farmland income.

The measure on the governor's desk would do just that. Under the new bill, farmland would be taxed on its agricultural value rather than its real estate market value.

The union said it also will attempt to save railroad service to rural communities.

The union said it also will oppose construction of a waste disposal sludge farm in the Lima area.

The union's board of directors also demanded that the administration and Congress take action to increase farm prices.

The board said in a statement that if support prices are not increased to more "realistic levels", it will consider recommending that farmers "reconsider their planting intentions."

High Lake Level Seen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Lake Survey Center in Detroit said Thursday lake levels in Lake Erie could break a high-water mark record next month.

High-water levels and the threat of storms could cause floods in Lake Erie, and also Lake St. Clair which also could come close to breaking its high water record, the center said.

Both record levels were set last May when there was heavy flooding in lakeshore communities.

Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron and Ontario are not expected to reach record high levels, though they may be up over their long-term averages, the center said.

Center officials said storm-induced waves could cause erosion damage at those lakes because of the above normal levels.

Ferguson Rejects Abortion Outlays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson says he'll continue to refuse to disburse public funds for abortions performed on women on welfare.

"I do not know any reason why we should permit the state funds to be used for murder," Ferguson said. "If anyone wants to have an abortion, they had better save their money. We are not going to pay for it."

But a spokesman for state Welfare Director Charles Bates says the department will continue authorizing abortions, even without funds to pay for them.

There is a possibility, however, that doctors and hospitals may begin refusing to perform abortions on welfare patients if they are unsure of payment.

Welfare department spokesman Dick Lightner says if that occurs, "That's Mr. Ferguson's problem."

"We're meeting our obligations under state law. He's not meeting his."

So far, Ferguson says he has refused payment for more than 1,000 abortions authorized by welfare agencies. That comes to about $150,000 in unpaid medical bills, the 82-year-old Ferguson said.

Some medical institutions already are filing suits seeking reimbursement for abortions they have performed.

A Cincinnati abortion clinic, The Womens Center, said it will file a lawsuit soon to about $100,000 for abortions performed by various medical facilities in Cincinnati and Dayton.

Another suit already has been filed in Franklin County by the Founder abortion clinic in Columbus. Founder's attorney Fred Luper, said he has talked with welfare officials about the payment problem.

"It is the clinic's policy that no one will be turned away because of inability to pay," Luper said. "We

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Strength of purpose, ingenuity and thorough knowledge of your ground will be needed now. Don't enter into new activities without complete investigation.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stress your enthusiasm and eagerness to do well—both Taurean assets—but be willing, also, to WAIT out results, to accept setbacks with inner calm.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Avoid present tendencies to scatter energies and to start too many things at one time. Acknowledge—and make—necessary changes in plans previously considered perfect.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Fine planetary influences. With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Here is a splendid day for handling both routine matters and extraordinary projects. New advances are indicated in some ventures which have hitherto been standing still.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A fair day. You can manage in better-than-average fashion, yet must take precautions neither to underestimate nor overevaluate new propositions.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some opposition, but also plenty of smooth sailing if you are ready to pitch in and set your sights straight for worthwhile goals. Appraise values warily.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Keep all avenues open for discussion, maneuverability. Back what you realize has good potentials, however.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Though many means for advancement exist, there is a possibility of throwing a wrench in the machinery through wrong attitude, suspicion. Beware!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You can have a fine day but you may run into some competition. Don't let this dismay you, but fight it with your good judgment and know-how. You CAN beat it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Meaningful mutual respect will engender healthier cooperation between forces that should be working together. Demonstrate YOUR good faith.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Avoid distractions from your true course, but be sure what your true course is! Accept change—for real improvement. Work even harder to realize your hopes—and expect to win!

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely competent individual, able to do big jobs in a big way, but are sometimes unable to fulfill your potential because you fear failure. Try to bolster your self-confidence since, with your unusual versatility and inner stamina, there is nothing you cannot accomplish once you set your mind to it. Many famous artists, entertainers and journalists have been born under Aries. Other fields for which you are suited: interior decoration, designing and teaching. Birthdate of: Raphael, renowned Ital. painter; Lowell Thomas, author, lecturer, explorer; Harry Houdini, renowned entertainer and "escape artist."

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — I hate to distract you from Hank Aaron's next at-bat, but there'll be joy in Mudville and other locales this summer for pro football freaks who equate baseball with drought.

Two television firms here say they're offering a summer supply of gridiron jousts from both the Canadian Football League and the new, 12-team World Football League. The jousts will last through the fall.

The summer football season — deodorant sponsors, take note — starts June 26 with the CFL's All-Star game. It'll be broadcast in the United States by Ralmar Sports Productions, which has done this since 1972.

The WFL's wars begin July 18, covered by the TVS Television Network, which in past years has concentrated on college basketball and such things as the World University games from Moscow.

The two companies say they've a total of 45 games scheduled.

TVS' president Eddie Einhorn says his network will offer 23 of those games — 19 on Thursday nights, three on Saturday nights and the WFL championship battle on Nov. 29, a Friday.

Marty Rosenblatt, a Ralmar vice president, says his company will offer 12 games, the 11th ending Sept. 3 with no further video action until the CFL's championship Grey Cup game at the end of November.

Einhorn, who says his company paid more than $1 million for the WFL rights, says he's signed up 50 stations so far and expects to have at least 130 by July 18, all but 30 of them major network affiliates.

Rosenblatt says U.S. rights for CFL games this year cost $300,000. He says he's signed up 62 stations so far — of which 35 per cent are network affiliates — and expects to have 20 more by kickoff June 26.

Although most of the CFL games seen in the United States last year were on a videotape-delay basis, Rosenblatt says "we're going mostly live" this year with nationally televised CFL games on Wednesday nights. Einhorn says all the WFL games will be offered live. Okay, now that that's out of the way, a question: Won't the two-league offering slice the summer football market a bit thin?

Einhorn says no, the CFL doesn't offer that much competition.

"Obviously, there's a little problem with the WFL, but we're going on different nights," says Rosenblatt.

Final question: Summer football, if the WFL's brand clicks with TV and in-person fans, will mean the game is with us for every season but spring. Won't that take the dollar-rich bloom off the pigskin?

"I don't know," says rosenblatt. "We're strictly a summer package, and now we've got competition... We don't need big (ratings) numbers to do well, but I don't know where it's going to take us."

"Well, I have a theory about oversaturation," says TVS' Einhorn. "If people still watch it and sponsors still buy it, there's no oversaturation."

"When the day comes that ratings drop and therefore the sponsor interest drops, then you can say there's oversaturation... but right now, pro football is the hottest thing going."

Library Thief Took Gasoline

EL PASO, Tex (AP) — For many months, the El Paso Public Library's bookmobiles were losing gasoline while parked overnight.

Thieves repeatedly siphoned gas from the vehicles' tanks.

Valentin Ontiveros, bookmobile operator, came up with an idea to halt the activity.

He suggested the two vans be parked close together facing opposite directions and the tank openings facing inward.

For his suggestion, Ontiveros received a $25 award from the library's board of directors.

Bats, nocturnal creatures, roost in deep shadows by day, wrapping their leathery wings about them like capes to keep warm. They have knees and toes hinged in the opposite direction from man's so they can hang upside down.

Find People Believe In Devil

NEW YORK (AP) — The scientific elite were somewhat taken aback on being informed that amid all the modern technological advances, a new, national study shows people are believing more and more in the active reality of the devil.

When told of it, participants in a recent meeting in San Francisco of the American Association for the Advancement of Science "were absolutely shocked," says Clyde Z. Nunn, a social researcher who reported the findings to them.

"It didn't fit their pre-suppositions," he adds. "It was mind-blowing for them."

He said the fact that Americans are increasingly convinced of the devil's existence runs counter to the scientific community's general assumption of "progressively increasing rationalism as an automatic evolutionary process."

Most scientists "want to believe that society has become so rationalized that it has moved out of the nonrational world," he said. But he added that the newly gathered data reveal an opposite trend at work.

The new study, made by the Center for Policy Research here, found that in nine years the number of people believing in the certainty of the devil has risen from 37 to 48 per cent of the population, with another 20 per cent considering his existence probable.

Altogether, 68 per cent is either sure about it or thinks it likely.

Nunn, the center's senior research associate, linked the upsurge in such belief to "times of great stress, when things seem to be falling apart, when there is great uncertainty in society and limited resources to cope with it."

"It's apparently an attempt to make sense of a world of ambiguities and to explain the evil in it," he said in an interview. He said it also made for an atmosphere vulnerable to demagogic promises to hunt out the devil's instruments.

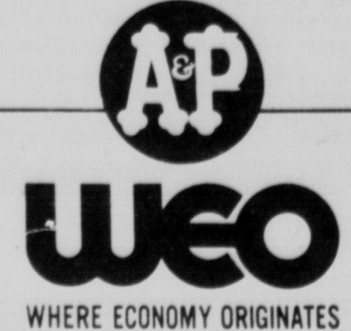

It has the potentiality of "some new round of witch hunting," said Nunn, a University of Nebraska sociology professor before joining the center, which aims to search out trends so social policy can be shaped to deal with them.

The new study, involving a scientifically selected cross section of 3,546 people, was made last spring. Consequently, the results don't reflect the recent movie-stirred interest in demonology but derive from other conditions.

Nunn said the study, by using identically phrased questions as a parallel survey in 1964, provides the first comparative measurement of shifts in intensity of beliefs about the supernatural.

While the major change was the sharp 11 per cent upturn in those considering the devil's existence "completely true," the 68 per cent total either certain or partly so also rose by 3 per cent.

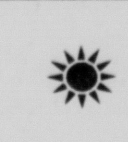

In regard to God, however, absolute certainty about His existence dropped 8 per cent, from 77 to 69 per cent, although another 25 per cent believed in God with some reservations. Only 6 per cent registered no belief, but the disbelief was 3 per cent higher than before.

Synthetic Gas Plant Is In Operation

Initial production has started at Green Springs in the reforming plant built to supply synthetic gas to Columbia Gas of Ohio and other distribution companies served by the Columbia Gas System, J. W. Partridge, chairman, announced today.

Operated by a System affiliate, Columbia LNG Corporation, the $44 million facility is the first project completed in the Columbia System's longrange program to develop major non-historic gas supplies for its customers, Partridge said. Design capacity of the plant is 250 million cubic feet of gas daily.

Affiliated and non-affiliated distribution companies will buy the synthetic gas directly at the plant, with transportation and storage services provided by another System affiliate, Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation. These distribution companies supply more than four million customers in seven states and the District of Columbia, including the Circleville area.

Based on currently available feedstock supplies, production at the plant will reach a level of 144 million cubic feet daily.

Feedstock for the Green Springs plant currently comes entirely from a stream of liquid hydrocarbons supplied by Dome Petroleum, Ltd. of Canada through a new pipeline to the plant from Sarnia, Ontario. Columbia's current ten-year contract with Dome is for 40,000 barrels of liquids daily.

Domestic feedstock supplies that have been contracted for are currently not available under the priorities permitted by the Mandatory Fuel Allocation Regulations which became effective January 15, 1974. Columbia has filed a petition with the Federal Energy Office to obtain an allocation on a hardship basis for domestic feedstock under a contract with a subsidiary of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation. A pipeline from Lima, Ohio, to Green Springs has been constructed to deliver this feedstock.

"Synthetic gas from this plant is vitally needed to offset part of the decline in deliveries from Columbia's historic gas supply sources," Partridge said in announcing the plant start-up. "The supply of synthetic gas unfortunately will do no more than enable Columbia to maintain service to existing customers."

Cost of the synthetic gas, based on current feedstock prices, will be approximately $2 per thousand cubic feet, he said. He noted that 85 per cent of the price of gas at the plant is attributable to feedstock prices, which are closely related to spiraling costs of domestic and foreign petroleum prices.

"While this gas is expensive, it is the only new major supply immediately available, and when its cost is averaged in with that of larger volumes of lower cost gas, the impact on the consumer's rate will be minor," he said.

A Columbia Gas of Ohio spokesman said that when the current cost of the synthetic gas from Green Springs is passed along to Columbia customers under provisions of the contracts each community has with the company, it will mean an increase of about 6½ cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas used or about 96 cents a month for the average residential customer.

The synthetic gas produced here is equivalent in chemical composition and heating value to natural gas and will blend with gas already being delivered through the transmission lines.

The process used at Green Springs was developed in Great Britain by the British Gas Corporation and had been widely employed in plants in Europe to supply gas needs. The process is similar to that used in several smaller synthetic gas plants already in operation in the U.S.

The plant operating force is about 90 men, with four shifts of operators, a maintenance group and administrative personnel. Payroll will be about $1.5 million annually, and the plant's local tax bill is expected to be about $1 million.

Columbia recently signed a contract with Chemetron Corporation to sell sizeable quantities of by-product carbon dioxide from the plant for processing in a Chemetron facility nearby.

Partridge said that the Green Springs reforming plant is only the first of several major projects Columbia has underway to develop non-historic gas supplies over the next ten years. First imports of base-load liquefied natural gas supplies are expected to begin in the winter of 1976-77, he said, followed in several years by delivery of gas from the Arctic areas of Alaska and Canada, and in the early 1980's by gas produced from coal. Columbia is also actively participating in gas exploration and development in the Gulf of Mexico and is preparing for Federal lease sales in the Atlantic outer continental shelf. There have been no firm dates established as yet for the Atlantic offshore lease sales.

County Board Approves In-Service Institute

The Pickaway County Board of Education, in their regular monthly meeting Thursday, approved an in-service institute to be held for Pickaway County teachers for two weeks beginning June 17. The institute is sponsored by the County Board in cooperation with Ohio University. A grant was received for $18,480.00. The county board will provide $900.00 with the other $17,580.00 being provided by state and federal funds.

Teachers will attend class eight hours per day for two weeks with follow-up sessions conducted by Ohio University professors during the school year 1974-75. Each teacher will receive eleven quarter hours of graduate or under-graduate credit and $75.00 per week stipend for the two week session.

The course is designed for teachers in grades three through six, elementary administrators, and teachers who have substituted in the county schools for five or more years will be given consideration. Teachers in the three local districts will be eligible to participate. The institute is designed to help third through sixth grade teachers from the three Pickaway County School Districts to develop counseling skills, to improve communication techniques and to better understand the behavior of children in their classrooms.

The goals of the institute are to help teachers develop (1) counseling and interpersonal communication skills, (2) skills in using standardized tests (3) group problem solving and group guidance producers in the classroom, (4) behavior modification techniques and (5) self-awareness in relation to how a teacher's behavior influences and is influenced by children. The instructional program will include lectures, discussions, a field trip, consultants, group process experiences and demonstrations of group procedures.

Twister Losses Counted

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

"I looked at it and wanted to cry," said Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford after he walked through the pile of tornado-left rubble that had been Brandenburg.

Gov. George C. Wallace, brushing away tears, rolled his wheelchair through a temporary shelter for Alabama homeless. "It's one of the most tragic times in our history," he said.

The fury of a hundred tornadoes had rammed wide paths of destruction through towns and rural areas, wiping out the work of generations. Some towns were almost leveled.

In 11 southern and midwestern states and Canada, the Wednesday night series of twisters — the worst in 49 years — left at least 310 persons dead.

The injured totaled 4,000 and at least that many lost their homes. The devastation was awesome — damage seemed certain to climb past $500 million.

The force of the tornadoes was so intense that officials were certain they had not yet found all the dead. Five states — Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Alabama — were declared federal disaster areas by President Nixon and others were expected to join them. The designation enables individuals and municipalities to get low-cost federal loans to rebuild.

Thousands of victims lost virtually all they owned. And for most who lived in the storm's path, life would not be the same again.

The reality of having to start from scratch had yet to sink in for many of those affected.

In Xenia, Ohio, where half the town of 25,000 was reduced to scrap, women sat on the streets and wept Thursday. Their men wandered through the rubble of what once were their homes. They picked up little pieces of nothing, blank stares on their faces.

"The destruction, the devastation is unbelievable," said Vice President Gerald R. Ford after flying over the area. "You can see where the houses were reduced to matches."

Twenty-eight persons were dead in Xenia. In Brandenburg, Ky., the death toll stood at 29, and was expected to go higher.

Brandenburg, an Ohio River town of 1,600, shared the bombed-out appearance of other towns hit by the vicious winds. Craters littered with fragmented wood where houses once stood, cars twisted like the refuse of a monstrous demolition derby, a colonnaded town building reduced to a caricature of a ruined Greek temple.

Early today, National Guardsmen patrolled the quiet town to prevent the looting of what little was left. Guardsmen also were on duty in other sections of the state and in areas of West Virginia, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Alabama.

Kentucky reported 71 dead from the storms, Alabama 72, Indiana 52, Tennessee 44, Ohio 35, Georgia 16, Ontario, Canada 8, North Carolina 5, Michigan 3, Illinois 2, Virginia 1, West Virginia 1.

In the aftermath of the disaster, the story was people — and their shattered lives.

In Hillsdale, Mich., 11-year-old Brenda Holbrook was found crying. Her brother James, 2, was found sitting in a puddle of water. Brenda said her parents, Ballard and Carolyn, heard the storms and laid on top of their children in a hallway. Ballard and Carolyn Holbrook were dead.

In Monticello, Ind., a town of 4,800 where eight died and 100 businesses were wiped out, Gov. Otis R. Bowen stood in the remains of a house and told the woman who lived there, "There will be some help as far as easy loans for your recuperation." The woman, sobbing loudly, said, "But my home is gone." So were more than 150 others in the town where damage was estimated at $100 million.

In Xenia, temporary shelters were set up for the hundreds of homeless and a spirit of cooperation existed as people worked to pick up the rubble. At one of the shelters, Jerry Egan, 19, said "the really sickening thing will be

Whole communities in several states remained without power. The Xenia hospital treated 300 persons without power; the most seriously injured were taken to nearby Dayton.

The Tennessee Valley Authority said it had suffered the worst damage in its 40-year history, losing the use of half its 10,500,000-volt lines, the backbone of the utility's system. Repairmen continued working today to fix the main lines, but officials said even when that task is complete some communities would still be without power.

Gas lines were turned off in other communities to avert the possibility of explosions. Classes at Central State University and Wilberforce, both in Wilberforce, Ohio, were canceled indefinitely after the schools suffered major damage. Students at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond were asked to go home until Monday.

More than 30 buildings at the Army's Redstone arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., where 90 per cent of the city was without power for 24 hours, were destroyed or damaged. A Baptist minister in Jasper, Ala., died when a tornado struck his church as he was conducting weekly prayer services.

Officials estimated there were 900 persons injured in Alabama, 1,000 each in Georgia and Ohio and 1,600 in Illinois. Thirteen Kentucky counties reported deaths from the storms.

High winds and flooding continued Thursday in the storm's aftermath, killing one person in Virginia, but in most areas the beginning of a clean-up had started. Relief agencies handed out food and provided shelter while forklifts and bulldozers shoved the wreckage into burning piles of rubble.

In some of the worst hit areas, such as Brandenburg and Xenia, officials continued to look for the missing, fearing that in some cases where whole families were involved that additional deaths would surely be reported. Officials also wrestled with problems in keeping an accurate count of the dead, and continually revised their reports.

The tornadoes were the worst since March 18, 1925, when storms hit Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, killing 689. A Midwest tornado on April 11, 1965 — Palm Sunday — killed 271.

Shattered Xenia Cleans Up

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — The people of Xenia attacked the rubble of their homes today in the wake of a tornado that devastated their city.

The twister which hit this blue collar community Wednesday was termed the worst disaster since floods struck nearby Dayton in 1913.

Twenty-eight Xenians—one in every 1,000—were killed, 578 injured and 22 persons plus three family groups were listed as missing.

In addition, five persons were killed and nearly 250 injured at Cincinnati, one died in Adams County and a postal worker was killed at Wilberforce University near Xenia.

Authorities estimated property damage statewide at more than $100 million, $75 million of it here.

In Xenia, only heavily demolished buildings remained to be explored. Authorities were not certain whether more bodies would be found.

City Manager Robert Stewart did not know if any of the missing were among unidentified dead or were among hospitalized victims.

Stewart looked to the future as men and equipment were rushed in to start the clean-up and rebuilding of the city.

"We have a series of planners working on all types of plans," he said, "housing and the business community."

Damage estimates from the storms, approached $25 million in Cincinnati, another $3 to $3.5 million at London and Columbus.

President Nixon declared Ohio and four other states disaster areas. Federal officials moved in Thursday to begin arranging emergency loans for rebuilding houses and businesses.

U.S. Sens. Robert Taft and Howard Metzenbaum, of Ohio, scheduled visits to Xenia today. U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown Jr., also announced he would visit the city.

Gov. John J. Gilligan made two trips to the stricken area, the second by helicopter.

"This is unbelievable," he said several times while looking down on the path of the storm. "It's as if the tornado had a road map and followed Ohio 42 from Saylor Park (a Cincinnati residential area) through Mason and Lebanon and Xenia and London."

At nearby Central State University, many buildings lay in ruins and the campus was closed. Arrangements were made to send some students home. Others were offered free quarters until they could decide their future.

"I just came to say 'cool it,'" Gilligan told a group on campus. "Central State will live and serve Ohio for a long time to come."

An unidentified student told Gilligan of the storm ordeal and concluded "I'm all bruised up."

Work now is aimed at debris left by the storm. Equipment and supplies continued flowing into the city.

Some 1,500 Ohio National Guard troops were on duty here to patrol streets, provide emergency power and medical aid and operate heavy equipment being used to remove felled trees, knock down wrecked buildings and clear paths through littered streets.

Authorities continued to press for an accurate assessment of damage.

"We called in two Montgomery County property appraisers who worked all day from helicopters," said Dixon Burrows, chief of the Miami Valley Disaster Service. "Wright Patterson Air Force Base personnel are taking aerial photos."

Stewart said Xenia never had a formal disaster plan.

"We had a partial disaster plan but I never had a chance to look at it," he said.

Borrows said he "has been preaching" more Civil Defense planning for a decade.

"I think it is quite apparent it is a disaster," Stewart said. "We'll do whatever is necessary to get a warning system when this is cleaned up."

Fire Chief John Troeger told reporters his men would begin at once an inspection of downtown buildings "to determine what to keep and what not to keep."

"On some of them there's not much we can do," he said. "On some of them, there's not much to salvage because the buildings are not safe to go in."

He estimated 40 per cent of the 25-30 downtown businesses will be torn down and the rest will require major renovation."

Other firemen, he said, will be "identifying homes that can be saved along the fringe areas."

National Guard officials said 300 troopers, assisted by volunteers, would begin cleaning thoroughfares through demolished sections of town.

They noted, though, that colder, wet weather anticipated could slow the work.

Stewart said sanitation workers would begin a test today of the city's water supply. Red Cross officials estimated it could take a week to clean all the water lines damaged in the tornado.

Many of those left homeless apparently found refuge with relatives and friends.

Local Man 'Weathers' Tornado In Xenia

MOTEL DEBRIS—Raymond Reichelderfer, Route 4, was buried under rubble in front of the car in the photo. He was staying in a motel in Xenia Wednesday when the tornado struck. Reichelderfer said one person was carried out of the motel on a stretcher and several were cut and bruised badly but no one was killed. He sustained only a couple of minor scratches.

"It's unbelievable," Raymond Reichelderfer, Route 4, who was in Xenia when the tornado struck Wednesday reports.

A claims adjuster for State Auto Insurance Co., Reichelderfer normally stays in Xenia when he is working in the southwest area of the state.

"I just got in the motel room, kicked off my shoes, removed my tie and started doing a little paper work. Something told me to go look out the window and I saw this giant whirlwind. It was not funnel shaped when I first saw it, but more like the whirlwinds that we see in dry summer weather."

"I put my shoes back on and came back to the window. Then I saw the funnel. It would come down to the ground and the end would disappear, and then it would come down again."

"I thought, 'My God, it's a tornado and it's coming right at me.' I watched it out the window until I saw a big building about half a block away go up."

"I tried to crawl under the bed and I couldn't, so I grabbed a chair and pulled it over my head."

"Then I heard this great big roar and debris started falling. I thought it would never quit falling, but it finally did."

"After it was all over, I was pinned from the waist down under the rubble, but I could move and knew I was all right."

"I pulled myself free and walked around for half an hour to 45 minutes. I wanted to call my wife (Ruth) and let her know I was all right."

"I finally found a couple who lived on the edge of Xenia out of the path of the tornado who offered to drive me to the nearest telephone. The traffic was terrific."

"Rain soaked and dirty, they left me

off across a field from a telephone. I walked over, and finally got in touch with the Circleville Police Department. They notified Sheriff Dwight Radcliff who told Ruth I was all right."

"I was three or four miles out in the country. I waited for the couple to come back, but somehow I had missed them. So I hitchhiked to Dayton where I knew an associate with a company car. I got his car and came home. I got here about midnight."

Reichelderfer said he at first did not realize it was a tornado, but when he began to see things flying through the air that he recognized as parts of houses there was no doubt in his mind what it was.

Bullet Wound Fatal In Cincinnati Holdup

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police today continued the search for a man who held up a bar near the Hamilton County Courthouse Wednesday night, killing one of the patrons.

Paul H. Even, 53, of Cincinnati, died Thursday afternoon of a bullet wound. He and four others were robbed by the gunman, police said.

Urge Site Changes For Future Oil Drilling Offshore

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Council on Environmental Quality has recommended steering offshore oil development away from the southeastern coast and the Gulf of Alaska, in favor of areas off New England and Maryland-Delaware-New Jersey.

In a year-long study, still unpublished but obtained by The Associated Press, the council warned that "high environmental risk" would be posed by opening areas off the southeastern Atlantic Coast, the Gulf of Alaska and Long Island, northern New Jersey to petroleum development.

The council's study was the first major federal effort to grapple with the complex and emotion-loaded question of drilling for oil off the popular, sandy beaches that line the Atlantic from Cape Cod to Florida.

The council said oil spills ranging from tiny to large probably would occur during offshore operations and could damage beaches and wetlands.

It concluded that spills off northern New Jersey and Long Island probably would reach land more frequently and more quickly, because of ocean currents near shore, than spills farther south off Delaware and Maryland, or farther north off New England.

Fear Patricia Hearst Dead, Latest Tape Merely Trick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fears that Patricia Hearst is dead and that her latest communique may be a trick have been expressed by an attorney as the FBI vowed to keep pressure on its two-month hunt for the terrorists' kidnap hideout.

"I do have serious concern that the girl is dead and that Wednesday's tape communication may have been a coverup," said attorney Vincent Hallinan in an interview Thursday.

Hallinan is one of three trustees of a $4 million fund set up by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation to provide more free food for poor people if Miss Hearst is released unharmed. Food worth $2 million already has been given away.

The latest communique from Miss Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army, in which she said she has become an SLA member, did not contain any time reference to indicate Spills in the Gulf of Alaska would also be likely to reach shore.

Furthermore, the council said, offshore development could have strong impacts on land by bringing with it new refineries, petrochemical plants, population growth and related development.

"Serious consideration must be given to postponing leasing in an OCS (outer continental shelf) region where oil cannot be safely produced and safely transported to markets because of significant threats of earthquakes, tsunamis (tidal waves) and severe storms," the council also said.

Those descriptions clearly applied to the Gulf of Alaska, where the council noted the frequency of earthquakes, tsunamis and storms, and the probability that spilled oil would reach shore.

They also applied to the southeastern Atlantic coast which, the council noted, "experiences storm conditions which are more severe than those prevalent in either the Gulf of Alaska or the North Sea."

The council said that "less risk would face development" off New England and the mid-Atlantic.

The council concluded that new offshore oil development would be acceptable, provided great care is taken to protect the environment.

when it was made, said Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the case.

"I believe this was the first one without a date on it," he said Thursday.

Hallinan voiced concern about the last message, saying, "The tape of her voice could have been made at any time."

FBI Director Clarence Kelley said in a brief statement from his Washington office Thursday that the investigation of Miss Hearst's kidnaping Feb. 4 from her Berkeley apartment is continuing.

In the tape-recorded communique delivered to San Francisco radio station KSAN Wednesday, Miss Hearst said her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, was a "corporate liar," and announced she had decided to join the SLA.

The SLA is described as a small multiracial group of about 25 members, including men and women and blacks and whites.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices fell back sharply in the stock market today, battered by a new round of increases in banks' prime lending rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 10.41 at 848.48, and losers dominated gainers by about 8 to 3 on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading remained very light.

Analysts said buying interest was severely dampened by the continuing rise of the prime rate. New York's First National City Bank raised its prime this morning from 9½ to 9¾ per cent, and numerous other banks quickly posted similar increases.

Digital Equipment was the Big Board's most-active stock, dropping 3¼ to 103 in trading that included a 59,900-share block at 102½.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .44 at 96.09.

Watercraft Division Sponsors Safety Contest

Entries are being accepted in the boating safety slogan contest sponsored by the Division of Watercraft of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Ten winners will be chosen from each of the state's six boating districts. Winners will be ranked first through 10th place by district.

Slogans will center around the division's nautical cartoon character, Commodore Buckeye. The format is as follows: "Commodore Buckeye says . . . (slogan)." The slogan must be 10 words or less, not including the lead-in phrase, "Commodore Buckeye Says."

The winning slogan is to be used on safety posters and in other division safety promotional activities, and is open to Ohioans of any age, except employees of the Department of Natural Resources.

The slogan must be postmarked no later than May 31 and mailed to the Division of Watercraft, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus, 43224. Entries must have the name, address (including county) and telephone number of the person entering the contest.

The winner will be announced in June and honored at an awards banquet.

For further information contact, District Watercraft Officer John Campbell, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, 43215, or phone 466-3215.

Deputy Arrests Pig Thief

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Fite arrested Harley Eugene Webb, 21, Route 5, Washington C. H., for the theft of a hamshire pig, 10:55 a.m. Thursday, from the Frank Brown farm, Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. George Gusler, Mt. Sterling, who reported the incident, observed Webb taking the pig from the Brown farm, located on Route 62.

Webb admitted to stealing the pig, which was found at his Washington C. H. residence, when he was apprehended by Deputy Fite.

Local Firm, Union Reach Agreement

Basic Construction Materials and Local 18, International Union of Operating Engineers, have completed negotiations on a new three-year work agreement.

The agreement calls for union employees to receive a pay increase of more than 10 per cent each year of the three year contract.

The agreement, made without any work stoppages, was announced by Gordon Hartman, union business agent and C. W. Neikirk, vice president of Davon Inc., of which Basic Construction Materials, East Corwin Street, is a division.

Appeals Court To Hear Five County Cases

The Fourth District Court of Appeals will hear four cases from Pickaway County beginning 9:30 a.m. April 17. Presiding judge of the court of appeals, Earl Stevenson, Portsmouth, and justices Homer Abele, Athens, and Gordon Gray, McArthur, will hear appeal cases which have been heard in Common Pleas, Probate, Juvenile or Municipal Courts in Pickaway County.

Scheduled for hearing are: The State of Ohio vs Earl W. Hunt; Sidney Charles Thomas and others vs Stillman L. Carney; Betty Tootle vs The Bureau of Motor Vehicles, State of Ohio and Sharon Wood; and Pickaway County Board of Health vs Dr. Paul Teegardin and others.

The Fourth District Court of Appeals serves 15 counties in southern Ohio. Included in the court's jurisdiction are the counties of Adams, Athens, Brown, Gallia, Highland, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Vinton and Washington.

Investigation Conducted By State Patrol

A non-injury accident was investigated 3 p.m. Thursday by Highway Patrolman Lowell Hardesty. According to the report made by the patrolman, Harry J. Smith, 75, Route 2, Ashville, and Benjamin J. Ryan, 30, Waterloo, Ind., were both traveling north on Route 23 near Little Walnut.

The report stated that due to Ryan's inattention to his driving, his vehicle struck the Smith vehicle in the rear. The impact caused Smith to lose control of his truck and go off the road. The truck finally came to rest in a water-filled field adjacent to the road.

Capt. Plaul, command officer in charge of vehicle services in Columbus, was in the area at the time and dispatched to the scene. He assisted Smith from his truck. Smith complained of slight chest pains but no treatment was given at the accident scene.

Ptl. Hardesty cited Ryan for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

Settlement Made In Civil Case

At the end of the first day of trial, an out of court settlement was made in a civil case being heard by a jury in common pleas court. Settlement was accepted by plaintiff Thelma Huffer who was suing the Penn Central Transportation Company for $50,000.

The jury of eight dismissed upon settlement of the case. Mrs. Huffer had instituted the suit for damages as a result of a train hitting her car at S. Washington St. on July 6, 1972.

Danny Haynes, Route 2, also appeared in common pleas court Thursday on a charge of violation of probation. Haynes had been placed on probation after a conviction of forgery and was found guilty by the court of the violation of probation charge. Judge William Ammer continued Haynes on probation for another year.

EPA Hearing Slated For Container

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) announced today that it has scheduled a public meeting on the air pollution application for Container Corporation of America, 401 W. Mill St.

The meeting will be held at 10 a.m., May 2, in the Pickaway County Courthouse.

The purpose of the meeting is to consider evidence, written or oral, from any person, on compliance schedules of the company.

As required by state regulations, this company's request for an air pollution variance has been accompanied by a schedule of compliance, indicating in detail what steps will be taken to achieve compliance with regulations.

Individuals unable to attend the meeting may submit written testimony to the Hearing Clerk, Ohio EPA, 361 E. Broad Street, Box 1049, Columbus, Ohio 43216 until the date of the meeting.

Compliance schedules for Container Corporation of America, Circleville, are available for public inspection at the Mayor's Office, City Hall.

Drug Bill Clause Draws Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One of the more controversial features of a House-passed bill that cracks down on drug pushers allows an addict under certain circumstances to volunteer for rehabilitation instead of prison.

Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor, tried to take out that provision. In a heated three-hour debate, Tulley maintained it would "open the jail doors" for anyone who had a shrewd attorney and "a soft-hearted judge."

Tulley lost. The House voted down his amendment, 88-3.

Rep. Michael Oxley, R-82 Findlay, reduced objections to the option given addicts with an amendment that beefed up language requiring proof that the defendant actually was dependent on drugs or in danger of becoming dependent, and gave the judge the power to decide if a first offender is capable of being rehabilitated.

Otherwise, the bill makes broad changes in existing laws and provides, among other things, for no-probation sentences ranging from 8 to 20 years for drug trafficking, stealing drugs or influencing others to take them.

The bill also puts harmful drugs into categories and lists penalties for abuse of each.

Penalties for possession of marijuana are reduced from a possible year in jail to six months' probation for a first offender. Trafficking in marijuana, however, is punishable for a mandatory six-month jail sentence the first time around.

The State Teachers Retirement System is a public agency, but its executive director has refused to let newsmen know the way the board voted during the meeting at which STRS invested $11.2 million in Equity Funding Corp. of Los Angeles.

"You'll have to ask the attorney general," said Executive Director James L. Sublett. "Since that investment is in litigation we turn over all calls to him."

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, who is pressing to get back STRS funds invested in the financially shaky firm, filed lawsuits on behalf of STRS. Brown also sits on the STRS board.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, a possible Brown opponent in November, said Brown voted for the investment. He contended lawsuits are aimed at covering his own financial blunder.

A spokesman for Brown said, "That's a ridiculous charge." He did not say if Brown approved the investment, but pointed out that it was "a highly praised issue" at the time of the investment.

Rep. Jerome Stano, D-7 Parma, has been catching static from letters written to newspapers in his area complaining about the law that makes it mandatory to remove studs from snow tires March 15. Stano authored the bill.

The trouble was a big snowfall hit the Cleveland area 10 days after the deadline.

Stano said originally he wanted to ban studs permanently because evidence showed studs ruined highways, but he now is one of six legislators who have introduced bills to extend the deadline until April 15.

"He'll be all right unless it snows hard in Parma next April 14," quipped a colleague.

Central State Lays Plans For Classes

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Officials of tornado-battered Central State University say they hope students can resume their classes soon, possibly using other campuses in the area.

Central State University President Lionel Newman said Thursday that arrangements are being made for students to attend classes through the Dayton-Miami Valley Consortium of Colleges and Universities.

Without water or electricity, one of the first priorities was getting students off campus.

Students were called in to take students to Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo and Cincinnati, Gus T. Ridgel, vice president for academic affairs, reported.

Out-of-state students stranded without a way home and foreign students were offered rooms in the Dayton Sheraton Hotel, he said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan told students when he toured the storm-ravaged area Thursday, "I want you to hold graduation ceremonies as scheduled, June 9."

Ridgel said the damage will total millions of dollars.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) I earned only about $1,500 from a summer job between school semesters. Does this mean I won't have to file a tax return?

(A.) In general, if you are single, you don't have to file a Federal income tax return unless you made more than $2,050. However, if income tax was withheld from your pay, you should file a return to have the tax refunded to you.

(Q.) Will the IRS compute your tax regardless of whether you use the short form or the long one?

(A.) It depends. If you use Form 1040, the IRS will compute your tax if your adjusted gross income was $20,000 or less and consisted only of wages or salaries, tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, you take the standard deduction and file by the deadline. The IRS will also compute the tax for Form 1040A-users, regardless of how much income they had. See your tax form instructions for details.

(Q.) My tax return was audited last year and I had to pay additional tax plus penalty and interest. Are the interest and penalty payments deductible?

(Q.) Which payments for medicines and drugs are tax deductible?

(A.) Deductible payments include: legally obtained and generally recognized medicines and drugs, even if they do not require a prescription (but not expenditures for toothpaste, toiletries, cosmetics, etc.); birth control pills prescribed by a doctor; and vitamins, iron supplements and certain special food or beverages prescribed by a doctor. See your tax form instructions for further information.

Remember, payments for medicines and drugs are deductible only to the extent they exceed one per cent of your adjusted gross income. This excess is included in your other medical expenses, which can be deducted only to the extent they exceed three per cent of your adjusted gross income.

(Q.) I have a number of stocks and bonds. What kinds of investment expenses are deductible?

(A.) Fees you pay a broker or similar agent to collect your bond interest or dividends on shares of stock are deductible. A fee paid to a broker to acquire stocks or bonds is not deductible, but is added to the cost of the property.

Krause Aids Guardsmen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Arthur Krause, father of one of four students slain at Kent State University in 1970, said Thursday night he is contributing to the defense fund of eight National Guardsmen indicted in the slayings.

"I feel they are going to have a struggle and I want to make sure they get a fair trial," Krause said.

He declined to say how much he is contributing, but he did say that "it's already been taken care of."

"It boils down to this," said the father of 18-year-old Allison Krause. "I feel other people created the atmosphere which led to the shootings. I know how difficult it is to raise funds and I want to help. I want them to have a fair trial."

Seven National Guardsmen and one former guardsman were indicted by a Cleveland grand jury for violating the civil rights of the slain students.

Other deductible investment expenses include: interest on margin accounts, state transfer tax on securities, the cost of subscriptions to financial publications purchased to keep an eye on investments, clerical help and office rent in caring for investments, safe deposit box rental (if the box is used to keep investment-related papers and documents) and custodial fees in connection with property held for production of income. Transportation and other expenses you pay to attend stockholders' meetings are generally not deductible.

(Q.) Where can I get a copy of your "Tax Guide for Small Business"?

(A.) "Tax Guide for Small Business," IRS Publication 334, is available over-the-counter at your Internal Revenue office for $1.00. It can also be obtained by mail for $1.25, post-paid, from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, and the Public Documents Distribution Center, Pueblo Industrial Park, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

A Page Of Opinion

Social Security Growth

No one deliberately planned for Social Security taxes to become the largest single bite withheld from the paychecks of many workers, but that is what has happened. One estimate, by Tax Foundation, Inc., is that the recently stretched Social Security tax bite may result in more than half the 80 million taxpayers paying a higher S. S. rate than they do in federal income taxes.

With the schedule of deductions which began on Jan.

3, taxpayers earning at least $13,200 this year will pay $772 in Social Security taxes. Their employers will chip in another federal income tax paid on incomes up to $15,000, which included 85 per cent of the 1971 returns, is less than that.

Between January of 1970 and July 1, 1974, Social Security benefits either have risen or are scheduled to rise 68.5 per cent, more than twice the expected increase in the consumer price index for the period.

The Social Security rate of 5.85 per cent has not changed this year, only the earnings ceiling against which it is imposed. But for individuals earning more than $10,800, the old ceiling, the deductions will continue until earnings of $13,200 have been reached.

Social Security payouts have expanded far beyond the original concept of a partial pension upon retirement. As the benefits expand, so do the taxes.

'Great Gatsby' Days

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — People . . . Places

The major contribution "The Great Gatsby" will make to our troubled times is to inform the young that the "good old days" their parents and grandparents recall with moist eyes were actually pretty lousy.

Permissive, reefer-smoking kids of 1974 will be shocked and dismayed by the idiotic antics of that lost generation of the early 1920s portrayed in this buttocks-breaking long film milked from Scott Fitzgerald's short novel. Yes, Virginia, your mother (grandmother) actually did dance the Charleston, did wear those crazy clothes, did moon over nincompoops, and dear old Pops (grandpops) drank 10-cent bathtub gin from a $100 silver flask and fell in the pool.

To such kids, the revel footage in "The Great Gatsby" will be as detached from reality as their parents (grandparents) found the bacchanals in D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance." My generation didn't buy the handwriting on the wall (see the book of Daniel) that foretold Belshazzar's impending pratfall. Today's kids will laugh out loud at Gatsby's (Robert Redford's) infatuation with Daisy (Mia Farrow.) Redford seems uncomfortable in his 1920 clothes, and he irritates all other males in the cast, and the audience, by addressing them as "old sport" — his effort to establish himself as an Oxford man. As for Daisy, the rich girl, she always looks and sometimes sounds like a coy guppy.

P.S. — The film will make millions.

TV network cameramen covering spot news events — such as sports, dawn Easter services, the comings and goings of indicted public officials, etc. — have been alerted to be on the lookout for streakers. One of the nutty exhibitionists ran across Johnny Carson's "Tonight" stage recently while he was doing his monologue. Inasmuch as the show is taped in advance, it was easy to erase the incident electronically before it went on the air. But "live" TV is something else again. Security has been stepped up around the networks, to guard against the horrid sight of fleeting nudity — now a requisite sales commodity for movies and the theater and a financial boon for a score of national magazines.

Every streaker worth his/her salt must dream of such triumphant TV appearances as racing across Walter Cronkite's desk during the evening news, rounding the bases with Hank Aaron as the great slugger breaks Babe Ruth's record, and breaking up the televised impeachment vote in the House of Representatives. Considering their numbers, they are bound to break through one of these days or nights. Hence the alert. But stay tuned. Like England, there'll always be a crackpot.

I haven't crossed the Atlantic on what we used to call a "sleek greyhound" since I zigged and zagged over on the Queen Mary (along with 14,000 others) when she was a troopship. But it's always sad to read that another great liner has gone to other worlds — such as the world of anchored hotels — or been sold to a heartless junk dealer.

Now it's the France. The biggest and stateliest of the remaining species. She'll lose $25,000,000 this year, and to a French shipping official, 25,000,000 must be wrong. The Pompidou government has been trying to sell her to the Arabs for shuttle services to Mecca but, so far, no dice. The Arabs probably don't have enough oil to run her. She may be kicked around like the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth were, or mothballed, as was our brilliant last big one, the United States.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Those rising interest rates are scaring the daylight out of many corporate treasurers and securities officials, some of whom fear the approach of another money crunch within the next two months.

Capital is to the corporate body as air is to the human body. Without it a company cannot meet its bills and, over the longer term, cannot expand or modernize to remain competitive.

Speaking of the longer term, James Needham, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, told a meeting of financial executives this week that corporations face a "staggering economic challenge" to raise capital.

Needham cited a figure of $3.3 trillion as the sum needed by 1985, and said large amounts of this must come from equity or stock market financing because of the already heavy level of corporate debt.

Disturbing to exchange officials and corporate financiers alike is the possibility that the stock markets might be unable to raise their share. One reason for fear, of course, is that high interest rates draw money from equities.

The Federal Reserve policy of restricting the money supply in an effort to combat inflation is coming in for mounting criticism. Some critics in fact maintain that the Fed is making matters worse.

Representative of this viewpoint is John Wright, who heads a large money management and investment advisory service. Unless an easier money policy is adopted, Wright states, a devastating money crunch will occur

Whatever, her days of grace are as numbered as those of the galleon and the zeppelin. As one who drove a nail into her coffin by choosing to fly airplanes across the great sea, I apologize and mourn.

There were times during the Senate Watergate committee hearings last year that prompted many persons to believe that Washington was the crime capital of the country. Actually, crime in the nation's capital was off three per cent from 1972.

Biggest decrease in crime during 1973 was in Fall River, Mass., 25 per cent. Pasadena cleaned itself up by 21 per cent, Lansing, Mich., by 15 per cent, Cleveland by 14. New York, during the last years of Rocky and John Lindsay, made a superhuman effort and reduced its crime rate by an inspirational one per cent.

Those were the days, old sport.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, April 5, the 95th day of 1974. There are 270 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1792, President George Washington exercised the first presidential veto, refusing to sign a bill dealing with representation.

On this date:

In 1621, the Mayflower sailed from Plymouth, Mass., on its first return trip to England.

In 1837, the English surgeon who founded modern antiseptic surgery, Sir Joseph Lister, was born in London.

In 1869, the last surviving soldier of the Revolutionary War, Daniel Bakeman, died in Freedom, N.Y. He was believed to have been 109 years old.

In 1939, all German children between ages of 10 and 13 were ordered to serve in the Hitler youth organization.

In 1951, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death as atomic spies for the Soviet Union.

In 1955, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill submitted his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II. He was 81.

Ten years ago: General of the Army Douglas MacArthur died at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C., at the age of 84.

Five years ago: A four-man British expedition reached the North Pole after a 14-month, 1,300-mile trek by dog sledge.

One year ago: An advance party of American officials arrived in Peking to establish the first American diplomatic establishment there in more than 20 years.

Today's birthdays: Actress Bette Davis is 66 years old. Actor Gregory Peck is 58.

Thought for today: A man with a new idea is a crank until the idea succeeds. — Mark Twain, American humorist, 1835-1910.

"Another thing, dear... introduce me as a psychiatrist — not as 'The head man at the hospital'!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Why is so little understood about arthritis? It plagues so many of us. I wonder why no cure has been found.

Mrs. H. S. B., Mo.

Dear Mrs. B.:

You certainly are one of many who patiently wait for new forms of treatment to control the pain, the bone changes, and the incapacitation that some types of arthritis can produce.

A vast amount of scientific knowledge is constantly being accumulated about the cause and control of the many forms of arthritis that exists. Undoubtedly, prevention and cure will be the inevitable result of such concentrated study.

To give you some idea of how extensive are the problems of arthritis, I will list part of the classification of the American Rheumatism Association.

There is polyarthritis of unknown etiology (cause). This group includes rheumatoid arthritis, juvenile arthritis, psoriatic arthritis, and others.

The second group are known as "connective tissue disorders." This group includes scleroderma, and muscle and skin problems.

Osteoarthritis and rheumatic fever are two other classifications.

In toto, there are probably 100 or more complex aspects of arthritis whose mysteries still resist the most intensive scientific research.

But we are getting there, and will get there faster if research programs are not curtailed by the lack of funds. With governmental and private support, the horizons of hope are limitless.

From the time our 5-year-old daughter began school a year ago she has had numerous bladder infections.

Do you think there can be any relationship between her illness and school?

Mrs. E. W., Ga.

Dear Mrs. W.:

Cystitis is a bacterial infection of the bladder. It is relatively common in girls and frequently attributed to poor bathroom hygiene.

Inadequate, hurried cleansing at school, without your supervision, may predispose her to infection. It has been said that "holding back" the need to urinate may also be occasionally responsible.

However, your daughter should have her urinary tract completely studied.

Say That Again

By JIM BISHOP

Dear Governor George Wallace: Thank you, sir. I appreciate your kind note and the enclosed photo inscribed: "My heartfelt thanks for your wonderful support." Support? You couldn't get my vote if you were my blood brother.

You must mean "personal" support. When you were shot, our family prayed that you would survive. In fighting to remain alive, you displayed more personal courage than a regiment of Green Berets. In my estimation, Governor, you are all man.

A few days ago, I had dinner with retired Speaker of the House John McCormack at Jimmy's Harborside Restaurant in Boston. He was a veteran politician when John F. Kennedy was in a bassinet.

We talked of better days. I had broiled bluefish; he ate scrod, which sounds like the past tense of a bad word. Uncle John has a long memory and he told me of his dealings with you on Democratic convention committees.

He respects your ambitions, but feels that you are immoderate in popping off. For example, you have been telling us for years that you need help (money) "to send the liberals and socialist politicians a message." Don't you think it is about time to spell it out — tell us what the message is?

I told Uncle John that I think of you as a first-class spoiler. He turned his lean and pale face to the ceiling, his spectacles gleaming. "Yes," he said after a moment. "Yes. I know what you mean."

A spoiler, as you know, is one who cannot achieve a goal, but has enough political clout to keep others from getting there. At this moment, I think you have sufficient power to swing a Presidential election.

If this is your role, I would suggest that you begin by burning those "Dear Fellow American" letters which have been going through the Montgomery, Alabama post office by the sackful. In them you say that "many people have written to me to tell me that they wish they could have the opportunity to cast their Presidential ballot again." In the next paragraph, you ask, if they had it to do over again, would they vote for: George McGovern, Richard Nixon, George Wallace.

Aw, come on, Guv. You know that if you can't win 10-to-one, the people haven't been listening. Why not try a sample 1976 ballot:

George Wallace, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan, Ted Kennedy, Nelson Rockefeller, Edmund Muskie, Charles Percy, Walter Mondale, Howard Baker, Henry Jackson.

If it will help you make up your mind, I will ask my readers to circle

one name and mail it to me at King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th St. New York City 10017. They can do it on a postcard. The round-robin letter you sent to voters is, I suspect, a fake.

"Almost every day," you write, "a newsman or distinguished visitor asks me if I am going to run for President in 1976. And quite frankly, I don't know." Guv, you're putting me on. You're running right now.

You state your national priorities as: (1) American being militarily weaker than the Communists. (2) "Most politicians" want to take my money and give it to people who "are healthy and refuse to work." (3) You don't want the Democratic party to repeat the mistakes of 1972. (4) Inflation. (5) The politicians haven't stopped busing even enough "the people's message" is opposed to busing.

Politically, you can win a segment of support on any of those. However, like most "pols," you do not spell out what you propose to do about them. Remember Nixon in October of 1968: "Can you stand four more years of this?" Crowd roar: "No-o-o-o!"

We elected him, and he gave us four more years of it — war, inflation, able-bodied people living on relief roles, busing, etc. Personally, I think the American people need something they haven't had in a long, long time — a President who will level with them.

The last time you ran for national office, of about 72 million votes cast, you got close to 10 million. A spoiler's reward. That was in 1968, when Humphrey lost to Nixon by 500,000. Ergo — you made Nixon.

At this moment, Governor, you cannot be elected President even if you double your 1968 vote. This leaves you the option of playing coy for a Vice Presidential bid. At the end of the note, you write: "... even if you would still vote for President Nixon again you could send me a contribution in good conscience."

Say that again, Guv. Slowly . . .

Glenn's Candidacy Backed By DiSalle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The candidacy of John Glenn for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator has been endorsed by former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

In a statement released by Glenn's office, DiSalle said Ohioans have "the chance to do what is both right, correct and honest — to send John Glenn to the United States Senate to work for all of us."

DiSalle now lives in Washington.

Reinecke Still Running

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says that despite his indictment on three counts of perjury by the Watergate grand jury he's still in the race to succeed Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"I am innocent. I will plead not guilty," said Reinecke, who was Reagan's hand-picked choice in 1969 as No. 2 man in California state government.

"I am in the gubernatorial race to stay. I will win the June primary and I will win the November election and be your next governor," Reinecke, a Republican, told a packed news conference Wednesday.

Reinecke said he would seek a change of venue to bring the trial to California — "I don't think anyone can get a fair trial in Washington, D.C., these days."

Earlier Wednesday, Reagan appeared shaken after learning about Reinecke's indictment. Reagan said he thought his lieutenant governor should be regarded innocent until proven guilty in court.

Rotary Sends Students To WA Institute

Robert W. Wood, President of the Circleville Rotary Club, has announced the selection of Seniors Bonnie Bolender, Logan Elm; Dean Gulick, Circleville; Bruce Neff, Teays Valley; and Steven Wynn, Westfall from the Pickaway County Schools, to attend the 28 Annual World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati, today and Saturday.

One thousand selected students from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia will participate in the two-day meeting, as guests of their local Rotary Clubs. The topic for the 1974 Institute is: "The Soviet Union: 1974 and Beyond."

Ranking European and American authorities will speak, take part in discussions, and engage in informal questions on periods with the students. The Institute provides a unique opportunity for outstanding students to understand an area important to our country, and the relating policy questions facing our nation.

Participants and their adult leaders, in addition to a comprehensive program of vital information about an important area of international concern, will be afforded an opportunity to tour educational and cultural institutions in Cincinnati. The social highlight of the meeting will be a dance in the Ballroom of the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel.

The World Affairs Institute is organized and sponsored by the Rotary Club of Cincinnati, Cincinnati Council on World Affairs, with the cooperation of Avco Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Spangler will accompany the students during the two-day stay in Cincinnati.

Ensign Resigns As OYC Director

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State Youth Commission Director William J. Ensign has resigned for reasons he said are too "complicated" to explain at this time.

Ensign submitted his resignation Thursday to Gov. John J. Gilligan. As one of Gilligan's original cabinet appointees he has headed the commission since January, 1971.

The former Toledo mayor said he has no definite plans and expects his resignation to be effective by the end of May.

Ensign said he would disclose his reasons for leaving later.

Rural America Shrugs Off Energy Crunch

EDITORS NOTE — Has the energy crisis left an imprint on American life? To find out, Associated Press reporters talked with government leaders, businessmen and the man on the street to get a preliminary reading. In the final installment of a three-part series, the effects on rural areas are examined.

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

The gasoline lines, the renewed emphasis on mass transit, the skyrocketing utility bills are all things people in rural America have read about. But in most cases they've seen little of them.

The energy crisis, like other sudden changes in the country's lifestyle, has had some impact on rural America. But it is less noticeable and more likely to be ignored than in the cities and suburbs.

The problems of the cities generally reach the rural areas, but in a diluted form. And the millions of people who live there for the most part go about their daily lives much the way they always have.

Associated Press reporters who visited rural communities in five states in recent weeks reported there have been some changes because of the energy crisis. But the problems endured by many cities and suburbs translate into aggravations rather than crises for rural areas.

It is almost impossible to gauge what impact the energy situation will have on the future of small towns. But many who live there find it hard to believe any lasting changes will be forced upon them with the exception of high prices for gasoline.

Most rural areas visited by AP reporters have endured some changes:

—Gasoline prices are higher, and a few service stations have gone out of business. Small motels have experienced a drop in business.

—Citizens generally keep their thermostats lower.

—Some local stores report increased business because local residents are less likely to drive 50 miles or so to urban shopping centers. Other stores, such as clothing concerns, report a drop in business, and attribute it to local residents spending less because of higher prices for food and gasoline.

—Local residents who drive considerable distances to shop or to watch the local high school athletic teams are more likely to form car pools, and they aren't taking as many trips.

"There's been really no gasoline shortage here," said Mayor Shelby Combs of Nicholasville, Ky. "If it (the energy crisis) were to get worse I don't know what would happen here. I suppose we could be hurt, but we haven't been yet."

John Sutherland, an automobile dealer in Nicholasville, said "people around here were looking for small cars for a while, but that's beginning to change already."

All of which is not to say the latest American crisis hasn't been felt in Nicholasville. One local motel reported its business down 40 per cent and some residents said they were making fewer shopping trips to Lexington.

And for some in rural America, like Jay Davis, there has been an energy crisis.

Davis, 28, moved to Colfax, Wash., last year and began managing a service station with a staff of six, a large repair business and gasoline sales of 1,000 gallons a day.

"Then this energy crisis thing started, with allotments of gas always going lower and lower," he said. "We were down to 350 gallons a day when I left" to be a fire department captain. By that time, Davis said his monthly income had plunged from $1,300 to $600.

In Colfax, a wheat farming area where last year's record prices have brought a degree of prosperity, the local Sears store said orders were up 10 per cent; the manager attributed it to persons who make fewer shopping trips to Spokane. The local library said it could not keep how-to books on the shelves any more. "People are staying home more and need things to do," explained the librarian.

In Harvard, Mass., an affluent town of 3,300 people located 32 miles west of Boston, the housing industry has suffered. In recent years towns like Harvard have grown as people moved farther out of the center city. But that has stopped, at least temporarily.

Henry O'Neill Jr. Given YMCA Award

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Henry M. O'Neill Jr. of Columbus received the 23rd YMCA Ohio Model Legislature's Distinguished Service Award Thursday night during a banquet opening the three-day 1974 program.

O'Neill 39, who heads a soft drink firm, was honored for his activities in civic and governmental programs and his support of the Model Legislature, and exercise in government for high school boys and girls.

The award was presented by state School Supt. Martin W. Essex, who said O'Neill has shown a concern for youth opportunities and civic advancements that is needed in urban society.

Inquiries about homes have been cut in half, realtors say, and in the first 10 weeks of this year seven houses were sold in Harvard. Last year, in the same period, 16 were sold. Of 18 houses built last fall in a Harvard subdivision, only three have been sold.

The only service station in Harvard is open about half the days of the month because of the gasoline shortage, but the state's odd-even rationing system has ended the long lines that used to prevail.

In Plant City, Fla., a town of 20,000 about 25 miles east of Tampa, a gasoline station went out of business and there were long lines until a voluntary odd-even rationing plan took effect. But the winter strawberry crop—the main industry—got to market except when there was a truckers' strike. The local gift shop's business went up when local residents didn't want to drive to Tampa. Service stations closed early. Some residents formed car pools for shopping. Now it's getting back to normal, officials say.

Plant City was generally typical of the small towns the reporters visited. They found people coping with their problems, and some of them cynical about what had caused the trouble.

Speaking of the oil companies, Joan Stockwell of Colfax said:

"I just think they wanted more money. It's like the wheat shortage. There was one, we were told ... We were told there would be no flour. But at the store, there was flour. Of course, it cost more ... This is the kind of thing you just learn to live with. There's no sense making a big deal out of it. As soon as that damn Watergate is over with, it will all go off — there will be no shortage."

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN LEE HARDBARGER

Miss Donna Sue Keeton Weds Steven Hardbarger

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Donna Sue Keeton and Mr. Steven Lee Hardbarger, 2 p.m. March 17, at First Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St., Circleville.

The Rev. David Cyrus officiated the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Keeton, Kingston, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hardbarger, Route 3, Circleville.

Miss Sherry Whaley, organist, played a program of wedding music preceding the ceremony. The church altar was decorated with arrangements of white gardenias and blue bows marked the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected for her wedding a floor length gown of white satin covered with chiffon. Covered buttons and lace enhanced the bodice and the full sleeves were cuffed with lace. The bride's shoulder length veil was caught to a flower and pearl headdress and she carried a bouquet of carnations with pink and white ribbons atop a white Bible.

Miss Cindy Thompson and Miss Alberta Jarrell were maids of honor. Their formal length gowns of aqua blue satin and white chiffon featured bodices with ruffles on each side accented with tiny pink roses. They wore aqua blue hats with streamers down the back and each carried a single pink rose.

Bridesmaids, Miss Cindy Thompson and Miss Alberta Jarrell, were gowned as the honor attendants and wore blue satin bows in their hair.

Flower girls were nieces of the bride, Miss Cindy Keeton and Miss Connie Keeton. Master Brian Cain was ring bearer.

Mr. Clinton Holbrook performed the duties of best man and Mr. Paul Karshner and Mr. Allen Holbrook were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue street length dress and a corsage of rainbow colored carnations matching her scarf. The bridegroom's mother wore a long peach colored dress with full chiffon sleeves and a corsage of rainbow carnations.

A reception at the Grange and 4-H building immediately followed the ceremony. A white and blue color theme was used on the bride's table and a large red heart was placed in back of the table. Red and white wedding bells were suspended from the ceiling.

Hostesses were the Misses Rhonda and Debbie Hardbarger, Delena Brittain, Carolyn Keeton, Norma Keeton and Roberta Dykes.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore burgundy and blue checked slacks with a blue top and burgundy battle jacket.

The bride is a senior at Zane Trace High School. She is a member of FHA Club, Varsity 2 Club, Ross County Fair Board, former Miss Geranium Festival and county president of Ross County FHA.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, is a security policeman in the United States Air Force, stationed at Lockbourne.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brittain, Middletown; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Dykes, Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hardbarger, and Mrs. Joan Karshner and son of Columbus.

Baby Shower Fetes Mrs. Rick Sims

A baby shower was held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Gary Sims, 348 Eva Drive, in honor of Mrs. Rick Sims, 250 Walnut St. Co-hostess for the affair was Mrs. Tom Murtaugh of Cincinnati.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of yellow and white carnations surrounding a yellow teddy bear resting in a child's doll basket. Green, white and yellow were used throughout the decorations.

Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Betty Sims, Mrs. Alice Neff, Mrs. Freda White and Mrs. Toni Glanton.

Refreshments of homemade cream puffs, mints, nuts and beverages were served by the hostess.

Guests were: Mrs. Bobby Mayo, Mrs. Alice Neff, Mrs. Ted Sims, Mrs. Betty Sims, Mrs. Nolan Sims Sr., Mrs. Betty Oster, Mrs. Freda White, Mrs. Toni Glanton, Mrs. Judy Callahan, Debbie, Becky and Nancy Murtaugh.

Unable to attend but sending gifts were: Mrs. Opal Sims, Mrs. Linda Fausnaugh, Mrs. Helen Fausnaugh, Mrs. Stella Fausnaugh, Mrs. Ruth Flanders and Minnie Kadel.

Sunday Baptism Service Planned

Five Points United Methodist Church will conduct baptismal services Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Receiving the sacrament will be: Brian Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Reid; Stacey Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton; Tracey Redman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Redman; LaLena Marie Lightle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lightle and T. J. Seeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Seeley.

Personals

Mrs. Margaret Large and Mrs. Harold Wright and children, Jeff, Julie, John and Joel of Kingston visited with Mrs. Wright's grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Southward of the Otterbein Home in Lebanon on Sunday. Mrs. Southward is a former Circleville resident.

Florida Vacation

Miss Mary Davy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Davy, Groveport spent spring vacation from Ohio University with her brother and sister-in-law, Sgt. and Mrs. James Davy in Tampa, Fla. Sgt. Davy is stationed at McDill Air Force Base in Tampa with the Electronic Communications Squadron.

Miss Davy visited Busch Gardens, Sunken Gardens and Disneyworld before flying back to return to sophomore classes where she is majoring in home economics and had her name placed on the Dean's list for the winter quarter. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Norris of Ashville.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Spring is new clothes, new growth and—new books! Bright new additions to the library include one of the children's favorite authors, Jack Kent. His "Fables of Aesop" is a special version of the well known moralistic tales retold with humor. And he scores again with "Dooly and the Snort-snot." It's the ever popular theme of tiny people who gain extraordinary power when confronted with a threatening child-eating horror—this time called a Snortsnot. Three cheers for bravery and for this delightful book.

Another friend of children is John Lord whose full color comic figures attract and hold their attention. His super silly story "The Giant Jam Sandwich" imaginatively tells of a town's fight against an influx of four million wasps. Who wouldn't enjoy watching five helicopters and a flying tractor drop a giant slice of bread on the winged beasties?

Remember when on a dare you walked up to the door of the most dilapidated house in town just to prove how brave you were? "Ralph and the Queen's Bathtub" by Kay Chorao features a boy who will be admired by other brave young readers as he outsmarts a grotesque lady who holds him captive. The setting is modern, the boy is very real and the old woman is, well, she may be real or imaginary.

Sertoma Pancake Day Is Saturday

The Circleville Sertoma Club will hold its eighth annual pancake day on Saturday at the 4-H and Grange building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. Serving will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Proceeds from this event go to the local civic club's sponsorship fund, used locally to assist needy individuals and organizations.

The menu includes a beverage, sausage, and all the pancakes you can eat.

Tickets will be available at the door.

The highest price paid at an auction for a painting was the "Portrait of Juan de Pareja," sometimes known as "The Slave of Velazquez," sold for $5,544,000 in 1970 to the Wildenstein Gallery of New York.

The "Bumper Sticker Book" by Jean Merrill is not a story but a witty collection of slogans that might be found on any car or truck these days. Some you've heard and some will be new. And the kids will appreciate the authenticity of the vehicles which include campers as well as trucks and snowmobiles. The author's claim that it is just one jump from reading bumper stickers to reading easy books is the inspiration for the book.

The Berenstains have done it again! They have placed information on the seasons with so many delightfully zany bear activities that the kids won't know they're learning. Yes, "The Bear's Almanac" has everything—humor, cartoon creatures and seasonal lore.

"Mickey Mouse's Joke Book" operates on the same theory; bright color and beloved figures will entice non-readers to read. It's been said that we are becoming a nation of illiterates. But a quantity of fun reading for youngsters could reverse this trend.

Irresistible is the word for "My Big Book of Farm Animals" by Jane Carruth. Very special, warm, gentle, wriggling creatures will stimulate an interest in animals which is so needed in this electronic age. And for the Easter season what better way of expressing love than to share with children the miracle of baby animals?

Urge Federal Cut On Beef Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex., says if the Nixon administration really wants to help the depressed cattle market it will consider a rollback or possibly a temporary ban on beef imports.

"The situation is that severe for cattle producers," Price said Wednesday. "It must require severe action."

Price said in an interview that he began seeking support this week among fellow House members for cutbacks or even a flat embargo on imports. He said response "has been favorable" so far and that if enough support develops, a formal request will be made to President Nixon.

"Such curbs or embargo should last until such time it is determined that there is some stability and demand for beef back in the market place," Price said.

A cattle producer himself, Price said the $45 million plan to buy high-quality hamburger for school lunches over the next few months would not have any long-lasting effect on cattle prices. But a suspension from imports for even one month could have a significant impact, he said.

Imports of beef used for manufacturing purposes, including hamburger, have been subject to federal quotas since 1964. But Nixon suspended those curbs in June 1972 so that more beef could be imported to help American consumers.

Price said the situation has changed and that it is the cattle industry now that needs emergency action. But he admitted consumer pressure — and fears of it — among many farm belt members of Congress are big hurdles in convincing Nixon to take action.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz

reportedly goes along with a view that any move now by Nixon to shut down meat imports would stir wrath among consumer groups and urban legislators in Congress.

Price said, however, he thinks there is an undercurrent of support for a crackdown on meat imports. He said a big problem is to convince fellow congressmen that consumers would benefit in the long run if action were taken now to help cattlemen.

Cincy Twister Cleanup Starts

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police discouraged sightseers, while professionals at aiding disaster victims—bankers, insurance men and aid groups— moved into tornado-torn areas around Cincinnati.

Two banks set up desks at their branches to give advice and offer loans to replace homes.

The Cincinnati Bar Association sent in teams of lawyers and law students to help home owners plan repairs and stay out of the hands of quick buck artists.

Two Red Cross shelters remained open for the homeless. The Salvation Army said it would provide food from its mobile kitchens as long as needed.

"I just hope people who don't come in to help stay away," said one Cincinnati woman. "If they don't want to help, I don't want them gawking."

Hamilton County Sheriff Paul Fricker continued curfews a second night. He also blocked eight roads in Green Township in western Hamilton County to all who do not live there or have business in the area. Passes were issued to those who did.

Cincinnati offered a trailer load of tar paper and plywood free to Saylor Park residents. The area was the hardest hit in the city. Residents lost 69 homes, and 200 more were severely damaged.

No one was killed, although physicians reported 150 injured in the area.

George Keller, executive secretary of the insurance institute, advised home owners to make immediate repairs to broken windows and leaking roofs to prevent further damage.

He also suggested repair estimates be obtained quickly to turn over to insurance claim adjusters.

U.S. Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, said federal agents would be in the area today. President Nixon Thursday declared Ohio a disaster area.

He said the 1970 Disaster Relief Act provides individual assistance including "rent-free temporary housing for a period up to one year, temporary mortgage assistance, unemployment benefits and job assistance," food and legal services.

Tornadoes touched down at least five places in the greater Cincinnati area, according to the National Weather Service. Damage was concentrated in those areas including Saylor Park, Roselawn, Elmwood Place, Pisgah in Butler County and Boone County in Kentucky.

Damage was expected to run into the millions in Kentucky at the Morehead Boat Harbor on the Ohio River, according to Boone County Magistrate Bruce Ferguson.

Some 186 medium to large pleasure boats were stacked up like cordwood, he said. The marina, docks and restaurant were picked up and dropped into the river by a twister that ravaged Cincinnati on the other side.

"These are just things," said Mrs. John Morehead, observing the damage of her business at Taylorsport, Ky. Her house was also blown away while she visited next door with her son.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Advice On Generosity Stands

DEAR ABBY: Your outdated advice to the woman whose husband wanted to share her with other men really irked me. I'd have advised her to ask her husband why he wanted to share her. If it was because he didn't love her and wanted to get rid of her, then I fully agree, she shouldn't put up with it. But, did you ever stop to think that maybe the husband enjoyed her so much in bed that he wanted to show others what a great wife he has? Or it's possible that his sexual enjoyment may really be heightened if she has sex with other men?

Please don't call this perverted, or say this man needs a psychiatrist. He doesn't need one. Read the sex manuals. This is an accepted sex practice and is widely accepted nowadays.

SEE THE LIGHT

DEAR SEE: I'm sorry I cannot agree with you. No man in our culture who truly loves his wife wants her to have sex with other men. If his own sexual enjoyment is heightened by such a need, it suggests either that he may have unconscious homosexual feelings or that he consciously or unconsciously has a need to degrade his wife.

DEAR ABBY: What happens to a man when he becomes 59 years of age and wants to be young again? My husband dislikes being called "Grandpa," and is now sporting a mustache and sideburns (which he dyes), has asked for a bicycle for Christmas, and is shamelessly carrying on a flirtation with a 38-year-old woman.

Our daughter, who is a nurse, refers to his behavior as "the male menopause syndrome," and I call it "the fountain of youth disease."

What do you call it?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I call it "geriatricophilia"—fear of growing old. (Don't try to look it up in the dictionary—I just made it up.) It's harmless, unless the flirtation has gone beyond the conversation stage.

Storm Blows Debris Far

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The tornado that whipped through Xenia Wednesday dropped off some of the town's debris many miles away in northeast Ohio.

Several northeast Ohio residents found canceled checks scattered in various places Thursday and all had been drawn on Xenia banks.

The checks were apparently sucked up by the winds of the tornado which left the southwestern Ohio community a disaster area.

The checks were found in Bedford, Brunswick, Chagrin Falls, Mansfield, Ritchfield and Cuyahoga Falls.

Chagrin Falls is the farthest community from Xenia, about 200 miles. Mansfield is the closest, about 115 miles.

On Books And Activities At The Library

"Yours absolutely free . . ." "You can save up to . . ." "Just a few easy lessons . . ." When you hear remarks like these, "Beware!" says Joseph Rosenbloom in "Consumer Complaint Guide 1974." This guide lists thousands of manufacturers and names of persons to contact if you have a complaint or a word of praise for a product. Also included is a complete listing of federal, state and local agencies whose business it is to protect consumer rights.

Mr. Rosenbloom discusses the consumer and the law, the various gimmicks sellers use such as the bait and switch approach, referral schemes, the "congratulations, you have just won . . ." angle, etc. The dishonest seller is usually successful because so many buyers want something for nothing. The author lists guidelines for the consumer: shop and compare; don't buy for price alone; read everything—labels, ads; deal with reputable firms.

The birth of the psychiatric movement in America is the setting for "Ultimate Triumph" by Ruth Freeman Solomon. It is a story of the making of a psychiatrist—a man who risks everything to fulfill his personal and professional destiny. For those who like soap opera—or soap boxes.

"Little Girl Who Lives Down the Lane" by Laird Koenig will appeal to the "Exorcist" crowd. Set in Long Island, this chilling novel probes the many faces of innocence and evil. Macabre and gruesome.

"Passerman's Hollow" by Jane Stuart has its setting in the Southern Bible Belt. This gothic tale, written by Jesse Stuart's daughter, features terror, storms, a bit of insanity, and a strange disappearance.

London is the setting for two new gothics, "Nor Evil Dreams" by Rosemary Harris and "Dragonmede" by Rona Randall. "Nor Evil Dreams" is a suspense novel of a young teacher in London who becomes involved in murder and suicide. "Dragonmede" is set in the late 1800's. Eustacia Rochdale marries Julian Kershaw, heir to Dragonmede. At Dragonmede, she is met with hostility, suspicion—and strange accidents.

The newest setting for gothics, however, is Hawaii. Ihi-Ahi, a volcanic out-island is where "The House at Sandalwood" is located. Panic, dread, and hot tempers confront Judith in this exotic island setting.

A British Colonel and his faithful sergeant attempt to blow up a Nazi mine in German occupied Norway. "The Long Midnight" by Alan White has enough action to interest WWII fans who have gone through this before.

Faith Baldwin's "Time and the Hour" has a familiar setting—the town of Little Oxford. The story concerns a recently divorced artist and the architect to whom she is attracted.

A World War II concentration camp in Czechoslovakia is the setting for Micael Jacot's "The Last Butterfly." A has-been clown is forced to entertain the imprisoned children before an International Red Cross inspection. His defiance seals his fate.

"Pierre S. du Pont and the Making of the Modern Corporation" by Alfred D. Chandler, Jr. and Stephen Salisbury, is a very long, well-researched biography of the head of the DuPont Company and later General Motors. The authors had access to records, business and personal, rarely available to other historians in such profuseness. How Pierre joined the company when it was a loosely controlled family organization and developed it into a giant leader in American industry is detailed.

"The Coral Seas: Wonders and Mysteries of Underwater Life" by Hans W. Fricke will appeal to Cousteau fans. It has magnificent color photographs of underwater life.

Just new is "Questions and Answers about Nerves, Tension, and Fatigue" by Peter Steincrohn, M.D. These are many of the questions which Dr. Steincrohn has been asked to answer in his nationally syndicated column. "Journey Out of Nowhere" by Nancy Covert Smith is the story of Nancy's mental breakdown and recovery. Other books to promote well-being include "Modern Body-Building" by Oscar Heidenstam and "We Can Have Better Marriages If We Really Want Them" by David and Vera Mace.

To assist the farmer in keeping the livestock healthy and well-fed, and hopefully, the price of meat down, we have the following new editions: "Approved Practices in Feeds and Feeding" by Cassard and Juergenson; "Feed Formulations Handbook" by Perry; "The Scientific Feeding of

The Scioto Society, Inc., has been concerning itself in recent weeks with the problem of raising money to affect the needed repairs to the theater and to hire the cast and crew for the 1974 production season. The Scioto Society is the tri-county organization which sponsors the outdoor drama "Tecumseh" at Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheater.

Last summer, despite rainy weather, over 40,000 people attended "Tecumseh," which is the largest outdoor drama in the northeastern quadrant of the United States. Financially, the Society ended the first production year in the black. However, the small reserve has not covered year long expenses, upkeep and repairs on the amphitheater and parking lot and the cost of auditioning and rehearsal for the new cast.

The Society, which is made up of trustees from Pickaway, Ross and Pike counties, has no wish to conduct another fund drive, but is in dire need of operating capital to start another season.

Dr. Roscoe Swartz of Chillicothe, fund drive chairman, borrowing liberally from a scheme used by COSI in Columbus, presented the idea of a gourmet dinner and auction at the March trustees meeting.

The First Annual Tecumseh Ceremonial Feast is the outcome of enthusiastic board support for the idea. The gourmet dinner and auction will be held on May 17 at 7:30 at the Elks Hall in Chillicothe. There will be background music during the cocktail hour supplied by strolling players, followed by entertainment during dinner.

Sound and light for the event will be directed by Alan Levey, general manager of the drama. The dinner, itself will be catered and will be an elegant affair. Tickets will be $50 a couple or $25 a person and, besides covering the cost of food, beverages and entertainment, will be the only means of attending the auction following the dinner.

Four area auctioneers will make available to those assembled a highly diversified group of items, which will be donated by friends of the Society. Antiques, paintings, jewelry, oriental rugs, vintage wine and modern objects d'art will be some of the categories represented.

Ohioans are in for a chance in the weather. Following this week's warm and occasionally violent conditions, cooler air is moving into the state.

Readings before dawn were in the upper 30s and low 40s and were not likely to rise much today, with scattered light showers or flurries forecast in the north.

That's a considerable change from Thursday, when readings ranged into the 70s and Youngstown's 75 was a record for the date.

High pressure over the Central Plains was moving toward the lower Ohio Valley and was to bring fair weather to the state late tonight and Saturday.

Partially clearing skies with diminishing winds should let temperatures drop into the 20s and low 30s tonight and a frost or freeze warning is up for parts of Ohio. Temperatures should climb to the upper 30s and 40s Saturday, beginning a warming trend that will last through Monday.

of "Tecumseh," will contribute a full set of his books to be sold to the highest bidder.

Mrs. Clark Will is chairman of the Pickaway County invitation list and Mrs. David Yates is publicity chairman. Other county trustees include Mrs. Roger May, Mrs. William Robertson, Alvin Perdion, H. Newell Stevenson, Jr., William D. Radcliff and Nelson Embry.

The trustees are hopeful that the idea of contributing to the Society by attending the dinner-auction and donating an item to be sold will appeal to old friends, who have supported the drama in the past and new friends, who would like to become involved.

Businesses will not be solicited for donations. Friends and acquaintances of board members can expect to be contacted. A catalogue of items to be sold will be prepared, which will include the donors names. All donations are deductible, since the Society is a non-profit organization. Ticket information may be obtained from any trustee as well as cheerful pick-up for any item to be donated for the auction.

On the evening of May 17, the Scioto Society offers a delightful social event, the means of obtaining a real collector's item, and last, but not least, the opportunity to help in a community undertaking which is valuable to us all.

Volunteers Flock To Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — People came here from all over to do whatever was needed — from places such as Detroit, Cleveland, and Richmond, Ind. — to clean up debris rained out of a tornado Wednesday.

Ron Hampton, discharged two weeks ago from the Army, thought his first aid knowledge would be handy. Plenty of first aid help was available Thursday, so he helped search out the missing.

Elderly William L. Reed of Xenia put his CB radio to use. Husky Bill Hite of Franklin, who is unemployed, joined the street cleaning crews.

Mike Ferrell, acting Red Cross safety director, said there were more volunteers than the Red Cross ever expected.

"We kept telling them to get some sleep, to take it easy for a while, but they never stopped," Ferrell said.

George Barnhill of Xenia said he went down to the Red Cross to ask if his pickup could be put to use. Any kind of truck actually was in demand more than volunteers.

When the Community Blood Center announced Wednesday the need for blood donors, they reported 230 people registered and 300 more gave a name and phone number to be called if needed.

The unsung heroes included 26-year-old Linda Cable of Middletown, who wants to study nursing. She was working at the hometown Red Cross when the first warnings were issued for Xenia.

"When you know you're needed somewhere, you just go," she said, "and that's why I'm here."

Barry Hampton, a driver for the Fairborn rescue unit, said he took 17 people on one trip to Greene Memorial Hospital where more than 350 were treated in the aftermath of the killer storm.

Barbara Duell administered first aid, watched children and comforted the victims' families. Her husband John drove three station wagon loads full of clothing from Bellbrook while a 16-year-old daughter mopped floors in the YMCA disaster area.

The rubble was hard to believe for Jerry Egan, 19.

But the Stebbins High School student knew as well as all the volunteers that "the really sickening thing will be when these people leave these shelters to go back and see what's happened."

W. L. Mundell Is Rotary Club Guest

W. L. "Rusty" Mundell was the guest speaker at Thursday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. Mundell is president of the Scioto Society which produces "Tecumseh" at Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre.

The Society anticipates a rise in attendance over last year's 40,000. Mundell said an increase to 60,000 was predicted for this year's production season.

More action is also being planned for the play. A few changes will be made in the casting. Mundell showed Rotarians slides of the site before the construction of the amphitheatre and then of the present state of the Sugarloaf Mountain.

Following the slide presentation, the Society president answered questions from Rotarians concerning the production and the amphitheatre.

A letter of appreciation was received from the Red Cross commending the Rotary Club for its help in the Bloodmobile program. An urgent plea was also sent out for aid to all the victims of the recent tornado disaster. All food, money or other articles to be donated may be sent to the local Red Cross office for immediate distribution to the victims.

Dr. Robert Smith, chairman of the Rotary Foundation, reported to fellow Rotarians that two from our area have been selected as candidates. Chosen were Kathy Tomlinson and Tom Hamilton. This is the first time in the club's history two candidates were selected from the Circleville area.

Aaron Ties Ruth Record

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Thus far, after just one day in the spotlight, the 1974 baseball season bears a striking resemblance to 1973. Hank Aaron hit a home run — No. 714, tying Babe Ruth's career record — the Atlanta Braves' bullpen failed miserably, Pete Rose won a game for the Cincinnati Reds with some sharp hitting and baserunning, Reggie Jackson did some strong hitting for the Oakland A's and the Texas Rangers, despite Manager Billy Martin's pennant talk, lost.

Despite the slim opening day schedule — one game in each league — there was quite a bit of action as the Reds rallied to edge the Braves 7-6 in 11 innings in the National League while the two-time world champion A's trounced the Rangers 7-2 in the American.

Fourteen more teams are scheduled to get going today. In the AL, it's Detroit at Baltimore, California at the Chicago White Sox and Boston at Milwaukee in the afternoon and Minnesota at Kansas City under the lights.

The lone NL daylight game finds Houston at San Francisco. At night, Pittsburgh visits St. Louis and San Diego plays at Los Angeles.

The rest of the clubs swing into action Saturday. The big news Thursday was Aaron.

The 40-year-old slugger equaled Ruth's mark, which was once thought unreachable. He smashed a three-run homer off Cincinnati's Jack Billingham in the very first inning of the season on his very first trip to the plate.

"It was," said teammate Norm Miller, "the most appropriate thing to do at the time. It was like building Disneyland and opening the gate. The production had been made and the stage was set."

Reds Win 7-6 Despite Aaron

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The biggest guess of Hank Aaron's two baseball decades has hauled the ageless Atlanta Braves superstar onto the same home run plateau as Babe Ruth.

"I guessed fast ball and he got it up a little," Aaron said of his record-tying 714th career homer, a 380-foot line shot off Jack Billingham on his first swing of the 1974 season Thursday.

Now the 40-year-old Aaron is itching to pass the fabled Bambino's record, once considered the game's most unattainable record.

"I'm going to play Saturday," Aaron promised after the 7-6, 11-inning loss to the Cincinnati Reds, "and I'm going to play the game the way it was supposed to be played."

Aaron's next pitching target is Don Gullett, a flame-throwing left-hander who already has given up seven homers to Hammerin' Hank.

Aaron's feat impressed Vice President Gerald R. Ford, part of Cincinnati's biggest opening day throng of 52,154; Ruth's widow, and even Billingham.

"No scenario writer could have written a more perfect script," said Ford, who threw out the first pitch. "It was a historic sporting achievement."

Ford, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Braves Board Chairman Bill Batholomay all congratulated Aaron in six-minute ceremonies near home plate after his three-run homer over the left field fence.

"It came as no shock," said Mrs. Ruth. "I think it's good for the game. I hope he'll hit many more."

"He deserves it. He's the greatest I've ever seen," said Billingham, who served up an outside fast ball on a 3-1 count to Aaron.

"It was my mistake and he hits mistakes. I knew it was gone when I left the bat. It was a fast ball low and away that didn't sink," said the 19-game winner for the 1973 National League West Champions.

With one dramatic swing, Aaron erased a controversy that raged all winter on whether he should play here before the Braves return to Atlanta. Strangely, he took it in stride.

"Tying the record is great, but breaking it is another thing. Still, it's a load off my back," said Aaron, who believes he'll be more emotional for No. 715.

"I'll probably run around the bases backward," he joked.

The fact Ralph Garr and Mike Lum were on base at the time bothered

Billingham more than the pitch that earned him an unwanted spot in the game's record books.

"Seven hundred and 14 doesn't mean that much to me," said the 31-year-old righthander, who had yielded five previous Aaron homers. "I was thinking about the two men on base and being behind 3-0."

Billingham was talking to writers when Pete Rose scored from the second on Buzz Capra's wild pitch in the bottom of the 11th, taking him off the hook as the loser.

"We win? Beautiful," said Billingham, breaking into a grin.

Aaron's blast brought admiration from the Reds as well as his own teammates.

Garr, the first to greet him at home plate, said, "I just said, 'Way to go, Hammer.' Hammer just smiled."

Atlanta bullpen Coach Ken Silvestri said, "It brought a few tears to my eyes. I was crying a little bit. I felt like going up to Hank and saying now we both can retire."

Atlanta Manager Eddie Mathews, who made the decision to play Aaron six hours before gametime, said, "It came so sudden it was a surprise and a shock."

Cincinnati pilot George "Sparky" Anderson, an admitted admirer of Aaron, said, "It was no thrill at the time he hit it. We were behind 3-0."

Anderson predicted Aaron would snap Ruth's record shortly and took the chance to again praise Aaron's courage.

"If you noticed, his leg is bothering him," the Reds' manager

"That's why the public doesn't understand this guy. He wouldn't do anything to hurt the game."

Aaron went to bat three times after the opening inning. He grounded out to third base in the third, walked in the fifth and lined out to center field in the seventh before leaving the game.

"I was the same hitter. I was able to concentrate and relax a little more," the son of a retired Mobile, Ala., shipyard worker said.

Aaron overshadowed a Cincinnati comeback that wiped out 3-0 and 6-2 Atlanta leads.

Tony Perez had four runs batted in, including a three-run wallop that brought the Reds to within 6-5 in the eighth.

Cincinnati tied it in the ninth on a two-out single by George Foster and a double by Rose, who followed with another double in the 11th before Capra's tell-tale wild pitch.

Tiger Tracksters Rip Miami Trace

Circleville's track team turned in another high-point performance Thursday as the Tigers rolled to a 91-27 win over Miami Trace on the Panthers' oval.

The Red and Black cindersmen grabbed 11 of 14 first places, nine seconds and picked up nine third place spots.

Gaining wins for the Tigers were: Tom England, discus; Herbie Sturgell, 120 high hurdles; Warren Yamarick, 100; John Stevens, mile run; John Ankrom, 440; Frank Plescia, 180 low hurdles; Doug Palm, 880; Rick Sampsill, 220; Matt McGowan, 2-mile; 880 relay team, Warren Yamarick, Tim Strawser, Scott Simpson, Jeff Danford; mile relay team, Robin Martin, John McCoy, Mike McCoy, John Ankrom.

Circleville will compete in the Chillicothe Relays 1 p.m. Saturday.

Here are the results of the meet:

Braves' Bats Batter Berne Union, 13-12

After blowing a 9-0 lead, Logan Elm tallied a single marker in the bottom of the seventh inning to edge visiting Berne Union, 13-12, in the Brave's first outing in the Mid-State League Thursday.

The Braves exploded for nine runs in the bottom of the second to open the scoring. The big blow was a three-run homer off the bat of Jeff Reichelderfer, deep over the leftfield fence.

Berne Union scored three runs in the top of the third, Logan Elm tallied a single marker in the bottom of the third to grab a 10-3 lead.

The Rockets pushed four runs across the plate in the fifth to cut the gap to 10-7 but the Braves plated a pair in the bottom of the sixth to go on top 12-7. Berne Union scored five times in the top of the seventh, aided by eight walks, to knot the count at 12-12.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, Rob Black doubled, Tim Justus singled and Randy Pontius walked to load the bases. Greg Justus followed with a single and Black raced home with the winning marker.

Derek Morris opened on the hill for the Braves and went four and one-third innings. He gave up four hits, seven walks and fanned six. Tim Justus took over and finished the game. He allowed two hits, walked eight and struck out five.

Thom Smith, Joe Moody and Dusty Moran shared mound duties for Berne Union. They allowed a total of 17 hits, six walks and whiffed five Braves.

Once again it was the big bats of the Braves that brought home the victory.

Greg Justus had a double and single, Scott Pontius a single, Jeff Reichelderfer had a home run and double, Mark Justus a double and single, Steve Rawlins a double, Rob Black a double and single, Derek Morris a double and single, Tim Justus a single, Ron Stevens a double and Randy Pontius slammed two doubles and a single.

Reichelderfer and Randy Pontius were the big RBI men for the Braves with three apiece.

Joe Moody led Berne Union with a home run and single for four RBIs, while Rod Saunders and Clark Dupler each added a double and single.

Logan Elm is now 2-1 on the season, 1-0 in league play, and will be at Millersport 4:15 p.m. Monday in a Mid-State contest.

Willie's Dillies

A funny thing happened to Hank Aaron on his way to Atlanta—He stopped off in Cincinnati and slammed number 714 to tie the Babe's record.

The slender slammer stepped to the plate in the first inning and picked on a 3 and 1 pitch. He drilled it high and far over the left-centerfield fence and the rest was history.

The crowd liked it and gave him a standing ovation as he turned the base paths. The game was stopped and presentations and congratulations were showered onto the shoulders of the hero.

It was something to see—But in our book, and we think in Aaron's and the Braves, it's too bad it didn't happen in Atlanta.

However, Bowie Kuhn had ordered Aaron to play. And being a true competitor and a credit to the game, Aaron played. It was anti climatic after the bomb as the fans turned their attention towards a Reds' victory.

In Aaron's second trip to the plate he received some polite applause and on his third time at bat he got about as much acclaim as Adolph Hitler would have received at a B'nai B'rith convention.

If it had happened in Atlanta it would have been the 4th of July . . . Bastille Day . . . Redeye gravy and biscuits all around . . . the fragrance of Magnolias in the breeze . . . Southern Comfort on the rocks . . . dancing in the streets . . . Chief Wiga Waga Wooga would have stormed from his wigwam like the Indians at the Little Big Horn . . . the reversal of the burning of Atlanta and Sherman's march to the sea . . . it might even rivaled the final day of Casey O'Garritty's wake.

It's nice that the Cincinnati fans had a chance to see it—But the Atlanta fans would have made it a national holiday.—They deserved it!

Our "fearless" forecast—We are "keeno" for Trevino in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

4-Way Tie In GGO Golf Clash

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — There was a four-way tie for the top spot — Leonard Thompson, Mason Rudolph, Bob Charles and Babe Hiskey — in the rain-shortened first round of the $220,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

But Lee Trevino had a warning for them.

"I think I'm kinda just still rolling along from last week. I hope I can just keep it that way," Trevino said Thursday after rain forced one delay of more than an hour and finally curtailed play in this weatherplagued event.

Hiskey, Thompson, Rudolph and Charles, a left-hander from New Zealand, all got their six-under-par 65s on the board before the heavy rains and gathering darkness forced a suspension of play with 30 players still out on the soggy, sodden, 7,021-yard Sedgfield Country Club course.

The players who were stranded marked their position on the course and were to complete play early Friday morning before the start of secondround activity.

Trevino, who set a couple of season records in his stunning triumph at New Orleans last week, was tied with Jim Jamieson, Canadian George Knudson and Ray Floyd at 66 — just one stroke off the pace.

Trevino, along with Rudolph and Charles, got around before the rains hit. And Lee now has gone 90 holes, five consecutive rounds, without making a bogey.

Australian Bruce Crampton, South African Gary Player and defending champion Chi Chi Rodriguez were in a group at 69 as some four dozen players broke par 71 despite the miserable playing conditions that plagued the afternoon starters who played their rounds in a steady downpour.

What an unsettling week this one has been and for no particular reason. A possible touch of spring fever, I guess. Amy is back in school after being absent two days with complaints of sore throat, headache, leg ache and general aches and pains. Others around town afflicted with the same symptoms have been Maria Cristina Ramos, T-Bird (Teresa) Graffis and Paula Lemaster.

'Twas a busy weekend at this household what with everyone attending the Schleich-Wright wedding Saturday evening and then later on it was our pleasure to have Carl and Nancy Reichelderfer and their Carla Ann, Julie and John and their exchange daughter from Brazil, Leticia, Cipriano Marco from Logan Elm district, Marabel Drummond with Joy Lynn, Sandee and exchange daughter Martha from Colombia, Dolly Thompson and exchange son Alejandro also from Colombia, Maria Cristina Ramos from Brazil join us and our exchange daughter Maria Martha Arguello from Nicaragua for a very lively evening of much fun.

Sunday we enjoyed the company of my mother, Mrs. Earl Hardman of Chillicothe and my sister Norma and her better half John Gillfillan and their Jo Lynne of near Piqua. With the three G's was a friend of Jo's by the name of Heidi (last name was lost in the shuffle).

Hey, by the way, something new has been added to the "social life" of our village. Starting this past Friday night euchre will be played every other Friday night at the Legion Hall. John Hooks and company will be in charge of arrangements. The crowd was fairly good this last week and it is hoped that April 12 there will be an even larger group gathered to test their wits and skill. Time: 8 p.m. And David

Three Calls Answered By Firemen

Three fire calls were answered by the Circleville Fire Department since Thursday afternoon.

A flame in the incinerator room at Heck's department store on Route 23 was extinguished by firemen at 4:47 p.m. yesterday. The fire was caused by a blow back of burning trash from the incinerator. No damage was reported.

William Uhl, 505 Stella Ave., reported an auto fire later Thursday at 7:25 p.m. Uhl's vehicle caught fire on Half Avenue when the gasoline line around the carburetor ruptured. Firemen estimated the damage to the car at $10.

An early morning fire at the Container Corporation of America plant was reported by Raymond Williams at 5:05 a.m. today. The fire was caused by a mixture of paper and hydraulic fluid around the dryer rolls. Loss of the equipment at the plant is still undetermined. The fire took no toll on the building.

Metzenbaum Votes For Debate Cloture

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and 59 other senators voted in favor of cloture to shut off debate on the campaign reform bill, but the move failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority.

Among the 36 senators voting against cloture was Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Schleich, I will not tell everybody that you did not play too well—after all, maybe it wasn't you but your partners—right?

Cancer Crusade

This coming Sunday, crusaders will be out in force knocking on all doors for contributions to the 1974 Cancer Drive. We urge villagers to support this worthy cause as generously this year as they have in other years. As chairman of the drive for our town I was quite interested in literature received that shows a breakdown of how monies are allocated.

Research receives 30.3 per cent; public education 18. per cent; professional education 10.9 per cent; patient services 13. per cent; community services 6.6 per cent; fund raising 11.2 per cent; and management and general 10. per cent.

Cancer's 7 warning signals are ingeniously spelled out into the word CAUTION—Change in bowel or bladder habits; A sore that does not heal; Unusual bleeding or discharge; Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere; Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing; Obvious change in wart or mole; Nagging cough or hoarseness. Should you experience any of these symptoms you should seek medical attention promptly.

Pain is the color of Paul Drummond's world for the time being. Paul had the misfortune to be on a ladder when it went kaput and he fell suffering a crushed vertebrae and is a patient at Berger Hospital. We trust he will mind the p's and q's set forth by his doctor and will soon be all better. And may the ladder that broke go where all bad ladders should go when they have misbehaved.

Holy Week Services

Following the theme "New Life" the Williamsport United Methodist Church and the Church of Christ in Christian Union will hold Union Holy Week Services beginning Sunday through Friday. Song leaders will be the well known Jack and Doris Born with special music provided each evening.

The schedule is as follows: United Methodist Church—Sunday, Easter Cantata; Monday, Sunday School Night; Tuesday, Senior Citizen Night. Church of Christ—Wednesday Young Adult Night; Thursday, Youth Night and Holy Communion; Friday, Family Night.

The ministers of the respective churches, the Rev. Richard Crosby and the Rev. Norval Shepard invite each and everyone to come and worship each evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. Nursery care will be provided for the youngsters.

Be with you again next week be the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: The smallest seed of faith is better than the largest fruit of happiness.

French Elections Scheduled May 5

PARIS (AP) — France will vote for a successor to President Georges Pompidou May 5, the government announced today as politicians jostled for position in the race.

If no candidate wins a majority in the first round, a second round will be held May 19 matching the two biggest votegetters in the May 5th balloting.

The decision, reported to newsmen by Agriculture Minister Raymond Marcellin, came at a cabinet meeting held while leaders from all parts of the world were converging on Paris for a memorial service for Pompidou.

President Nixon was due late in the day to attend the requiem mass in Notre Dame Cathedral Saturday morning. The White House said Nixon would return home Saturday evening and had no plans for "substantive meetings" with other leaders attending the memorial.

The mourners will include Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, East German Premier Willi Stoph, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his predecessor Edward Heath, Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan.

Pompidou died Tuesday at the age of 62, two years before the end of his seven-year term. He was buried Thursday in a simple private ceremony in the cemetery near his country home in the village of Orvilliers, 35 miles from Paris.

Two Gaullist candidates for the succession — former Premiers Jacques Chaban-Delmas and Edgar Faure — announced Thursday, and Socialist party chief Francois Mitterrand was also certain. Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing was also a prospective challenger to Chaban-Delmas and Faure for the anti-Left vote.

The first round of the presidential election must be held April 28 or May 5, with a runoff two weeks later if no candidate gets a majority. The betting so far is that Chaban-Delmas and Mitterrand will meet in the runoff.

Chaban-Delmas, the 59-year-old mayor of Bordeaux, was Pompidou's first premier and has wide support among Gaullist party officials. Pompidou fired him in 1972 because of scandals in government circles.

Faure, 65, is president of the National Assembly with possibly more support than Chaban-Delmas outside the Gaullist ranks and considerably less inside.

Giscard d'Estaing heads the small Independent Republican party, longtime allies of the Gaullists. There was speculation he and Faure would get together, with Giscard supporting Faure's presidential candidacy in exchange for the premiership if Faure were elected.

Criminal Costs Total $3,689

The amount of $3,689.63 in criminal costs subsidies, will be distributed to Pickaway County, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The state pays, on a monthly basis, for the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons convicted of felony crimes under the criminal costs subsidy program.

The money is appropriated by the legislature to the Auditor's office for this purpose.

Actor Joe Flynn Beaten, Robbed

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — "I really thought they were going to kill me," reports television actor Joe Flynn of two men he says beat him up in a mugging at his motel.

Flynn appeared at a Cancer Society dinner Thursday night despite a mouth cut and a black eye suffered when he was mugged Wednesday night.

Flynn, who played the role of Capt. Binghamton in the series "McHale's Navy," told the audience he was walking from the motel office back to his room, where he and his wife were staying, when two men grabbed him and took him to another room for some two hours.

Flynn said the men, who didn't appear to be from South Carolina, beat him up, took the $13 in cash he had and a $400 watch.

Rock Davis Chosen Baseball Captain

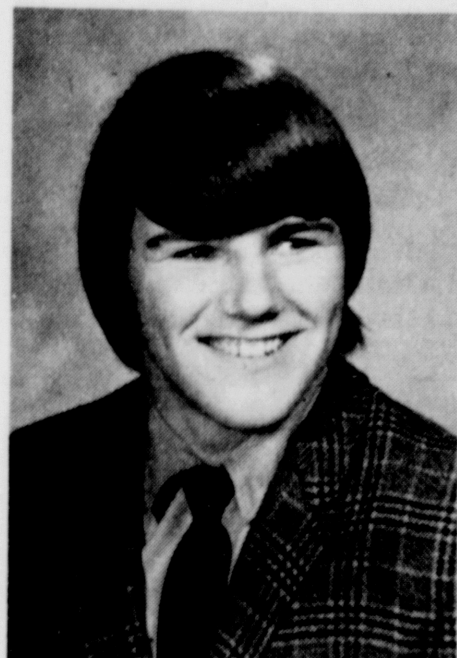

By CINDY SIMS

The 1974 varsity baseball team has chosen Rock Davis as their captain. All team members voted upon the selection.

Rock, a senior, is a returning letterman from both his sophomore and junior year. Rock has also made the all-SCOL team for the past two years. As a sophomore and junior, Rock played third base. This year he has been moved to left field. Rock's batting average last year was .341.

"I feel if our hitting comes along that we'll do a good job this year. We have a double-header tomorrow with Teays Valley and we're ready to take both

DECA Student Employed At Caddy Miller's

BILL SALYERS

By RONI KEISER

"It has helped me to speak more freely around strangers and to learn more about marketing and sales, and it has also showed me how to help customers select merchandise," said DECA student, Bill Salyers, senior.

Bill resides with his mother, Mrs. Janice Salyers, and his two sisters, Brenda and Bonnie, at 682 E. Ohio St.

Bill is employed at Caddy Miller's, where he works as a sales clerk. He works 30 hours a week. Bill commented, "At first it was hard to talk to a customer, but now it's just like talking to a person that I know. I have also gained more confidence with increased merchandise knowledge."

Among Bill's likes are sports, macaroni and cheese, Wednesdays and Sundays. He dislikes cold weather and snow storms.

After graduation Bill plans to keep on working at Caddy Miller's and learn more about store management and customers' desires.

Gulick To Attend Institute

A special honor has been accorded senior Dean Gulick, who received an invitation to attend the Twenty-Eighth Annual World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati today and tomorrow. The announcement of the selection was made by the president of the Circleville Rotary Club. As a public service, the Rotary Club will defray expenses for the local participant.

One thousand selected students from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia will participate in the two-day meeting, as guests of their local Rotary Clubs. The topic for the 1974 Institute is: "The Society Union: 1974 and Beyond".

Ranking European and American authorities will speak, take part in discussions, and engage in informal question periods with the students. The Institute provides a unique opportunity for outstanding students to understand an area important to our country, and the relating policy questions facing our nation.

Participants and their adult leaders, in addition to a comprehensive program of vital information about an important area of international concern, will be afforded an opportunity to tour educational and cultural institutions in Cincinnati. The social highlight of the meeting will be a dance in the Ballroom of the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel.

The World Affairs Institute is organized and sponsored by the Rotary Club of Cincinnati, and the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs, with the cooperation of the Avco Broadcasting Corporation.

CHS Club Celebrates Latin Week

By RICK BUMGARNER

Homemade cinnamon bread, baked ham in Roman sauce, fruits, and vegetables were just a few of the delicacies enjoyed by the CHS Latin Club Monday evening when they held their annual Roman banquet in the home economics room. The banquet was held to celebrate National Latin week.

All members of the Latin Club came to the banquet in Roman dress to put the finishing touches on an atmosphere of ancient Rome. Entertainment was performed by members of Mrs. Breegle's freshman Latin classes, who attended the banquet as slaves. The entertainment included readings of Roman literature, a dance, and a special wine ceremony to Jupiter, King of the Gods, asking him to bless the wine and the banquet.

While attending the banquet, junior and senior members of the Latin Club came as gods and goddesses. Sophomores came as plebians or patricians, the middle and upper class of Roman society, respectively.

John Dowler, president of Latin Club, stated, "I would like to thank all Olympian Council members for their help in making our fifth annual Roman banquet a huge success."

New Student Comes From Westfall

DINAH GAIL UNDERWOOD

By MARGARET MERRILL

"I really like Circleville. Everyone is nice and friendly. Circleville students seem to have more freedom to say what they want than the students at Westfall," commented the new student, Dinah Gail Underwood.

Gail resides at 200 Meadow Drive with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Brown. She has two brothers, Alan, also a junior at CHS, and Gary, who lives in Tennessee.

As a junior, Gail is enrolled in the college prep courses at CHS, and she plans to go on to college. She is active in GAA and the girls' basketball team. Her favorite things are jeans and motorcycles. She enjoys going to parties, movies, and concerts. Gail says that study halls and being grounded are the worst things in life.

To all the "Mustangs" at Westfall, Gail would like to say "Hi!"

By SUSAN ESTES

The CHS track team started the 1974 season off well with two wins over Washington Court House and Westland. Both wins were decisive with scores, respectively, 103-24 and 90-37. Members of the track team agreed that the new all-weather track was a big asset and really helped cut down the times.

The track team aims to set a league record by obtaining their fifth straight SCOL Championship this year. "It's all up to the guys," said Jim Lint, head track coach.

Returning this year are several league placers: Reggie Radcliff, second in pole vault; Matt McGowan, third in the mile; Doug Radabaugh, fifth in 880-run and third in pole vault; Steve Watters, second in two-mile; Jeff Danford, second in high hurdles and third in low hurdles; Rick Samp-sill, third in 220 and 100-yard dash.

"I'm pleased with the depth the boys have shown so far and with the way they have been working and competing among themselves," commented Coach Lint.

Important meets coming up are the Chillicothe relays, tomorrow; the Circleville relays, next Saturday; and the SCOL meet, April 30.

Ty Ankrom Is New Reading Teacher

By MARGARET MERRILL

Circleville has a new developmental reading teacher, Ty Ankrom. He resides at 415 N. Pickaway St. Ankrom is a life-long resident of Circleville.

He attended Ohio University for one year and graduated from Capital University with a bachelor of art degree in elementary education. While there, he was active in Capital Student Education Association, baseball, and intramurals.

This is Ankrom's first year of teaching except for his student teaching at Mifflin. He said he chose to teach at Circleville because of the small town atmosphere and because he has lived here all his life.

According to Ankrom, today's youth are much more aware of the events taking place in the world and are much more eager to learn. He also feels that teaching rewards him with different experiences throughout the day.

"My teaching philosophy is that everyone needs some successful experience and should be fulfilled in the

Band's Work-In Was Successful

By JOHN DOWLER

"The Work-In was a success," stated Gary Dean, director of the Tiger band. The band spent last Saturday completing their projects.

Dean said, "Although some of the projects had to be cancelled, due to bad weather conditions this past weekend, many of the projects are rescheduled for tomorrow."

The band has been doing all this work to help finance their upcoming trip in May to the Indianapolis 500 Festival.

"The band will begin working on their marching routines for the Indianapolis 500 Parade on April 16," stated Dean.

Bandsmen are also preparing for their May 10 concert, the Memorial Day Parade, and the commencement exercises.

Wholesale Prices Increase Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose sharply again last month despite the first big decline in prices for farm products and processed foods in four months, the government said today.

A 2.1 per cent drop reported in prices for farm products, processed foods and feeds failed to offset the big rise in prices for a broad range of industrial goods as the over-all price index for March increased by a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent.

classroom. As a teacher, I feel it is my responsibility to lead the student in directions in which he can meet some success. I would also like to instill a sense of responsibility and a respect for the rights of others.

Circleville is a nice place to live, according to the new teacher, because it doesn't have the big-city problems, but it is close enough to the big cities to take advantage of their positive points.

He lists sports, traveling, and reading as some of his likes. He is presently working on his master's degree at Ohio State University with the idea of someday becoming an administrator.

Ankrom graduated in 1970 from CHS. There he was active in basketball and baseball. He was also Stogie Club secretary, Student Council president, and Boy's State representative.

Boys And Girls In Service

U. S. Air Force Technical Sergeant Fred G. Zoltz, son of Mrs. Tennie Zoltz, Route 1, Williamsport, has arrived for duty at March AFB, Calif.

Sergeant Zoltz, an air traffic controller, is assigned to a unit of the Air Force Communications Service. He previously served in Thailand.

The sergeant is a 1960 graduate of Williamsport High School. His wife, Katherine, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wallace, Brunswick, Maine.

Stephen R. Sturgell, 21, whose wife, Connie, lives at 225 Scioto St., Ashville, was promoted to Army Specialist Four while serving with the 37th Transportation Group in Pirmasens, Germany.

Spec. Sturgell is a truck driver in the 76th Transportation Company of the group's 530 Transportation Battalion.

Air Force Second Lieutenant Robert Totle, Route 2, has graduated from the Strategic Air Command (SAC) KC-135 Stratotanker combat crew training course at Castle AFB, Calif.

Lieutenant Tottle, a pilot, is being reassigned to the 380th Aerial Refueling Squadron at Plattsburgh AFB, N. Y.

The lieutenant, a 1968 graduate of Circleville High School, received his B. A. degree in zoology in 1972 from Ohio Wesleyan University and was commissioned there through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

The lieutenant's wife, Constance, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bowers, 921 Circle Drive.

Army Specialist Four Lloyd F. McManus Jr., 19, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd F. McManus, live on Route 2, Ashville, is serving with the Third Infantry (The Old Guard) at Ft. Myer, Va.

Spec. McManus is a rifleman in Company A of the infantry's 1st Battalion.

Staff Sergeant Randy Sutton, the local Air Force representative, was recently named the top Air Force recruiter in southeastern Ohio for the month of February.

RANDY SUTTON

This is the third consecutive month that Sergeant Sutton has received this honor. During February he met or surpassed every goal he was given.

David Harris of 539 E. Mound has been accepted into the U. S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), according to SFC Harmon, local Army representative.

DAVID HARRIS

Scheduled to graduate from Circleville High School in June 74, David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris.

The DEP Program enables a high school senior to make plans while in school for his future after graduation. A qualified young man can be guaranteed a choice of training, schooling and, in most cases, location.

David selected the Army's 12A combat engineering school at Ft. Carson. Combat engineering training will equip him for assignment as Heavy equipment operator. This training also can be utilized in comparable civilian occupations.

The address for Ian Griffey is: 293543531, VAQ 134 U. S. N., Oak Harbour, Washington 98278.

Carl Fuller, Route 1, Mt. Sterling has been accepted into the U.S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), according to SFC Harmon, local Army representative.

Scheduled to graduate from Westfall High School in May 1974, Carl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Fuller, Mt. Sterling. He has been active in track during his four years at Westfall High School.

CARL FULLER

The DEP Program enables a high school senior to make plans while in school for his future after graduation. A qualified young man can be guaranteed a choice of training, schooling and, in most cases, location. Carl selected the Army's 45B small arms school at Ft. Carson. Small arms training will equip him for assignment as armorer. This training also can be utilized in comparable civilian occupations.

Many World War II veterans may remember the Women's Army Corps as a glorified steno pool. That's not the case in today's Army.

Members of the recently instituted American WAC Company are training to be draftsmen, auto repairmen, translators, offset pressmen, traffic analysts and other skilled specialists.

The American WAC Company is one of nine companies in the 17th WAC Battalion being trained at the WAC Basic Training Center at Fort Jackson, S. C. Its membership was drawn from each of the 50 states including a 25-member Northern New England platoon and representatives from the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico.

It is the first company in the Women's Army Corps to be trained at Fort Jackson. Previously, all WAC's received their basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala. The expansion of the Corps from 38,000 members to 50,000 members necessitated establishing a new battalion at the Fort Jackson Training Center.

Although there is a definite need for clerk typists in the Army, the American WAC Company exemplifies the wide range of job opportunities available to young women in today's Army.

For further information on the Women's Army Corps contact your local Army representative, SFC Carl L. Harmon 474-8525.

Michael Adkins, now serving with the United States Army as a recon specialist, has returned home recently after serving some 16 months in Colorado. Mike, now residing at Route 4, with his wife and baby daughter, is also still with the Army. He has returned to work as a Unit of Choice-Hometown Recruiter. Mike is working with the Army Recruiters here.

MICHAEL ADKINS

Since going into the Army in 1972, Mike has had the fortunate opportunity to do some traveling and attending Army schools, plus the chance to further his college education. After graduating as the honor graduate from both his basic training and his advanced individual training classes, Mike traveled with his unit, to Army Recondo School at Fort Carson, Col.

This school gives advanced intensive training in areas such as survival, patrolling, and leadership, as each person ends up leading several different patrols, regardless of his rank. After three weeks of this school Mike had high enough marks to graduate in a distinguished graduate position.

In 1973, Mike traveled again with his unit, scored a first in many years and attended the Marine Amphibious Recon School in Coronado, Calif.

Mike learned to conduct hydrographic surveys and make such things as cartography charts. The unit's night operation at the end of this two week school was judged in words of the school Commandant to be the best operation ever conducted in his two year history of the school.

Since that time Mike has been back at Fort Carson in Colorado Springs, Col. getting in a quarter of college at Nazarene Bible College until his coming back home for the Army.

Anyone wishing to talk to Mike about the Army or Fort Carson, call him at 474-8525.

Farm Tax Bill Sent To Gilligan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A farm tax bill sent to Gov. John J. Gilligan from the General Assembly may help a planned campaign to aid Ohio's rural residents.

The Ohio Farmers Union announced the campaign Thursday. One of their objects is a farm real estate tax system based on farmland income.

The measure on the governor's desk would do just that. Under the new bill, farmland would be taxed on its agricultural value rather than its real estate market value.

The union said it also will attempt to save railroad service to rural communities.

The union said it also will oppose construction of a waste disposal sludge farm in the Lima area.

The union's board of directors also demanded that the administration and Congress take action to increase farm prices.

The board said in a statement that if support prices are not increased to more "realistic levels", it will consider recommending that farmers "reconsider their planting intentions."

High Lake Level Seen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Lake Survey Center in Detroit said Thursday lake levels in Lake Erie could break a high-water mark record next month.

High-water levels and the threat of storms could cause floods in Lake Erie, and also Lake St. Clair which also could come close to breaking its high water record, the center said.

Both record levels were set last May when there was heavy flooding in lakeshore communities.

Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron and Ontario are not expected to reach record high levels, though they may be up over their long-term averages, the center said.

Center officials said storm-induced waves could cause erosion damage at those lakes because of the above normal levels.

Ferguson Rejects Abortion Outlays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson says he'll continue to refuse to disburse public funds for abortions performed on women on welfare.

"I do not know any reason why we should permit the state funds to be used for murder," Ferguson said. "If anyone wants to have an abortion, they had better save their money. We are not going to pay for it."

But a spokesman for state Welfare Director Charles Bates says the department will continue authorizing abortions, even without funds to pay for them.

There is a possibility, however, that doctors and hospitals may begin refusing to perform abortions on welfare patients if they are unsure of payment.

Welfare department spokesman Dick Lightner says if that occurs, "That's Mr. Ferguson's problem."

"We're meeting our obligations under state law. He's not meeting his."

So far, Ferguson says he has refused payment for more than 1,000 abortions authorized by welfare agencies. That comes to about $150,000 in unpaid medical bills, the 82-year-old Ferguson said.

Some medical institutions already are filing suits seeking reimbursement for abortions they have performed.

A Cincinnati abortion clinic, The Womens Center, said it will file a lawsuit soon to about $100,000 for abortions performed by various medical facilities in Cincinnati and Dayton.

Another suit already has been filed in Franklin County by the Founder abortion clinic in Columbus. Founder's attorney Fred Luper, said he has talked with welfare officials about the payment problem.

"It is the clinic's policy that no one will be turned away because of inability to pay," Luper said. "We believe welfare recipients should receive the medical benefits entitled to them, notwithstanding Auditor Ferguson's feelings on the subject."

73-Year-Old Widow Raped And Robbed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 73-year-old Madisonville section widow was raped and robbed in her home early Thursday morning police said.

The victim said the man, about 30, forced his way into her home saying he was checking tornado damage.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Strength of purpose, ingenuity and thorough knowledge of your ground will be needed now. Don't enter into new activities without complete investigation.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stress your enthusiasm and eagerness to do well—both Taurean assets—but be willing, also, to WAIT out results, to accept setbacks with inner calm.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Avoid present tendencies to scatter energies and to start too many things at one time. Acknowledge—and make—necessary changes in plans previously considered perfect.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Fine planetary influences. With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Here is a splendid day for handling both routine matters and extraordinary projects. New advances are indicated in some ventures which have hitherto been standing still.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A fair day. You can manage in better-than-average fashion, yet must take precautions neither to underestimate nor overevaluate new propositions.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some opposition, but also plenty of smooth sailing if you are ready to pitch in and set your sights straight for worthwhile goals. Appraise values warily.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Keep all avenues open for discussion, maneuverability. Back what you realize has good potentials, however.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Though many means for advancement exist, there is a possibility of throwing a wrench in the machinery through wrong attitude, suspicion. Beware!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You can have a fine day but you may run into some competition. Don't let this dismay you, but fight it with your good judgment and know-how. You CAN beat it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Meaningful mutual respect will engender healthier cooperation between forces that should be working together. Demonstrate YOUR good faith.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Avoid distractions from your true course, but be sure what your true course is! Accept change—for real improvement. Work even harder to realize your hopes—and expect to win!

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely competent individual, able to do big jobs in a big way, but are sometimes unable to fulfill your potential because you fear failure. Try to bolster your self-confidence since, with your unusual versatility and inner stamina, there is nothing you cannot accomplish once you set your mind to it. Many famous artists, entertainers and journalists have been born under Aries. Other fields for which you are suited: interior decoration, designing and teaching. Birthdate of: Raphael, renowned Ital. painter; Lowell Thomas, author, lecturer, explorer; Harry Houdini, renowned entertainer and "escape artist."

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — I hate to distract you from Hank Aaron's next at-bat, but there'll be joy in Mudville and other locales this summer for pro football freaks who equate baseball with drought.

Two television firms here say they're offering a summer supply of gridiron jousts from both the Canadian Football League and the new, 12-team World Football League. The jousts will last through the fall.

The summer football season — deodorant sponsors, take note — starts June 26 with the CFL's All-Star game. It'll be broadcast in the United States by Ralmar Sports Productions, which has done this since 1972.

The WFL's wars begin July 18, covered by the TVS Television Network, which in past years has concentrated on college basketball and such things as the World University games from Moscow.

The two companies say they've a total of 45 games scheduled.

TVS' president Eddie Einhorn says his network will offer 23 of those games — 19 on Thursday nights, three on Saturday nights and the WFL championship battle on Nov. 29, a Friday.

Marty Rosenblatt, a Ralmar vice president, says his company will offer 12 games, the 11th ending Sept. 3 with no further video action until the CFL's championship Grey Cup game at the end of November.

Einhorn, who says his company paid more than $1 million for the WFL rights, says he's signed up 50 stations so far and expects to have at least 130 by July 18, all but 30 of them major network affiliates.

Rosenblatt says U.S. rights for CFL games this year cost $300,000. He says he's signed up 62 stations so far — of which 35 per cent are network affiliates — and expects to have 20 more by kickoff June 26.

Although most of the CFL games seen in the United States last year were on a videotape-delay basis, Rosenblatt says "we're going mostly live" this year with nationally televised CFL games on Wednesday nights.

Einhorn says all the WFL games will be offered live. Okay, now that that's out of the way, a question: Won't the two-league offering slice the summer football market a bit thin?

Einhorn says no, the CFL doesn't offer that much competition.

"Obviously, there's a little problem with the WFL, but we're going on different nights," says Rosenblatt.

Final question: Summer football, if the WFL's brand clicks with TV and in-person fans, will mean the game is with us for every season but spring. Won't that take the dollar-rich bloom off the pigskin?

"I don't know," says rosenblatt. "We're strictly a summer package, and now we've got competition. . . . We don't need big (ratings) numbers to do well, but I don't know where it's going to take us."

"Well, I have a theory about oversaturation," says TVS' Einhorn. "If people still watch it and sponsors still buy it, there's no oversaturation."

"When the day comes that ratings drop and therefore the sponsor interest drops, then you can say there's oversaturation . . . but right now, pro football is the hottest thing going."

Library Thief Took Gasoline

EL PASO, Tex (AP) — For many months, the El Paso Public Library's bookmobiles were losing gasoline while parked overnight.

Thieves repeatedly siphoned gas from the vehicles' tanks.

Valentin Ontiveros, bookmobile operator, came up with an idea to halt the activity.

He suggested the two vans be parked close together facing opposite directions and the tank openings facing inward.

For his suggestion, Ontiveros received a $25 award from the library's board of directors.

Bats, nocturnal creatures, roost in deep shadows by day, wrapping their leathery wings about them like capes to keep warm. They have knees and toes hinged in the opposite direction from man's so they can hang upside down.

Find People Believe In Devil

NEW YORK (AP) — The scientific elite were somewhat taken aback on being informed that amid all the modern technological advances, a new, national study shows people are believing more and more in the active reality of the devil.

When told of it, participants in a recent meeting in San Francisco of the American Association for the Advancement of Science "were absolutely shocked," says Clyde Z. Nunn, a social researcher who reported the findings to them.

"It didn't fit their pre-suppositions," he adds. "It was mind-blowing for them."

He said the fact that Americans are increasingly convinced of the devil's existence runs counter to the scientific community's general assumption of "progressively increasing rationalism as an automatic evolutionary process."

Most scientists "want to believe that society has become so rationalized that it has moved out of the nonrational

Set Inspection Of Devastated Areas Of State

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's two U.S. senators, and federal officials planned to tour tornado-ravaged areas of the state today and Saturday.

Sens. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio said they would make a helicopter tour of the disaster stricken areas this morning.

The two senators planned to first walk through Cincinnati's Saylor Park section, then fly to Sharonville, Xenia and Central State University at Wilberforce.

Another group of senators from the Senate Public Works Committee planned to inspect tornado damage in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee today and Saturday.

Chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., said the subcommittee is considering major revision of the Disaster Relief Act of 1970. He said the tour would help members determine what action Congress should take to help tornado victims.

The committee did not release its itinerary.

Earlier Thursday, Vice President Gerald R. Ford flew over parts of southern Ohio struck by the tornadoes.

"The destruction, the devastation, is unbelievable," Ford said.

The vice president promised immediate government help for victims as he flew over Xenia and Cincinnati.

He was in Cincinnati for the major league baseball opener.

Motorcyclist Killed

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Daniel Conn, 27, of Middletown, injured Tuesday when his motorcycle collided with a car, died late Wednesday at Middletown Hospital, police said.

world," he said. But he added that the newly gathered data reveal an opposite trend at work.

The new study, made by the Center for Policy Research here, found that in nine years the number of people believing in the certainty of the devil has risen from 37 to 48 per cent of the population, with another 20 per cent considering his existence probable.

Altogether, 68 per cent is either sure about it or thinks it likely.

Nunn, the center's senior research associate, linked the upsurge in such belief to "times of great stress, when things seem to be falling apart, when there is great uncertainty in society and limited resources to cope with it."

"It's apparently an attempt to make sense of a world of ambiguities and to explain the evil in it," he said in an interview. He said it also made for an atmosphere vulnerable to demagogic promises to hunt out the devil's instruments.

It has the potentiality of "some new round of witch hunting," said Nunn, a University of Nebraska sociology professor before joining the center, which aims to search out trends so social policy can be shaped to deal with them.

The new study, involving a scientifically selected cross section of 3,546 people, was made last spring. Consequently, the results don't reflect the recent movie-stirred interest in demonology but derive from other conditions.

Nunn said the study, by using identically phrased questions as a parallel survey in 1964, provides the first comparative measurement of shifts in intensity of beliefs about the supernatural.

Synthetic Gas Plant Is In Operation

Initial production has started at Green Springs in the reforming plant built to supply synthetic gas to Columbia Gas of Ohio and other distribution companies served by the Columbia Gas System, J. W. Partridge, chairman, announced today.

Operated by a System affiliate, Columbia LNG Corporation, the $44 million facility is the first project completed in the Columbia System's longrange program to develop major non-historic gas supplies for its customers, Partridge said. Design capacity of the plant is 250 million cubic feet of gas daily.

Affiliated and non-affiliated distribution companies will buy the synthetic gas directly at the plant, with transportation and storage services provided by another System affiliate, Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation. These distribution companies supply more than four million customers in seven states and the District of Columbia, including the Circleville area.

Based on currently available feedstock supplies, production at the plant will reach a level of 144 million cubic feet daily.

Feedstock for the Green Springs plant currently comes entirely from a stream of liquid hydrocarbons supplied by Dome Petroleum, Ltd. of Canada through a new pipeline to the plant from Sarnia, Ontario. Columbia's current ten-year contract with Dome is for 40,000 barrels of liquids daily.

Domestic feedstock supplies that have been contracted for are currently not available under the priorities permitted by the Mandatory Fuel Allocation Regulations which became effective January 15, 1974. Columbia has filed a petition with the Federal Energy Office to obtain an allocation on a hardship basis for domestic feedstock under a contract with a subsidiary of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation. A pipeline from Lima, Ohio, to Green Springs has been constructed to deliver this feedstock.

"Synthetic gas from this plant is vitally needed to offset part of the decline in deliveries from Columbia's historic gas supply sources," Partridge said in announcing the plant start-up. "The supply of synthetic gas unfortunately will do no more than enable Columbia to maintain service to existing customers."

Cost of the synthetic gas, based on current feedstock prices, will be approximately $2 per thousand cubic feet, he said. He noted that 85 per cent of the price of gas at the plant is attributable to feedstock prices, which are closely related to spiraling costs of domestic and foreign petroleum prices.

"While this gas is expensive, it is the only new major supply immediately available, and when its cost is averaged in with that of larger volumes of lower cost gas, the impact on the consumer's rate will be minor," he said.

A Columbia Gas of Ohio spokesman said that when the current cost of the synthetic gas from Green Springs is passed along to Columbia customers under provisions of the contracts each community has with the company, it will mean an increase of about 6½ cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas used or about 96 cents a month for the average residential customer.

The synthetic gas produced here is equivalent in chemical composition and heating value to natural gas and will blend with gas already being delivered through the transmission lines.

The process used at Green Springs was developed in Great Britain by the British Gas Corporation and had been widely employed in plants in Europe to supply gas needs. The process is similar to that used in several smaller synthetic gas plants already in operation in the U.S.

The plant operating force is about 90 men, with four shifts of operators, a maintenance group and administrative personnel. Payroll will be about $1.5 million annually, and the plant's local tax bill is expected to be about $1 million.

Columbia recently signed a contract with Chemetron Corporation to sell sizeable quantities of by-product carbon dioxide from the plant for processing in a Chemetron facility nearby.

Partridge said that the Green Springs reforming plant is only the first of several major projects Columbia has underway to develop non-historic gas supplies over the next ten years. First imports of base-load liquefied natural gas supplies are expected to begin in the winter of 1976-77, he said, followed in several years by delivery of gas from the Arctic areas of Alaska and Canada, and in the early 1980's by gas produced from coal. Columbia is also actively participating in gas exploration and development in the Gulf of Mexico and is preparing for Federal lease sales in the Atlantic outer continental shelf. There have been no firm dates established as yet for the Atlantic offshore lease sales.

County Board Approves In-Service Institute

The Pickaway County Board of Education, in their regular monthly meeting Thursday, approved an in-service institute to be held for Pickaway County teachers for two weeks beginning June 17. The institute is sponsored by the County Board in cooperation with Ohio University. A grant was received for $18,480.00. The county board will provide $900.00 with the other $17,580.00 being provided by state and federal funds.

Teachers will attend class eight hours per day for two weeks with follow-up sessions conducted by Ohio University professors during the school year 1974-75. Each teacher will receive eleven quarter hours of graduate or under-graduate credit and $75.00 per week stipend for the two week session.

The course is designed for teachers in grades three through six, elementary administrators, and teachers who have substituted in the county schools for five or more years will be given consideration. Teachers in the three local districts will be eligible to participate. The institute is designed to help third through sixth grade teachers from the three Pickaway County School Districts to develop counseling skills, to improve communication techniques and to better understand the behavior of children in their classrooms.

The goals of the institute are to help teachers develop (1) counseling and interpersonal communication skills, (2) skills in using standardized tests (3) group problem solving and group guidance producers in the classroom, (4) behavior modification techniques and (5) self-awareness in relation to how a teacher's behavior influences and is influenced by children. The instructional program will include lectures, discussions, a field trip, consultants, group process experiences and demonstrations of group procedures.
